The visiting gentlemen were served a delightful five o'clock dinner on Sunday at the home of Mrs. A. E. Tulley, thus testifying some of Wallowa's hospitality as well as her forests.—Wallowa Sun.

BAND CONCERT IS TO BE FINE

Tomorrow Evening Excellent Program to be Rendered for the General Public

"Aint We Got Fun"—that fascinating popular air which every school boy whistles on the way to the old swimming hole will be one of the numbers played Wednesday evening when the La Grande band gives another of its popular concerts. Southern melodies and the old classic "Boys of the Old Brigade," are other numbers on the program. Director Loney has picked an especially delightful number of pieces, and at the rehearsal last evening there were general good spirits because the initial reports of the workers for the needed funds to conduct the band showed first class success. Several teams have not been out, but if the same ratio is kept up, the institution will have enough funds to finish out the year by economical administration.

The program for tomorrow's concert, which will be given in front of the Foley hotel, beginning at 7:45 instead of 8 o'clock, is as follows:

1—March "Boys of the Old Brigade," —Chambers.
2—Overture, "Les Diamants de La Couronne," —Auber.
3—Serenade, "Love in Idleness,"—Macbeth.
4—Concert Waltz, "Violet," —Waldteufel.
5—Popular Song, "Aint We Got Fun?" —Whiting.
6—Selection "Southern Melodies," with incidental solos by Elmer McManus and Oscar Humphreys.
7—Star Spangled Banner.

Local News in Brief

Albert McCrary, who has undergone five perations for pur formation at the Grande Ronde hospital, is getting along as well as can be expected and is resting easy.

Loyal Sisters Will Picnic—
The Loyal Sisters of the Christian Church will meet at the City Park tomorrow afternoon. Cars will be at the church at 2:00 o'clock. If it should be raining the meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ida Shanks 1805 Third St.

Committee Meets Tonight—
The executive committee of the Ad Club will meet tonight at 5 o'clock, holding their session in the new quarters at the Y. M. C. A. where the managing secretary's office has been installed. The office phone number is Main 769.

Arrives Home—
Miss Vada Briggs arrived home last night on No. 18. She has been attending normal school at Pendleton, and after the close of the school session made a trip to Astoria and Seaside and spent a week at Knappa, visiting with her aunt, Mrs. W. R. King. She reports a very enjoyable time.

Circus Day Quiet—
Circus day went by this year without any reports being made to the police of unlawful acts, such as robberies, being committed. The circus crowds usually result in an influx of criminally inclined persons who take advantage of the absence of so many people from their homes, but so far as the police here could learn no robbers, burglars or pickpockets appeared with this year's circus, or, if they did they failed to practice their professions.

FORMER LOCAL WOMAN DIES

Miss Birdie Smith, cousin of Mrs N. A. Denilet of this city, and for many years a resident of La Grande died Saturday in Walla Walla where she has been making her home for several years. The remains are being brought to La Grande tonight on No 18.

Funeral services for Miss Smith will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the Bohnenkamp chapel. The remains will be placed in the White vault.

GRASS HAY IS GOOD IN VALLEY THIS YEAR

The hay fields of Union county are producing a big crop of native hay this year, the moisture having been abundant early in spring when lots of rain was needed. Everywhere the crop appears to be good and many farmers are cutting from a ton and a half to two tons per acre this year. This isn't a big crop for alfalfa, but for the wild hay that needs no attention and which provides pasturage a portion of the year, this is considered a heavy crop.

Along the foothill road a number of fields that have been cut show the biggest yields ever harvested there. On the Judge Knowles place is found one of the heavy cuttings.

COLLECTION OF FURS IS LARGE

Chris Miller Brings Home Some Valuable Specimens From Alaska

Chris Miller, who returned from a four months' trip to Alaska Saturday, where he spent most of his time trapping, brought back with him one of the finest collections of furs he has ever brought home.

A silver black fox is one of the outstanding features of the hundreds of skins he now has on exhibition at his home. Representatives of the Hudson Bay company told Mr. Miller that this was the finest skin that they had seen in over four years. The fur is unusually heavy and at the Hudson Bay company's Seattle store Mr. Miller was told that it was of such unusual value that there was no market for it among their customers.

The seal skins are also of interest. There are baby seal skins, as well as those of older seals. The day-old seals are trapped but the older ones must be shot. The fur on them is of various colorings and never comes out while the skin itself never lets water go through it. Mr. Miller says that water sheds off the sealskin just like off a duck's back.

Then there are foxes of many other colorings. One fine silver grey skin is included and there are many crosses between the red and silver grey as well as many red foxes. Many of the skins have already been made up.

Alaska muskrats also are found in large number in Mr. Miller's collection. There are 640 of these skins. Mink, whose coloring is identical in all specimens, are also found in large numbers, there being 460 of them. One notable feature about the mink is their size. They are almost of arm's length, and, as in coloring, they are all the same length. Martens and bear skins are in the collection too.

Besides these furs, Mr. Miller brought back with him a large assortment of Indian moccasins. Some are buckskin and some are mink, while others are sealskin. The latter are wear-resisting and Mr. Miller tells of one pair that has been worn two years and the fur on the soles has not been worn out yet.

Skins and moccasins are not all Mr Miller brought back with him. He has memories of fine fishing and of seeing some of the finest scenery he ever laid eyes upon. A view of Mt McKinley early one morning will stand out in his memory for many years, Mr. Miller says. He had been fishing at Mile 271, along the railroad, and early in the morning entrained for the coast. The mountain air was unusually light and as he got on the train he could see Mt. McKinley, which was about 50 miles distant, as plain as the Mt. Emily foothills can be seen from La Grande.

LOOKING GLASS TIMBER FIRE

About 30 acres were burnt over by a fire in the extreme north end of Union county on Looking Glass Creek. The burnt over territory was mainly in brush and small growth and little damage was done.

L. H. Russell, fire warden for the Union county fire association, directed the work of fighting the blaze, which took several days. The fire was started by lightning, which has been the cause of all but one fire in the county so far this year.

Another small fire was reported on Catherine creek by Assistant Warden Guy McNair, the damage being slight and no extra help being required to fight the fire.

"MUST WIN" SAYS PARSON MANAGER

Imbler Kids Prepare to Take Moscow Lads to a Cleaning on the Imbler Grounds Friday.

Without a doubt the high school grounds at Imbler will be taxed to capacity next Friday when the Moscow, Idaho, wonders come to Imbler to open the second series with the Imbler juveniles, who won fame and distinction by beating Walla Walla in 10 furious innings recently, and then hit a snag at Moscow last week. The arrangement of the series was that it was to be three out of five games. Imbler can pull herself out of a deep hole by winning the next two games to tie up the series and then a fifth game must be played, on which the real championship will hinge.

Rev. Lines, the Imbler coach who has done wonders with his team, explained yesterday that Valley Shores was compelled to pitch both games at Moscow because little Ray Keown could not make the trip. Ray will be in the line-up at the Imbler series. The stinging defeat at Moscow has whipped the Imblerites into rigid practice.

"We simply must win Friday's game," declared the Methodist clergyman, while distributing handbills here yesterday in company with Frank McKennon, who is another of the Imbler boosters.

Old Days Recalled By Paper of 1907

When Harry Proctor was rooming around the hills Sunday he came upon a deserted cabin once occupied by Peter Larm, who was murdered in the cabin some years ago. Making an investigation of the premises he discovered a copy of the La Grande Weekly Observer of March 8, 1907.

The old paper provided some interesting reading for a half hours' rest and he brought it along as a souvenir. The Observer was in those days a six column paper of four pages and published by Currey Brothers.

One news story commented on H. C. Ball's completing his first six years as mail carrier. At that time Mr. Ball was on Rural Route No. 1 and had never missed a trip since entering the service, covering 28 miles each day, or a total of 51,408 miles in the six years during which he made 1,836 trips. He delivered mail to 128 families at the time.

Mr. Ball's compensation was $500 for the first year, $600 the two years following and during the sixth year it had increased to $720.

Mr. Ball is still in the mail service here but he is now on a city route, delivering parcel post packages.

FORSSTROM WILL CHANGE LOCATION

Mayor of North Powder Intends to Locate in the Lower Country with Portland as Headquarters

Mayor Forsstrom of North Powder, accompanied by G. L. Garrison, banker of the same city, were among the visitors yesterday who came to this city. Not to see the circus, particularly, did these men visit La Grande, but, as the circus was here and there was little chance to do business because of the rush they naturally took in the show.

Locating in Portland within a very short time Mayor Forsstrom is going to say farewell to Union county in a business way. He has been a prominent man in local affairs, having at one time represented the county in the lower house of the legislature.

Mr. Garrison was looking for road bonds yesterday and was just about in the humor to buy $400,000 worth of highway bonds of Union county.
