ENID BENNETT IN "HER HUSBAND'S FRIEND"

Do you believe the second choice in love is sometimes the right one? When pretty Judith married Billy Westover, the quality in him that chiefly attracted her was a certain wild happy-go-luckiness. And that combined with his taste for surreptitious liquor and cabarets, led finally to their divorce, a few hours before Billy met his fate in front of a motor truck. Judith witnessed the accident, but she hadn't heard that a slump in the Stock Market had wiped out Billy's fortune just previously. No was she aware in the months that followed that Princeton Hadley, Billy's chum, was living up to an agreement and paying the alimony to her lawyer that should have come out of her ex-husband's estate. And when Judith discovered this, she also discovered that she was in love with Princeton.

How it all turns out is best left to Enid Bennett and the clever cast of players who are supporting her in her new Ince picture, "Her Husband's Friend," showing at the Sherry Theatre. Miss Bennett was never more winsome, and the romantic story by Marjorie Benton Cooke fits her like a glove.

Also the comedy "Don't Chase Your Wife."

"NOT GUILTY" HAS A WELL-BALANCED CAST

Sidney A. Franklin, whose initial independent production, "Not Guilty," has just been released by Associated First National Pictures, is one of the youngest directors to reach the top of the ladder in his line of endeavor. He is but 28 years of age.

Franklin already has a score of successful productions to his credit, among them being Mary Pickford's "Heart O' the Hills" and "The Hoodlum," Norma Talmage's "The Heart of Wetona" and "The Hidden City." His remarkable drama, "Unseen Forces," which was recently released, has met with great success everywhere. That the old adage "The Play's the thing" is the best policy for motion picture producers is followed in Franklin's sincere belief. Franklin is to make four special productions during the coming year, and he states that they will all be from stories which have had wide circulation as books or magazine stories.

No one will be starred in the Franklin productions, as he prefers to have a well-balanced cast throughout, as in the case of his current picture, "Not Guilty," in which Sylvia Breamer, Richard Dix, Molly Malone, Herbert Prior and Lloyd Whitlock appear in the leading roles. This photoplay will be the feature attraction at the Arcade theatre tonight only.
