The Ideal Laxative.
As a purgative, Chamberlain's Tablets are the exact thing required. Strong enough for the most robust, mild enough for children. They cause an agreeable movement of the bowels without any of that terrible gripping. They are easy and pleasant to take and agreeable in effect.—Adv

ZANE GRAY, THE MIRACLE MAN COMING TO THE STAR

Everyone knows that Zane Gray is a wonderfully popular writer. In fact, by far the most popular not only of the present day but of recent literary history. But how many know just how amazing popular he is? Even the man who is making Zane Gray's wonderful photoplays—Benjamin B. Hampton—says that he can scarcely keep up with the leaps, bounding, sales record of Mr. Gray's recent novels.

Since Mr. Hampton began making his big all-star photoplays of the Zane Gray novels, beginning about three years ago with "Desert Gold," the sales of those novels, and now of ones previously published and now in the hands of a reprint publishing firm, have broken all records. There is no doubt that the splendid photoplays are responsible for a part of this popularity, just as the popularity of the novels and the name of Zane Gray has caused crowds of the writer's admirers to see the photoplays. All of them, by the way, have been released by the W. W. Hodgkinson Corporation.

The re-creation of the novels and photoplays upon each other, coupled with the phenomenal popularity of Zane Gray's style and his literally universal appeal to all classes of mankind, has built up the most astounding demand for this author's books on record. His publishers, Harper Brothers, and the reprint publishers, Grosset and Dunlap, have been unable to fill orders. But most amazing of all is the fact that each succeeding work from Mr. Gray's pen far out-does previous ones, until it seems that there is no limit. "The Man of the Forest," one of the latest, has distanced his previous work just as far as the former work had outdistanced the one before.

"The Man of the Forest," in Benjamin B. Hampton's great photoplay comes to the Star theatre Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

A VERSATILE HICK THE ARCADE ATTRACTION

"A Live-Wire Hick," now showing at the Arcade theatre today and Thursday exploits the adventures of a country lad, who, after a week of unsuccessful search for employment in New York, writes his father a fantastic story of his wonderful deeds in the big city. It is full of thrilling and mysterious situations—and the personality and acting of William Russell, who stars as the country boy, keeps you "there" whether you are laughing or sympathizing with him in his half-baked ambitions and the predicament in which he so nonchalantly lands. But he is game clear through, his pluck wins out in the finish, and he meets the girl of his dreams, charmingly portrayed by Miss Francisella Billington.

The host of William Russell admirers will want to see him as "A Live-Wire Hick"—where his varied talents have full scope—where he caps a brilliant detective coup with a jump down a dark shaft of an elevator to fight single-handed two desperate thugs, and his blows sing right. Francisella Billington is first in her support and carries the role of the millionaire's daughter with perfect satisfaction to the audience. Her beauty and grace, enhanced by her tasteful gowning and her sympathetic acting, give her a high place in the estimation of the fans, young and old.

Harvey Clark, the great character actor, gives a truly rural and altogether delightful interpretation of the father of "A Live-Wire Hick." Others in this strong cast are Clarence Burton, Edward Peil and Carl Stockade.
