

Many things contribute to the appearance of age but nothing accentuates it half so much as an ill-corseted figure.

DOES your figure show a tendency to be rigid, to take on the inflexible appearance that is the treacherous betrayer of advancing years?

for you. Let her show you what she can do, checking her step by step in the truth-telling mirror. What you see will convince you that though we can't all be eighteen forever and ever, the charm of graceful lines and slenderizing proportions is possible to any woman at any age—provided she knows where to get her corsets. And with this unrestricted natural charm of line, comes back that subtlest and youthfulest of all the beauty gifts—grace.

DISEASE KILLS CLOVER WEEVIL

Natural Enemy of Parasite Prevents It Developing Into Serious Menace.

INSECT EXACTS LARGE TOLL

Pest Is Found in Practically Every Section of Country Where Clover Is Grown—Larvae Most Numerous During Spring.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

If it were not for an ever-present fungous disease, which is a powerful natural enemy of the clover-leaf weevil, this pest would develop into a serious menace to one of America's most important crops—clover. The clover-leaf weevil, even with this handicap, is one of the most dangerous of clover pests and exacts a large annual toll. The larvae of the weevil usually are checked by the fungous disease, which spreads rapidly and reduces their numbers to a negligible quantity in a remarkably short time.

Brought From Europe.

Like many pests now present in this country, the clover-leaf weevil was introduced accidentally from Europe, where it is well known. The first record of its occurrence as a pest in the United States was in 1881, when a severe outbreak occurred at Barrington, N. J. It is now found in practically every section of the country where clover is grown. Its chief food crop is clover, but it also feeds on alfalfa and sweet clover.

The adult weevil lays its eggs on the stems of the clover plant, and in early spring the larvae hatch and begin to feed as soon as the clover starts its growth. Larvae are most numerous during April, but beginning with May there is a gradual falling off in numbers, and by the end of that month or the middle of June, practically all have completed their growth and spun their pupal cocoons. The adult weevils, or beetles, emerge in from 5 to 16 days, and feed steadily on the clover plant for about two weeks, after which they become semidormant, or remain inactive until early in September. At this time they again become active and feed for about a month, during which the eggs are laid.

Hides During the Day.

Both the larvae and adult weevils feed during the night, and conceal themselves in the day under rubbish or in cracks in the ground. Usually they work on the underside of the leaves where they eat small holes and are not seen except by the careful observer. The most important check on the pest is the fungous disease, which kills the larvae in vast numbers during the summer months.

Harvesting a Good Crop of Clover for Hay.

During the months of April and May, and again in October or November, this disease is epidemic, and contagion is rapid and thorough that in from two to four weeks it is almost impossible to find living individual clover-weevils where previously there were thousands. This disease is well distributed in the United States and attacks numerous other insects. Wild birds and poultry, especially turkeys and chickens, are natural enemies to the insect and devour both the larvae and beetles.

Control measures consist in pasturing the clover in the fall or clipping it in the spring. Plowing under the second year's crop in the fall is recommended, not only to hinder the increase of the insect, but to control others which attack clover.

MAKE FARM HOMES PLEASING

Shrubs Should Be Used in Abundance to Hide Foundation Lines—Trees Give Shade.

Suitable plantings are necessary to unite the parts of a farmstead into a pleasing, homelike whole. Trees are used for windbreaks, as frames for the buildings or a background for them, and to give shade. Shrubs are needed to abundance to hide partially the foundation lines of buildings, support their corners, give reasons for turns in drives or walks and to screen unsightly objects. Native trees and shrubs and those known by trial to thrive in the locality are the best to use.

WARNING.

I will prosecute anyone found trespassing on the Promised farm with a gun. I will pay $5 for information that will assist in the successful prosecution for any such trespass.

Martial Swing of Famous Hymn.
Many hymns in the song books of modern churches, including some of the most popular and inspiring, are of martial swing and tempo. "Onward, Christian Soldiers" is the most popular of this class of religious songs. The Rev. Sabine Baring-Gould, English pastor, author and song writer, composed the words of "Onward, Christian Soldiers" in 1860. It was to be sung by children, and was written for a special occasion for which the pastor could think of no suitable marching song. He wrote it in one night.

The Key That Unlocks the Door to Long Living.

The men of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund, well-fed, but thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. Be as careful as he will, however a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, causing indigestion or constipation and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets to move his bowels and invigorate his stomach. When this is done there is no reason why the average man should not live to a ripe old age.—Adv.
