Turned From Sea to Stage.

That Douglas Jerrold, the great English dramatist, satirist, and one of the greatest of English wits, started life as a sailor, was evidenced in his bearing even late in life. Yet it is interesting that when Jerrold was only fifteen years old he wrote a comedy which later was produced and started him on his stage career, says the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

See Us Now About Your Battery
Suppose some queer trick of fate made you the owner of this service station and me the customer.
And I came in some day red hot because my battery had gone wrong—
And I had missed my train—
And I lost out on an important engagement—
And disappointed a good customer—
And stood to lose a lot of money—
You bet your life I'd be good and sore, but I'm mighty sure I couldn't ask for any more courtesy and consideration and square dealing and SERVICE than we are giving right now day after day.
The time I have us look at your battery is before anything happens.
