LIKABLE UNIVERSAL STAR COMING IN NEW WESTERN

Harry Carey has his most dramatic and sympathetic role in "Desperate Trails," the Universal photodrama which is to be shown at the Star Theatre for the first time locally on Saturday and Sunday.

Courtney Ryley Cooper wrote the story for the Red Book Magazine where it was widely read, and Jack Ford directed its production at Universal City and in Truckee, the picturesque snow-country of California.

The story deals with a man who goes to prison for another, finds that the girl he thinks he loves is unfaithful and returns to marry the widow of the man who caused his trouble.

Remarkable photography, the work of Harry Fowler, gives a thrilling dramatic quality to the big emotional scenes where the star is seen staggering across the trackless white immensity of snow to escape from the manhunters who pursue him as a train robber. Irene Rich, beloved among playgoers for her natural grace and sincerity, is Carey's leading woman, while Barbara LaMar, a talented dramatic beauty, plays the role of the unfaithful girl with dramatic power and daring.

"Desperate Trails" will be particularly pleasing to playgoers who like the noted star in fast action with a strain of pathos and humor to give his remarkable histrionic ability full scope.

Harold Lloyd introduces NEW WAY OF LION-CATCHING.

He was supposed to be the world's greatest hunter. In reality he had never hunted anything but collar buttons under the dresser. But when he—being Harold Lloyd, the inimitable Hal Rouch comedian—came face to face with the necessity of being a fearless trapper of big game, he caught a ferocious lion in a most amazing manner.

Harold had always been led to believe that you shoot a lion, but when ever he took aim at one lion, another one got in the way, so he concluded the only sure way was to sprinkle salt on the tail of the jungle king. You've no idea how such an action can chasten a lion!

If you doubt it, be "Among Those Present" with Harold Lloyd at the Arcade Theatre today and Saturday and receive an hilariously funny lesson on how to catch lions, foxes, rabbits, ducks and fish.

"Among Those Present" is Harold Lloyd's newest and second three-reel comedy for Associated Exhibitors. Like all Lloyd comedies, it contains a story, and this one relates the amusing and thrilling adventures that befell a specially ambitious hotel bell-hoo who impersonated an English Lord at a fox hunt. Mildred Davis continues as leading lady de luxe.
