DOINGS OF THE DUFFS

Why all the vaudeville? Well there's a mouse in this flat some place.

You'd better go down and tell the janitor that we have mice up here!

I'll tell him more than that!

Say, janitor, we've got rats up in our apartment!

We'll get some rat biscuits and put them around.

I will not! They'll eat what we do or they'll starve!

Cereal Plant to Be Built in Baker

BAKER, Nov. 1.—Based on years of experiment, study and experience, a new industry is about to be launched in Baker by W. E. Wilmer, who has his own specially built plant already installed for the manufacture of "Wheat-on" a blended whole wheat product made of selected county wheat. Wheat-on is composed of three varieties so blended as to secure a perfectly balanced food. Mr. Wilmer says, "many of my friends in Baker have used Wheat-on for the past three or four years and it is through their enthusiasm for its excellent qualities that the demand has grown until I am swamped with orders; not only from Baker residents, but many outside towns in Eastern Oregon and Idaho. Hence my decision to increase my facilities and place Wheat-on upon the market."

"JIM THE PENMAN" AT ARCADE THURSDAY

Tense, fast moving, gripping melodrama enacted by players of great histrionic ability is the promise held out by "Jim the Penman" when will be shown at the Arcade Theatre Wednesday only. Lionel Barrymore has the title role in the production, and the remainder of the cast includes most of the persons who gave such splendid characterizations to their parts in the previous Barrymore starring vehicles for Associated First National Pictures, Inc.

"Jim the Penman" is one of the most popular melodramas ever written and probably has been more widely staged by companies than any other stage production. In preparing the story for Mr. Barrymore, Mr. Whitman Bennett, the producer and Mr. Kenneth Webb, the director, rewrote the story to shift the scene of the action to America and the time to 1921.

Doris Rankin, Anders Randolph, Douglas MacPherson, Gladys Leslie, Arthur Rankin, Charles Coghlan, J. P. Laffey and Ned Barton are in the cast with Mr. Barrymore.

WOMAN QUAILS BEFORE A SPRIG OF HELOIOTROPE

Why should an innocent sprig of heliotrope placed upon the table occupied by a fashionably dressed woman and her escort at a cabaret cause her to blanch with terror and pass swiftly from the gay crowd?

Why did she barricade her door and stand ready with drawn revolver, just because she sniffed the faint aroma of heliotrope perfume in her room?

When you see "Heliotrope," the feature attraction at the Sherry Theatre today and tomorrow you'll say that there was reason enough.

This deeply appealing picture, adapted from the well known story by Richard Washburn Child, depicts the life of a father who will go to protect the happiness of his daughter. Without an instant descending into melodrama, it unfolds a plot that for sheer excitement has seldom been equaled.
