END BENNET'S LATEST PLAY DELIGHTS AUDIENCE

Hailing it as one of the best pictures shown in this city in many days, a capacity audience warmly applauded Edna Bennett's latest Paramount starring vehicle, "Silk Hosiery," on its presentation at the Sherry theatre yesterday. The production was in every respect up to the high Paramount standard and its triumph was most emphatic.

Miss Bennett is seen as a modiste's model—a romantic creature into whose dual life few joys have entered. But as her story develops, joys and tribulations, not to speak of thrills come with whirlwind velocity. The climax is a surprising one, but none the less enjoyable on that account. As the model, Miss Bennett adds another captivating figure to her numerous screen portraits.

The support is excellent, the work of the leading players being unusually artistic. These include Geoffrey Webb, Joan Standing, Donald MacDonald, Marie Davis, Derrick Ghent, Rose Thorne and others. Also showing a comedy.

"NO WOMAN KNOWS" SCREE N-MASTERPIECE NOW AT ARCADE

Like a terrific storm thundering its way across the country, leaving behind it upheaval and change, so does "No Woman Knows," cross the silver-sheet in a catyism of human emotions, struggles, ambitions and sublime selfishness.

"No Woman Knows," now showing at the Arcade Theatre until Friday night is a human document brilliantly and artistically expressed. It was adapted for the screen from "Fanny Herself," the powerful and dramatic novel by Edna Ferber and directed by Ted Browning, who here presents to the screen a new and original treatment of a big and appealing theme.

"Fanny Herself," the girl of the story, is portrayed by Mabel Poultenec Scott, who thereby achieves a new and high place in the photo-dramatic art. Miss Scott's portrayal of "Fanny" can in no wise be compared with any previous presentations of portrayals of character on the screen. She has achieved the distinction of standing entirely alone as "Fanny" and of having transcended the barrier of screen seltence by the potent power of pantomime and emotional feeling.

As the self-sacrificing sister, who devotes her entire life and all its possibilities to a talented brother, Miss Scott's art in numerous instances reaches unusual heights. With a sincerity and unaffectedness that can only result from a mental and spiritual understanding of the role, this slender girl becomes "Fanny," translated in terms of the silent drama—the lovable, devoted sister and daughter, who gives all that others may be happy.

Miss Scott is supported by an exceptionally capable cast including Earle Schenck, Grace Marvin, Joseph Swickard, Stuart Holmes, John Davidson, Max Davidson, E. A. Warren, Dick Cummings, Snitz Edwards, Danny Hoy, Raymond Lee, Bernice Radford, Joseph Stearns, Dorothy Deland and Eugene Forde.

"No Woman Knows," is destined to live as one of the truly great screen masterpieces of the present year, a credit to Universal and a forward step for the entire motion picture industry.
