MARKETING OF POTATOES UNDER WAY

ed at 1875. Digging was considerably earlier this year than last and this fact together with a favorable price induced an earlier movement of the crop. This matter of favorable price is considered to be the main factor in the heavy movement over the country as a whole.

Present indications are that the October estimates of 2,900,000 boxes of commercial apples this year in the state, is conservative. The United States commercial crop prospect as a whole declined about 2,000,000 bushels during October, and is now estimated at about 56,000,000 bushels, (18,600,000 barrels) compared with a final 1920 estimate of 111,717,000 bushels, (37,229,000 barrels).

Total export shipments from July 1st to October 29th, 1921, from Oregon as well as other "boxed apples," states have been nearly double the shipments for the corresponding period last year. The figures are, 28,592 carloads in 1921, and 15,702 in 1920. Of this number Oregon is credited with 2319 cars in 1921, and 935 cars in 1920. Total shipments from the slight boxed apple states of the 1920 crop amounted to 36,287 carloads, of which Oregon is credited with 3,173 cars. The 1921 boxed shipments are expected to exceed those of 1920 by about 39 percent.

Weight per measured bushel for Oregon is reported as follows: Wheat, 59; spring wheat, 59; oats, 55.5; barley, 48. For the United States the weights are, all wheat, 56.6; oats, 53.2; barley 44.4. Corn of the 1920 crop still on farms in the United States is estimated 8.7 percent of the crop, or 231,472,000 bushels. The 1921 corn crop prospect declined somewhat during October and is now estimated at 3,151,698,000 bushels.

October weather was very favorable for farm operations. Rather heavy rainfall occurred on the 25th of the month, prior to which time the soil had been rather too dry for plowing. Total precipitation for the month was somewhat below normal, and temperatures were somewhat above normal. Much seedling was done during the month and, new completed in most of the wheat belt. In the western part of the state fall seedling operations are well advanced and another week or ten days of favorable weather should enable farmers to practically complete their fall seedling. The early frosts (September) notwithstanding, delayed digging which largely accounts for the much larger movement of potatoes to date this year, as compared with last year. These early frosts also made an early harvest, and potato and corn fields were thus made available for early seeding to grain.

WHEAT IN PORTLAND.

PORTLAND, Nov. 14.—Wheat was from 37 cents to $1.01 today.

GAME WON IN LAST THIRTY SECONDS PLAY

The Armistice Day football game between the La Grande high school and Wallawa resulted in a defeat of the local team by a score of 13 to 10. All went well until the last thirty seconds of play. An intercepted forward pass gave the Wallawa team another touchdown, giving her the long end of the score after having been practically defeated.

At La Grande a team composed of members of the American Legion Post No. 43 defeated a team of high school alumni by a score of 7 to 0. The game was well played on both sides in spite of the fact that many of the players had not been in uniform regularly for a number of years.

Saturday the second team of the La Grande high school went to Union and allowed the Union high school to defeat them by a score of 7 to 6.

CHICAGO, Nov. 14.—The executive committee of the National Editorial Association Sunday selected Missouri, Mont., and Salt Lake as the places for holding the 1922 annual convention, next July. The dates will be fixed later.

Steam Replacing Water Power in Eaker Mine

BAKER, Nov. 14.—At the Ophir mine in Quartzburg district, near Padric City, a boiler for the Ward mill is being installed. Up to this time the mill has been run by water power; as the water supply is short it was impossible to run the mill only at certain times during the year. Mr. Ward is getting the mill in shape to make a 1000 ton test run in the Ophir mine owned by Jeff Forrester. This run will be made during the next few months.

This mine is a mountain of ice several feet in length and twenty feet in width, carrying about 80 in. of gold. There has been several thousand dollars spent in the development of this property by outside people. At this time Mr. Forrester has started a tunnel to tap the body of ore at a depth of something like 150 feet; this tunnel is now in 165 feet or better and will require about 150 feet further to reach the ore body. It is stated by mining men who have examined the property, that with this work completed and a mill on the property it would be on a paying basis.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 14.—Only 43 of the seniors in agriculture who will graduate next June were reared on farms, according to the registrar's files. Only one woman is in the agricultural class of '22, although several are registered in the school of agriculture.

The animal husbandry department is well represented in the class—24 being in that department. Horticulture claims 21, dairy husbandry 12, soils 8, farm management 6, agricultural economics 4, farm crops 3, general agriculture 2, and bacteriology, botany, farm mechanics and zoology one each.

EXILED KING ON WAY TO MADEIRA

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 14.—The British light cruiser Cardiff, bearing ex-Emperor Charles of Austria Hungary and his wife, Zita, to their exile on the island of Madeira, left today.

The departure of ex-Emperor Charles with his wife from the island of Madeira marks the passing, so far as Hungary is concerned with the house of Hapsburg, one of the most picturesque royal dynasties of Europe.

According to plans of the entente the ex-monarch and his wife are to be interned on the island of Madeira in a large sanatorium in the city of Funchal, Madeira is a Portuguese possession in the Atlantic ocean off the coast of Africa.

The action of the powers in exiling Charles came after the ex-monarch, seared out of Switzerland four weeks ago in an airplane and made a spectacular, but unsuccessful, attempt to regain the Magyar throne.

JAPAN WILL GET OUT OF SIBERIA AT EARLY DATE

TOKIO, Nov. 14.—The Young Men's Shinshu says Sunday that a cabinet council of Saturday decided on withdrawal of the Japanese troops in Siberia as soon as the agreement arrived at at the conference at Dairen has been signed. It is expected that the conference will be reopened today. The appointment of Baron Taka-hashi is generally regarded in political circles as a favorable indication of the waning of the power of the militarists and as insuring what is termed as a continuation of the "peaceful foreign policy of Premier Ham."

A New Kind of Girl

THE old-fashioned girl is gone, deplore her passing as we will. The modern girl has not yet found herself and her gets-as-it-comes given name for a alarm. But there are indications that this latter stage is drawing to its close and a new kind of girl is making.

One of those indications is the Girl Scout movement which this week celebrates its ninth year with a membership of 110,000. The Girl Scout is a three arms: To have a strong, healthy body, to be a good citizen and a good citizen.

There is no sliding of the scales of life in that triple aim. "What next one is a strong, healthy body is a matter of first importance. It is the only one that no man can say what the home of the future will be, but for the next generation at least it is safe to say that home training will continue to be woman's job. And the woman of tomorrow will be a Girl Scout.

The Girl Scout builds up her body by whole and entire life. Every Thursday and Girl Scouts were in camp this summer. A contribution for the coveted merit badges which, to date her mother, leads east to bring for baby brother and a learning to read, sewing and even—home's tasks which deserve a badge of honor. And as for citizenship, there is no better preparation than actual participation in civic work such as the Red Cross and other community organizations by volunteer members and first aid and many other activities in which the Girl Scouts are making a record of service.

A woman who is grounded rests upon a solid foundation, such as this is a Girl Scout. But the organization is not a mere kind words to give Scout training to all the girls who are learning for membership. We urge it upon our readers to join the Girl Scouts and the leaders to meet the demands of this new kind of American girl.
