FATS WANT TO BE MADE THIN

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A great many fat people in the United States and Canada avowedly want to become thin, but don't know how. By the hundreds they have been confessing this desire in letters to City Health Commissioner Copeland. Their selection of him as the person who might take a great weight off their shoulders was suggested by accounts of his recent mobilization of a reducing squad of fifty fat men and fifty fat women in New York.

These hundred heavyweights have been shrinking daily and the letters from outside New York inquire how Dr. Copeland does it. It's simple he says. Proper diet, regular exercise and proper living habits are all that is necessary.

"You cannot be happy unless your stomach is full," the doctor tells the fat folks. Then he explains what foods they should eat to keep happy, eliminating all those which produce fat. Some of the food they may eat in abundance are celery, buttermilk, radishes, endive, lettuce, tomatoes, water-cress, clams, whites of eggs, chicken without the skin, shad, white meat of lobster, coffee, pears, apples, grapefruit, lemons, oranges, rhubarb, lean meat and skimmed milk.

"The greatest mistake people make is in the selection of their food," Dr. Copeland contends. "The average meal is poorly balanced. This is particularly so of breakfast. Imagine wanting to get this on a breakfast like this: cereal and cream, hot muffins with butter and honey, sausage and possibly some fruit covered with sugar. This entire meal is made up of starches and sugar, which adds flesh and very often as an added offense it is washed down with tea, coffee, or cocoa saturated with sugar."

Dr. Copeland lets his squad eat fruit for breakfast, except bananas. He bars sugar, prohibits white bread, and opposes the drinking of water with meals because that makes the room and inclination for more food. Cereals are all right, he says if a tablespoon of bran is added instead of sugar.

He recommends Swedish exercises. But if the ambitious heavy insists on his calisthenics being 100 per cent American, the United States army setting up exercises are just as good as any other. These can be practiced within the privacy of the home provided the home is of sound construction and the neighbors pleasant. One of Dr. Copeland's squad confided that every time she began bending and jumping there came complaints from the occupant of the apartment below.
