CHARMING STAR IN NEW COMEDY, COMING

A story of an ugly duckling who came out of her shell—a story of the moonlight garden pest who turned into the social butterfly is Marie Prevost's newest Universal comedy-drama, "Nobody's Fool," coming to the Arcade theatre Wednesday only. Supporting the famous little star is Harry Myers, the noted comedian and famous "Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." Pretty Miss Prevost, with all her piquant charm and beauty is Polly Gordon in Roy Clement's story, which Doris Schroeder adapted for the screen. Her exquisite sense of humor and alluring personality are delightfully intriguing. Both as the pest whose awkwardness drives away men, and again as the butterfly who has inherited a fortune and is only one step ahead of her nearest suitor, her comedy is delicious. King Baggot has made the entertaining story into a rare comedy treat—a gem of pep and personality. Vernon Salsely, Percy Challenger, Lydia Titus, Helen Harris, George Kuwa, Mrs. Leocadia Harris and R. Henry Grey from a strong supporting cast.

"WHERE LIGHTS ARE LOW" AT SHERRYS

For logic and novelty of plot, for lavishness of scenery and fidelity to detail, Sessue Hayakawa's latest R-C Pictures vehicle "Where Lights are Low," is almost in a class by itself. The acting of Mr. Hayakawa, greatest of all dramatic artists, the story by Lloyd Osborne, step-son of Robert Louis Stevenson and the skillful direction by Colin Campbell combine to make this most recent R-C release one of the most finished productions of the year. Hayakawa portrays the role of a young Oriental prince whose love for the daughter of a gardener on his illustrious uncle's estate causes the complications upon which the play is built. His uncle insists that he wed the daughter of a wealthy mandarin but the princeling refuses and goes to America to acquire education and culture. Later the little daughter of the gardener is brought to America by slave dealers and the efforts of the young prince to win her back form the groundwork of a drama of the most gripping nature. A comedy also showing.

"A Man in Good Circumstances"

When a man is described as "in good circumstances" we picture a pleasant home, a happy family, a few luxuries, freedom from debt.

Such a man usually attains his enviable position through his own industry and thrift. Like Napoleon, he can exclaim "Circumstances? I MAKE Circumstances."

That such men always have savings accounts is not a happenstance but a self-create circumstance.
