JUGOSLAVIA EXPORTS FOOD

(By Associated Press)
AGRAM, Jugoslavia, Dec. 23.—Jugoslavia, for the first time in years, is exporting foodstuffs. She is sending out every day enough hogs to provide America with ham and bacon for a week. Of the three great household staples, butter, cheese, and eggs, she is also exporting immense quantities. Her abundance of food may be judged by the fact that the current price of butter is 17 cents a pound, of cheese, 15 cents a pound, and of eggs, 10 cents a dozen.

Deprived of horses and livestock during the war, the Serbians now are actually exporting animals by the thousands. They recently sold 20,000 horses to the Greeks. The countryside is swarming with sheep and goats, for which it is difficult to find a market. But pigs are the prize product of the kingdom. Every farmstead has hundreds of them. A young suckling can be purchased here for the price of a rabbit in the United States.

All through the war Serbia had to lean on other countries for its "staff-of-life," bread. But today her stocks of wheat are so great that she could return her war-time favors by feeding other countries. Her last crops have been among her greatest. A pound loaf of bread in any part of the kingdom costs three cents. The coarse black bread that during the war-time years held the nation together, is now only a memory. White bread and cake are the daily ration even of the poorest.

The little Slav state has made a truly remarkable recovery from the war. Everywhere one sees great abundance in all the necessities of life, happiness and health among people, and a definite effort at reconstructing the country.

The country's marvelous rehabilitation may be set down as due principally to the industry, common sense and determination of her thrifty men and women; secondly, to the absence of Bolshevism; thirdly to the immense moral impetus given the population by America and other generous neighbors in the days when the country was destitute and tottering.

The aid given by such organizations as the American Relief Commission was especially timely and effective. Rifles and swords of the sanguinary days of 1914-17 are now replaced by the scythe and ploughshare. As an earnest of her desire for peace she has today in uniform only 175,000 soldiers, a relatively small number for a nation of 16,000,000 people.

BOLL WEEVIL IS HONORED

ENTERPRISE, Ala., Dec. 23.—The first monument to the boll weevil—the greatest enemy of cotton—has just been erected here.

Coffee county planters expressing "profound appreciation" for the ravages of the cotton enemy have erected a beautiful bronze fountain in the heart of the business district here. It is a monument to the foe that conquers the county, it is expanded, and then pointed the way towards prosperity and new hopes.

Growers of cotton who fathered the erection of the monument to the weevil, declared that the cotton enemy had been a blessing in disguise in that it had brought about diversification of crops and thereby established a new era in the South.

The inscription on the fountain reads:

"In Profound Appreciation of the Boll Weevil and What It Has Done as the Herald of Prosperity This Monument Is Erected by the Citizens of Enterprise, Coffee County, Alabama."

The one-crop South has become as a result of the terrible ravages of the weevil, an agricultural country which in the future will become self-supporting, according to the Coffee county planters, who have adopted the slogan, "A Sow to a Plow." The disease that threatened to ruin the rain the South, these farmers declare, has been effectively checked by the advent of the weevil, and new conditions brought about which mean future growth and agricultural prosperity.

or evaporated, other than candied, canned, crystallized, ylated or stuffed; vegetables, fresh or green, dried or evaporated; wool and mohair.

"This 10 per cent reduction to continue in effect for an experimental period of six months, ending June 30, 1922."

MAY HOLD ELECTION VOID.

(By Associated Press)
WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 23.—After suffering all the hardships of a perilous expedition into the frozen north to obtain the vote of the recent election, the dominion election expedition returned Tuesday, lacking two of the nine ballot boxes of Springfield, constituency. Because of this the election officials are considering declaring the election invalid.

Wealthy Family To Reach Up Towards Heaven, Is Plan

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.—Approval of plans for a thirty-eight story building to replace the Crocker National bank building at the junction of Market, Post and Montgomery streets, was announced here by William H. Crocker, following his return from the east.

The building will cost more than $4,000,000, be 800 feet high and contain 1000 offices.

While consent of all heirs to the Crocker estate to the construction of the building has been obtained a definite date for beginning construction has not been set. Construction, however, will begin as soon as conditions permit, it was announced.
