NEW WORLD SCHEME BORN

(By Associated Press)
 PARIS, Jan. 6.—The linking of groups of the principal countries of the world into high-power transmission systems from which electrical energy sufficient to provide a large portion of commercial and transport needs could be taken is one of the problems which the International Electrical Conference in Paris has under discussion.

The meeting brought together delegates from 12 countries including the United States and Canada. Electricity as a means of moving trains, ocean steamships and turning the wheels of industry is about to come into its own, according to the delegates and the only thing that prevents tremendous developments in electric energy is the present high cost of materials and the expense attached to changing from steam and other methods to electricity. Nations had enough potential electrical energy in their waterways to eventually abandon the use of coal experts at the conference said, but only government financing could provide sufficient funds to harness this dormant power.

The American delegates surprised the European experts when they outlined the extent to which electricity is made to work for the American people. The invasion of the American home by such labor saving devices as electric stoves, dishwashers, irons etc., amazed many of the delegates who represent countries where as yet electricity has not figured in the home except in supplying light.

The conference studied methods for the standardization of equipment necessary in connecting the various high power transmission systems. With such an international power arrangement as suggested France may in the near future supply electrical energy to the Balkan States and points as distant as Poland and Russia.

The delegates were surprised at the progress made in electrical development in France since 1918. The use of French rivers in generating electrical energy will eventually place France second to none in the manufacture of electricity in the opinion of the delegates.

LAST DAY.
 Tomorrow will be the last day of the demonstration of the Parisian Perfected Art Embroidery needle at Hill's Department Store. These needles will not be carried in stock by any store, so if you wish one you must get it tomorrow before the store closes. 1-6-11
