Joe Sommer and Barney Martin Will Open Modern Institution in the Foley Hotel Building

Joe Sommer and Barney Martin are in Portland and Seattle at present for the purpose of purchasing an opening stock of harness and saddles, along with the usual accessories that go with such business and upon their return will open a modern institution of this kind in one of the Adams group-rooms of the Foley hotel building. "I have been noticing that the horse is coming back into its own," said Mr. Sommer, "before leaving for the city, and with the horse's return to industrial life comes the need for harness. Also the saddle horse is back to stay for people cannot live and live right without having horses around them. This calls for a saddle line and we are going to put in the most modern obtainable."
