LAUGHTER AND NOVELTY.

Laughter and novelty top the vaudeville at the Arcade Theatre on Monday next. James and Jessie Burns are the novelty headliner of this all-star bill in their somewhat different wire act featuring the barrel slide in a common sugar barrel. This is a combination of tight and slack wire still walking, running, jumping, fancy steps on tight wire and bicycle riding. This offering is brimming over with feats that show these artists to be as much at home on the wire as they are on the street. Jete Sanford, that funny character delineator as the Chore Boy, whistling, talking and yodeling comedian. He is the original Knight of Columbus Overseas Entertainer. Drisko and Earel, furnish their share of laughter in a rollicking rapid fire comedy skit of originality and fun. This vehicle show only the humorous side of everyday life. Louis and Lydia open the show with a lively comedy entertaining offering called "Stockings," which show their talents to good advantage. Another feature picture will be added to this meritorious vaudeville bill.

AT SHERRYS SUNDAY, MONDAY The invisible connection conjectured to exist between this world and the so-called "world of spirits" is strikingly discussed in "Buried Treasure." The hypothetical thread of communication which many authorities believe connects the living with the dead, is vividly shown in a series of episodes which are startling in their subtleties of reality. The story begins with a masquerade at a millionaire's villa at which the host, the heroine's father, known as "The Pirate of Wall Street," with grim humor selects the costume of a pirate. The other guests attire in antique costume. Pauline Vandermuelen, the daughter, has an indefinable feeling that long ago she had worn the same garments and was a Spanish senorita. There are many picturesque incidents, beginning with a love affair between Pauline and a young physician, Dr. John Grant, which her father, desiring that she marry the unscrupulous Duc de Chavannes, proceeds to interrupt, declaring that he will announce her engagement to the nobleman and that they will sail in the morning on a yachting cruise. Pauline introduces Dr.

Grant into the yachting party by a subterfuge. Pauline, balked in her love affair, becomes distraught. In a sort of trance, she writes some mysterious messages which puzzle the yachting party but which later prove to be a guide to a certain locality which they are cruising. Later, she falls into another trance when her mother desires that she read to her, and a ghostly form, resembling Dr. Grant, in ancient costume, directs her to a book on piracy in the yacht's library. She reads and as she proceeds the scenes described appear to her in a vision—and to the audience they appear vividly on the screen. Her father and the nobleman appear to her as pirates, and she and Dr. Grant appear as heroine and hero. In the end she is led to the scene of actual buried treasure, but with her father, and by means of the treasure trove her young impoverished sweetheart is enabled to marry her. Also showing a comedy.

FEARLESS DICK AT SHERRYS TODAY ONLY From boyhood on upward till the hair is grayed with age prairie stories are popular reading matter. "Fearless Dick" is a tale of the plains, the first of a series of practical productions which are being made starring Dick Hatten, the well known western actor. "Fearless Dick" was directed by Park B. Frame, the director who was responsible for a number of pictures in which Frank Borzage played the leading role before becoming a director to make the famous "Humoresque." Frame has done creditable work in "Fearless Dick."

Hatten is a western actor who really can act, is quick on the draw and makes love to the pretty heroine in a way to start him mired along the road toward being a matinee idol. The cast includes players who have been seen in popular pictures for several years. They include Henry J. Hebert, long a Fox "villain" in Tom Mix and William Parson pictures; Otto Lederer, the recent Vitagraph director; Dick La Reno, whose work in the stage version of "The Virginians" gave him a definite place in the hearts of theatergoers for all time. Catherine Craig, who has been entrusted with feminine role is a remarkably pretty girl. She has charm, acting ability, and in all of her scenes there is an evident sincerity of purpose. Also showing Mutt and Jeff.

TOM MIX MAKES BIG HIT IN NEXT PICTURE. The appearance of Tom Mix, the William Fox star, in a new picture is always an event of interest—and always, too, it has been an event satisfactory in the outcome. But there are degrees of satisfaction; and it may be said of "The Big Town Round-Up," in which Mix is to be seen at the Star Theatre today an sSunday, that it is likely to be voted the most satisfying play in which he has appeared on the screen. In "The Big Town Round-Up," of which William Melrose Raine is the author and Lynn F. Reynolds is the director, Mix has a fine supporting company, headed by Ora Carow as leading woman. Among the members are Harry Dunkinson, Laura LaPlant, Gilbert Holmes, William Buckley, "Billie" Elmer and William Crinley. A two-reel comedy featuring Joe Martin is also being shown.

MARIE PREVOST IN "A PARSIAN SCANDAL" AT ARCADE SUNDAY. Usually a picture of Paris is not considered complete unless it embodies a great many scenes of the underworld, Apache dens and dazzling cafes. It's the Paris of this atmosphere; that motion picture fans have long been used to seeing on the silver screen. But in "A Parsian Scandal," the Universal photoplay starring Marie Prevost at the Arcade Theatre Sunday only, the real Paris is shown. The heroine is a typical Parisian debutante, addicted to most of the petty "bad habits" of the class with which she associates, but in no way the hard hearted vamp that Parisian girls are often represented as being. With a foreign count in the background, determined to marry Laene if he can get rid of his former love, a Parisian chorus queen, the plot thickens for Prof. Hammond. A Snub Pollard comedy will also be shown.
