THE HAIT' LAST DAY AT THE SHERRY THEATRE

A group of ex-service men declared that they received as great a thrill as going "over the top" when they took part in Maurice Tourneur's new picture, "The Hait' Last Day at the Sherry Theatre" chief attraction of the Sherry Theatre for the last times today.

One of the big scenes in this picture shows a lion escaping from his cage in a vaudeville stage and leaping into a box in which the heroine is seated. Mr. Tourneur desired to secure four or five men with iron nerve to occupy the box with Kops Hampton, who plays the heroine, when this scene was made. He finally succeeded in securing several ex-soldiers to take the job.

They went through with their task perfectly. So did the lion. He entertained himself squarely over their heads towards the rear of the box, where Miss Hampton, and just behind her, a piece of raw meat awaited him. The ex-soldiers fared better than the pretty actress. She was clawed severely about the arms before the director shouted, "Cut!" Also showing a comedy.

WONDERFUL CAST IN "THUNDERCLAP"

Mary Carr, the great mother of "Over the Hill," will come to the Star Theatre Friday for three days, via the race track picture, "Thunderclap." With her will be seen Violet Messerow, Barney Sherry, John Daly Murphy and other notable screen actors and actresses. This remarkable spectacle comes directly from the Capitol Theatre, New York, which William Fox selected for its extended Broadway run.

AUTOMOBILE BANKRUPT SALE

The undersigned will sell, at ten o'clock in the forenoon, on February 20th, 1922, at La Grande, Oregon, to the highest accepted bid for cash, all the remaining stock, fixtures, parts, accessories, office fixtures, etc., as shown by the inventory of same, belonging to the bankrupt estate of the Inland Motor Company. Said property is located at La Grande, Oregon, and a branch place of business at Enterprise, Oregon. An inventory and inspection of all said property can be seen and made at pieces of business of said company, at La Grande, and Enterprise, Oregon, by applying to the undersigned.

Terms of Such Sale

An intending purchaser shall send to the address of the undersigned at La Grande, Oregon, a sealed bid, for either the separate property at either Enterprise or La Grande, Oregon, or the entire property at both places, to be received not later than ten o'clock in the forenoon of February 20th, 1922, accompanied by a certified check of not less than 10 percent of such bid, payable to the order of the undersigned, the amount of such check to be applied on purchase price of bid, if accepted, and forfeited to the estate of said company, if the bidder fails to comply with terms of sale, on demand. If bid is not accepted, check to be returned to bidder. It is a part of the condition of any bid that the successful bid shall be credited with the appraised value of any item or items named in said inventory, that may have been disposed of prior to date of acceptance of bid. Undersigned reserves the right to reject any and all bids, and the acceptance of any bid shall be subject to approval of creditors, and confirmation of sale by referee.

Dated at La Grande, Oregon January 30th, 1922.

H. A. BODMER, Trustee Bankrupt Estate Inland Motor Company, a private corporation.

There are many thrills, laughs and heart throbs throughout the picture and there is reason to believe that the photoplay will cause a sensation when it reaches here.

ALICE BRADY HERE TONIGHT

Alice Brady in "Dawn of the East," a Regal production, is the current feature at the Arcade Theatre. Most of the scenes are laid in China, and the picture is one of the most gorgeous as well as gripping dramas in which the star has ever been seen.

Clyde Cook in a two-reef comedy special is also on the program.

WONDERFUL THING WITH NORMA TALMADGE STARTS TOMORROW

Probably Norma Talmadge has never done more traveling for a single picture than she did in the making of the story of "The Wonderful Thing," her latest production distributed by Associated First National Pictures, which will be the attraction at the Arcade Theatre, beginning Thursday. The action in the story runs from the ancestral home of an aristocratic English family to a hog ranch in Iowa, and Miss Talmadge and her company had to travel many miles before covering all the "locations" selected for the filming of the various parts of the story.

The English scenes were not so hard, for within a few miles of the Talmadge studios, located in the heart of New York, there are duplications of practically every style of architecture that can be found on the "light little life." The hog ranch was the scene which caused the traveling, for the nearest one which could be found, and which approached in size the one demanded by the story, was that operated by the Bradley-Harbold company at Centerville, Iowa. The hog ranch is the home in the story of Miss Talmadge, who plays the part of Jacqueline Boggs, and as the scenes taken there concern matters apart from most of the other players, the only members of the cast who made the trip, in addition to Miss Talmadge, were Harrison Ford, Howard Truesdale and Robert Agnew.

Others in the cast are Mrs. Lydia Hoyt, the New York society beauty, who has sought work in pictures as a relief from the usual routine of society; Ethel Felming, Mabel Best, Fanny Burke, Walter McEwen and Charles Craig.

NEW BASIS OF OWNERSHIP

PORTLAND, Feb. 8.—Practically all the players on this year's Portland club of the Pacific Coast Baseball League will be owned outright by President Klepper and his associates.

Portland, as a result, still has a team which is not more or less a "farm" for some major league club whose players are on the coast on an optional agreement or loan.

"I never did shine up very much to the policy of some major league club owners in permitting their teams to become "farms" for major league outfits," Klepper said recently.

"The 'farm' policy means that the major league team just loans the use of the players and can recall the minor league team any time it wants to recall some of its own men.

"Of course, the policy means uncertainty and a poorer type of baseball. It's all right for the Class B or C league but it does not go very well in Class AA.

"I think the fans like to know that the players are owned by the club. They also like to feel that the club is ready to go out and buy players when they are needed, instead of just accepting them as a 'loan' from a farm.

"When you own them you can land them as you please and when you sell the good ones you can demand and get good players in return around which to build our club the following year. In that way you are not always at the mercy of some major league club."

"As long as I am in baseball, and I hope to be in it for a good many years, I do not expect to handle many players on optional agreements from the majors. Now and then it's all right to take a player or two that way but I like the policy far better of owning my own players.

Legion for the benefit of unemployed ex-soldiers, has a good, comfortable clients.

The confirmed "floater" is taboo at this time—its avowed purpose being not to supply a home for professional men-do-wells, but to provide temporary, comfortable shelter for ex-service men who are earnestly seeking a position. Army regulations are observed solely with regard to health and sanitation. In the morning, when a patient is "called," he is requested by the management (who never was a sergeant) to make his own bed. He is then given his fill of doughnuts and coffee and thus fortified goes out to rustle a job. He cannot "fall in" again until 6 o'clock in the evening.

The hotel maintains in its lobby an employment bureau, which registers all ex-service men and keeps them informed as to industrial conditions and needs.

There are accommodations for 150 guests, and as soon as a man finds satisfactory employment he is no longer eligible for "room and bath," thus making way for a less fortunate buddy who is still looking.
