U. OF C. HAS BRIGHT HOPES

(By Associated Press)
 BERKELEY, Calif., Feb. 20.—Barring accidents, the University of California this spring will have the greatest baseball team in its history, according to Carl Zamlock, varsity coach.

Ten veterans are on the baseball squad and are being pressed by a large number of men who have yet to earn their black letter on the diamond.

Four first-rate pitchers, Mike Monon, Bill McHenry, Paul Morse and Paul O'Neil, solve the hurling question for Zamlock. Behind the bat Thompson and Ebe are working out. The recent retirement of Catcher "Crip" Toomey was a blow to the team but Zamlock thinks Ebe or Thompson will be able to handle the job.

In the infield, Charley Erb, captain-elect of the 1922 football team, is on second base; George Wankb is at third and Captain Makin plays short. Remier will be on first.

"Blick" Muller, California's all-American football end, is leading a squad of candidates for outfield positions. Rodebaugh is the only veteran trying out for outer garden work.

NEW SYSTEM OF COACHING

(By Associated Press)
 SOUTH END, Ind., Feb. 21.—A system of football coaching which includes boxing, wrestling and skating as methods of making All-American stars out of men who previously had never played the game, is partly responsible for placing Notre Dame university's grid-iron eleven among the country's leaders for several years.

This system and a scholastic arrangement which brings some of the students through a course of outdoor activities almost from the kindergarten to the athletic field, are looked upon as the secrets of Notre Dame's athletic supremacy, testified to by a football record which includes only one game lost in three years—to Iowa, 10 to 7 last fall, and consistent triumphs over eastern teams.

Knut Rockne, the football coach, attributed his success to the "never say die" spirit of his athletes. The school authorities, however, give Mr. Rockne's unique coaching system most of the credit, this system being explained by the mentor as follows:

"All of the candidates for end on the football team go through a course of boxing. This makes them shifty on their feet, teaches them to stand hard knocks without losing their feet, to keep their wits no matter how hard they are hit and never to lose sight of the objective—the man with the ball.

"The linemen, during the off season, go through a course of wrestling. This makes it hard for the opposing players to shove them back and improves their leg and arm muscles.

"The backfield men do a great deal of skating. Thus they learn to move quickly—improving their dodging—and to stop or make sharp turns without tearing their muscles."

Mr. Rockne gave three requisites for a man trying for a Notre Dame athletic team:

1. Speed. 2. Brains. 3. Good class grades.

The success of his ideas is shown by the number of "Rockne-made" men on every Notre Dame eleven since he has been coach—men who never played football until he took hold of them. Some of these are Johnny Mohardt, All-American back, the late George Glipp, All-American back and conceded to be the greatest forward passer of modern times; Roger Kiley, All-Western end; Chester Wynne, All-Western Full-back; Smith, All-Western guard; Gus Deseh, star back and member of the American Olympic team; Mahre, a first-rate lineman. None of these men thought of playing football until Rockne got them out after noticing that they had his three requisites—speed, brains and good grades.

Another factor in the school's athletic success is the arrangement of departments and the intra-mural contests. First comes the mime department—the youngsters in grade school. Then comes the junior division—corresponding to high school—and finally the university itself. Mr. Rockne watches the youngsters closely, helping many of them develop as they pass through the different departments.

Every dormitory and class has athletic teams, coached by varsity players. Intense rivalry results in many stars being brought out through these games.

There are no co-eds, and consequently few social functions. The students, from the time they are "minors" to the university concentrate on sound mind and sound bodies, dividing their time equally between class room and athletic field. They grow up out of doors and are always in perfect physical condition.

The big part played by physical development in the student's lives in no way detracts from their class work, for the records show that most of the athletes make unusually high grades and their extra athletic activities simple take the place of the afternoon teas popular at some schools.

RIVER BOATS ARE PROPOSED

ASTORIA, Feb. 21.—Taking up the suggestion made by several Inland Empire commercial organizations, the Port of Astoria commission has ordered an investigation of the possibility of establishing a river steamboat line between Astoria and other points on the Columbia river as far upstream as Pasco, Wash.

Chambers of commerce and commercial clubs in several cities east of the Cascades have agitated the establishment of such a steamboat service to the commission as a means of providing cheaper transportation of the hay, grain, flour, fruit and wool produced in the Inland Empire to a seaport, where again it would find available the cheaper rates afforded by ocean steamships for conveyance not only to markets overseas but to the Atlantic coast.

How great a saving this can be is shown by the fact that goods can be shipped from Oregon by water to New York and thence by rail as far as Ohio for the same cost that they can be shipped overland from Oregon to Ohio.

During the past year Astoria has handled large quantities of Inland Empire hay and grain over its huge marine terminals and today it has improved steamship service available. Shipments are expedited by being sent to Astoria, which is within 11 miles of the open sea. It is to afford an adequate and economical means of laying Inland Empire produce down on the Port of Astoria terminals that the commission is investigating the Astoria-Pasco steamboat proposal.

Although plans for the service are at present indefinite, the idea would be to run a regular steamboat line between the two terminals of the route, probably exclusively for freight. Riverside communities would be able to place their products directly upon the river steamer, from whence they will be transferred into the holds of ocean-going steamers by the modern electric cargo handling devices at the Port of Astoria terminals. One branch of shipping to which the Inland Empire cities have already been contributing large amounts of freight is the Hawaiian run. There is a direct, monthly service which leaves Astoria for all the principal ports in the Hawaiian Islands. These possessions of the United States are, in particular, an avid market for alfalfa hay, the shipping of which, with other inland products, from Astoria, would be greatly simplified by the establishment of an Astoria-Pasco steamboat run.

AMUSEMENT TAX HEAVY

(By Associated Press)
 PARIS, Feb. 21.—The amusement tax, which is levied on the poor of the city, has produced a record total for 1921, 27,000,000 francs having been collected, compared with 22,500,000 in 1920.

There are now 542 theaters, concert halls and moving picture theaters in the city, and 700 dancing halls.
