CONSTANCE TALMADGE AND HARISON FORD HUMOROUS COUPLE IN "WEDDING BELLS"

Local movie fans agreed last night that in "Wedding Bells" Constance Talmadge has scored one of her most pleasing hits. The story is from the stage play by Salisbury Field, and has been made funnier by the injection of a number of additional comedy situations and the clever acting of the star and her supporting cast.

On the eve of his marriage, Reggie meets Rosalie after not having seen her for a year. He tries to convince himself that his love for her is a thing of the past; but without success. He even allows himself to be thought in a compromising position in order to make the other girl like him; but the new girl insists on giving her honeyed words of forgiveness.

The picture is indeed a joyful merry-go-round of wedding bells with the chimes hitting on twelve cylinders and playing jazz time. The production was directed by Chet Wilkey, and is an Associated First National release. It will continue at the Arcade Theatre today and Saturday.

Ham Desmond Productions, from the original story of H. H. Van Loan, who wrote "The Virgin of Stamboul," and many other screen successes, William Desmond, star of the stage and screen, has another of those thrilling outdoor adventures, filled with love, romance and adventure.

In the character of a hard-riding youth, he shocks the passengers on the overland limited, fights his way to friendship among his comrades in the Border Patrol and then furnishes many thrills in his daring rescue of the girl of the train from a bandit gang.

In the notable cast supporting Desmond are Virginia Brown Faire, as leading lady; Rosemary Theby, who had the leading feminine role in "A Connecticut Yankee"; Doris Pawn, Joseph J. Dowling, William Lawrence, Emmett C. King, Jack Richardson, William J. Dyer, Bert Lindley, George Stanley and Vernon Snelville.

"Fighting Mad" was directed by Joseph J. Franz and photographed by Harry A. Gersted.

JOSEPH DRAKE

"When I say that I weigh twenty-five pounds more than I did a short time ago it speaks volumes for the merit of Tanlac," said Joe. B. Drake, 430 Belmont Ave., Springfield, Mass.

"The first thing Tanlac did for me was to give me an appetite and tone up my stomach. It wasn't long before I was eating things I hadn't dared touch for years and anyone to see the heavy way I eat now would find it hard to believe that a few weeks ago I was dyspeptic and living on the lightest kind of diet."

"Another good thing Tanlac did for me was to dry the rheumatism almost entirely out of my system. In fact, I can truthfully say it has made me feel like a new man in every way. It certainly is a grand medicine."

A single person who is the head of a family is entitled to an exemption of $2,000 or $2,500, according to the amount of his net income, if on December 31 he was supporting in one household one or more relatives. If, however, the support of such relatives ceased during the year he is allowed an exemption of only $1,000. The same rule applies with respect to dependents, a person dependent upon the taxpayer for chief support and under 18 years of age, or incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective. If such dependency ceased prior to December 31, 1921, the $400 exemption for dependents does not apply. Boys and girls who became self-supporting during the year, and whose parents do not or may not appropriate their earnings, form a new class of taxpayers. Each, if single, must file a return if the net income for 1921 was $1,000 or more, or if the gross income was $5,000.

Widows and Widowers.

A widow or widower is not required to show on an individual return the income of husband or wife who died during the year up to the date of death. The income of a deceased person is considered separately with respect to the filing of a return by an executor or administrator. The deceased is entitled to exemption for the full year based upon his status at the

Chinese May Not Have Been Mixed Up In Taylor Death

(By Associated Press) LOS ANGELES, Feb. 24.—A Chinese bearing the name of Wong Lee—the same as that of the Chinese said by Harry M. Fields, in Detroit, to have been a member of the group of persons he drove to the home of William Desmond Taylor the night the film director was murdered—left Los Angeles Chinatown two days ago. It was announced Thursday night by sheriff's deputies at work on the case.

The officers said they had nothing to lead them to believe that the Chinese had anything to do with the slaying of Taylor, but they pointed out that his departure was simultaneous with the first intimations from Detroit that Fields might have important information in connection with the case.
