Card Party is Enjoyed—
A card party was given at the home of L. E. Standley, last Tuesday evening. Ice cream and cake were served and everyone had a very enjoyable time. The party broke up shortly before midnight, and one of the guests, a prominent farmer of that district, on returning was lost in a blinding snowstorm, and wandered around in his wheat field for some time. His neighbors are inclined to discredit his statement that he let his team take their course, as they say that a good road was broken all the way to his home, which any sensible team would have followed. Those who looked over his tracks the next morning say that it would break a snake's back to try to follow them. His neighbors, however, are congratulating him that he reached home in time to do his morning chores.

anese Crown Prince during his visit to England a year ago.

The rope of pearls was Viscount Lascelles' wedding present to his betrothed.

Donations of money, most of them to be used in the purchase of gifts of Princess Mary's own selection, have come from the City of London, the Girl Guides, British residents of Paris, from Dunes and various other nationals living in the United Kingdom, from various charitable organizations, army, navy and air force units with which the princess came in contact during her many war-time activities, and one tremendous fund which represents the good will of "the Marry of the British Empire."

Rare Furniture.
Intimate friends of Princess Mary have sent rare bits of furniture. Members of the royal family have given an historic clock of the Stuart period. The king's watermen gave a reproduction in silver of the ancient royal barge; the friends of the poor a handsome fire screen in Chippendale style; the citizens of Liverpool a magnificent diamond bracelet; citizens of Glasgow an elaborate mahogany dressing table fitted with finely cut crystal requisites.

The Society of Women Artists has arranged for Mrs. Hekoney Ward to paint a portrait of Princess Mary as a gift from that organization. The Clan MacDougal sent a replica "Brooch of Lorn," an ornament that has an ancient history. Legend says it was worn by Robert Bruce when the Brothers MacDougal tried to capture him after the battle of Methven. A struggle ensued. The clasp gave way, so the brooch remained with the MacDougal.

Likes Gold Plate.
Princess Mary has expressed a liking for an unique service of gold plate that formerly belonged to King George the First. It is now in private hands. The service is said to be worth 10,000 pounds. The royal crown and motto are in the center of each of the 18 pieces, six of which are fan-shaped, forming one large circular dish when placed together. The service was made by a Huguenot refugee in 1714. One of the many funds subscribed throughout the Empire for the purchase of presents selected by the couple will be used in procuring this magnificent service.

True Shape HOSIERY
To thousands of discriminating women absolute hosiery satisfaction has been summed up in one number—TRUE SHAPE No. 564. If you haven't worn TRUE SHAPE No. 564, ask us to show you these stockings—and then please take note of these features:
FIRST, you will be impressed with its beautiful silky texture—these note the patented "cross-stitch" in the center top which prevents runs. And while you're examining the "cross-stitch" note the flare top, which makes the stocking so "comfy" where it's often tight and binding. Now look at its shaped and fashioned leg, the narrow, close-fitting foot. And its heels and toes are four-ply yarn. Well—just buy one pair, and then see how easy it will be to always remember TRUE SHAPE No. 564.
