ARE YOU AS GRITTY AS WM. S. HART IN HIS PHOTOPLAY "THREE-WORD BRAND."

Would you have the nerve to walk into a governor's office, sign pardons, refuse to sign machine bills and otherwise upset the plans of political lunchmen—even if you were the executive's twin brother, as like him as two peas in a pod? That is the crux of "Three Word Brand," the new Paramount picture produced and starred in by William S. Hart, which will be the feature at the Star Theatre for two days beginning Saturday. The title is derived from the central character's tactlessness in the matter of speech. Three words usually serve him.

Mr. Hart really plays three roles, but in the first he dies during the prologue and it is with his twin sons, grown up, that the story really has to do.

From start to finish there isn't a tedious moment. The action is rapid and the situations are dramatic and thrilling. It is a typical William S. Hart photoplay.

Jane Novak is leading woman and the story is by Will Reynolds adapted for the screen and directed by Lambert Hillger. The cast includes among other players, S. J. Bingham, Gordon Russell, Ivor McFadden, Herschell Mayall, Colette Forbes and George C. Pearce.

THE BLOT A HUMAN HEART STORY BIGGER THAN "HUMORESQUE"

"The Blot," Lois Weber's greatest cinema triumph, showing at the Arcade Theatre, is a picture with a human-heart story that is bigger than "Humoresque," and other productions of that type.

vided for his services at one of the foremost schools of the country, where sons of the idle rich spend their days in the casino and nights in the cabarets, buying illicit liquor that costs more per bottle than the old professor makes in a week.

His daughter, Amelia, ill and undemourished, accepts a position in the public library. It is there that she meets Phil West, one of the professor's most troublesome pupils, on a rainy afternoon. With the bottom of her shoes worn out, she accepts West's invitation to ride home in his touring car. Upon arrival at the Griggs home West awakens and realises the injustice wrought upon the old professor. He appeals to his father a trustee of the college, for a raise in Griggs' salary. West is desperately in love with Amelia. He organizes a night class for the professor and is successful in obtaining the pledge of his classmates that they will start in to study.

"The Blot" is released by the P. B. Warren Corporation.

AT SIBIRYS LAST DAY

"Life's Darn Funny," is the expressive title of the comedy-drama in which Viola Dana is starring.

The screen production is a camera version of Christine Jones Slade's Saturday Evening Post story, "Care-takers Within." It was scenarized by Molly Parro and Arthur D. Ripley.

Dallas Fitzgerald, who directed Miss Dana in her four most recent productions, supervised her work. Mr. Fitzgerald's work has been closely associated with that of the vivacious Viola through his masterly direction of "Blackmail," "Cinderella's Twin," "The Offshore Pirate," and "Puppets of Fate."

Miss Dana enacts the role of a struggling little violinist who, after many years of trials and tribulations, sacrifices her ambition to attain the pinnacle of success in the music world in order to find happiness in another way.

"Life's Darn Funny" is Miss Dana's first picture since her return from New York, where she spent six weeks purchasing new gowns and reviewing all the new Broadway shows. "Home Stuff," an original story of Frank Dazey and Agnes Johnston, written especially for Miss Dana, was her last picture before going east.

This Dallas M. Fitzgerald production for Metro was photographed by John Arnold. The art settings were designed and executed by A. F. Mantz. For her leading man, Miss Dana has Gareth Hughes, Metro's youthful featured player, who consented to delay work on his own featured pictures so as to appear in "Life's Darn Funny," as the impetuous out-of-luck painter who turns costume designer. Other members of the supporting cast includes Eva Gordon, Mark Penton and Kathleen O'Connor.

Also showing "Fighting Fate."

WHO OWNS THIS DOG? CHICAGO, Mar. 10.—Some city employe who took his rag to the city hall and kept the "burp" in his office is going to lose his job. The dog slipped out and bit Jewell Kriesman, but escaped without the identity of his master becoming known.

TRAMP'S EMIGRATE

NEW ORLEANS, Mar. 10.—Three hundred tramps, arriving here on a single freight train from Texas Monday, were guests of New Orleans hotels, some of them being entertained at police stations and other vital points of interest about town.

They traveled about 45 in a car, and alighted from the train all the way from the city limits to the railroad yards. Police informed them their stay in the city would be brief.

Full sentences and hard work on Texas roads as penalties for vagrancy were the reasons given for their wholesale emigration.

FACED MURDER CHARGE

GATESVILLE, Tex., Mar. 10.—Jack Wolf, 26, son of J. M. Wolf, prominent livestock man of Coryell county, surrendered late Sunday, charged with murder in connection with the stabbing of Willis Hopson, 16 years of age, at a dance here Saturday night.

EX-SOLDIER HAS A GOOD STOMACH

"If a man spends six years in the army he surely would have to have a good stomach. I have a good one now and Foley Cathartic Tablets made it that way. If any one does not believe this, let him write to Arthur L. Lyons, 454 Cincinnati St., Dayton, Ohio." That is from a letter received by Foley & Co.
