NITA NALDI NOTED ACTRESS IN FINE "LIFE" ROLE

Nita Naldi, a well known actress of stage and screen who scored a great success in support of John Barrymore in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde," a Paramount picture which has become a screen classic, has an excellent vamp role in William A. Brady's melodrama picture, "Life," released by Paramount, which will be the feature at the Arcade Theatre Sunday. According to New York reviewers, her characterization is one of the outstanding features of this massive production.

The cast generally is of the best. Jack Mower, the leading man, is well known as an actor, he having appeared in many Broadway productions. Arline Pretty, the leading woman, is a noted stage and screen player who is not unfamiliar to Paramount audiences. Red La Rocque, who has a heavy role in "Life," was seen to advantage in "Paying the Piper," a recent Paramount success. Others in the cast include Leeward Meeker, J. H. Gilmore, Effingham Pinto, Curtis Cooksey and Geoffrey Stein.

the Arcade Theatre on Monday, next, are:

Perez and La Flor, an athletic pair of novelty gymnasts who show class and ability doing many difficult stunts new to vaudeville, and display some pretty costumes.

Price and Gilmore, producers of comedy in "A Leap Year Proposal," featuring Elizabeth Price, the golden double voiced girl from the west.

Hahn and Curtis, a versatile pair in a singing and talking act. "I Wanta Pass," full of comedy situations for laughing purposes.

Miller, Linsarde, the original European posing novelty in Greek and modern statuary.

A feature picture, both sensational and full of thrills, is added to this well balanced bill.

AT SHERRY'S TODAY ONLY.

What romance!—what tragedy!—and stirring events are attached to the name of the "Royal Mounted!" When an officer receives a commission from his Chief, his one aim in life is to "Get His Man!" and like a bloodhound on the scent he will follow each clue and trail through it leads to the end of the world.

Aide, by his henchmen, Lawson gets once more away. Thinking to throw the human bloodhound off his trail, he doubles on it, and re-crosses the border into the Northwest to a barren retreat, where he believes himself safe. But he did not know Jack Borden and the motto held sacred by the men of the Royal Mounted—"Get Your Man." And after many more adventures, the tangled trail is straightened out and "the tiger" has his man hard and fast.

Of course, a tale of this sort would not be complete without a pretty girl, love, and human touches, to stir the emotions. There are several pretty girls who figure in the plot, and excellent character types that lend to make the story a perfect offering.

Also showing "Movie Chats," and "Mutt and Jeff."

AT SHERRY'S SUNDAY AND MONDAY.

Wallace Reid has driven almost every kind of vehicle in his Paramount screen offerings. In his recent picture "The Love Special," he added a locomotive to the list and in the automobile race picture immediately following, he drove a fast racing car around the track at a speed of a hundred and ten miles per hour.

This lack of pep in the speed of the big machine, however, is more than compensated for by a thrilling fight when the freighter is converted into a floating fortress and which it is up to the captain headed by Mr. Reid to storm and capture, and by many other unusual scenes and situations.

Also showing a comedy.
