STAR CAST CHOSEN FOR 'FOOL'S PARADISE'

That "variety is the spice of life" seems to be the motto of Cecil B. De Mille in his selection of casts for his photoplays. "Fool's Paradise," his latest Paramount picture which will be shown at the Grand Theatre today, Friday and Saturday, introduces a cast almost entirely new to De Mille audiences although as individuals the players are well known. Dorothy Dalton, Mildred Harris, Conrad Nagel and John Davidson, appear under the banner of Cecil De Mille for the first time in this production. Two favorites of past De Mille productions—Theodore Kosloff and Julia Faye—complete the cast of principals. The story of "Fool's Paradise" is the joint product of Benham Marie Dix and Sada Cowan. The theme was suggested by Leonard Merriek's short story "The Laurels and the Lady," but this has been elaborated by the collaborators into a highly dramatic and colorful story that is distinctly new and vital. In selecting the cast for "Fool's Paradise," Mr. De Mille chose his players from the ranks of stardom. Ability, beauty and type influenced him in his selection. The effect is seen in a performance seldom equaled on the screen.

WESTERN PIONEERS IN GOLD RUSH FILM

The bravery and fortitude of the early Indian fighters is poorly realized in the days of modern business and hustle. It is hard to picture, from the romantic accounts of history, the struggles and sacrifices that came to American pioneers as a part of their daily existence.

Universal, however, has made a chaptered photoplay featuring such famous characters as Capt. John C. Fremont, Kit Carson and other idols of American youth. It is called "Winners of the West," and is a thrilling picture based upon the adventure of settlers who moved westward across the plains in 149 searching for gold.

In the fourth installment of this photo-drama, to be shown at the Star Theatre Friday only, startling scenes are shown depicting the adventures of several of the characters who fall into the hands of hostile Indians. These scenes show in accurate and blood-stirring detail the dangers which our forefathers faced.

Other interesting reels will also be shown.

SHERRY'S TODAY.

An all-star cast will be seen in the new Goldwyn production, "The Night Rose," by Leroy Scott, which will be shown at the Sherry Theatre for two days, beginning today. A list of their names vouches for one of the best artist pictures that has been seen at the Sherry Theatre in some time. Lon Chaney, as a king of the underworld; Bett Schade as his discarded sweetheart; Leatrice Joy as the new object of his affection, who is in love with an innocent henchman, played by Cullen Landis. Other well-known players in the cast are Richard Tucker, John Bowers, Mary Warren and Elythe Chapman.

The climax of the picture takes place in a magnificent ballroom, where the underworld star is about to dance with his new "girl." But in order to
