BURLEIGH A BOXER

Bertram Burleigh, who plays the leading role in Hugh Ford's Paramount production of "The Great Day," which will be shown at the Arcade Theatre today only, is an athlete and boxer as his performance in that picture proves. Confronted by four thugs in the cafe of the Guardian Angel in Paris, all of them clever boxers, he knocks them down with the same cleverness that Bill Hart or Douglas Fairbanks exhibit in their pictures. Director Ford insisted upon realism in the fight and blow for blow with all the weight of the men behind them, were delivered in the scrimmage. One of the fighters was Prof. Bill Cuzon, boxing instructor of the Middlesex Juzzars and the Honorable Artillery Company.

In addition to this photoplay, four sets of Bert Levy's vaudeville will also be presented.

"THE WOMAN GOD CHANGED" AT SHERIDAN'S LAST DAY.

Lillian Walker of the adorable dimples, welcome!

Will she have film fans forget that she was born in Brooklyn, loves to cook, and takes walks in the park purposely to stop all the nurse girls with charming baby carriages for a peep at the chubby little inmates?

Well, one cannot say that such a Lillian is the one who presents herself as the masterpiece of passion in the new Paramount-Cosmopolitan picture, "The Woman God Changed."

"And did you like the part?" she was asked when the picture was finished.

"Why, yes, I've been on the screen for seven years, you know, and I never fail to get a thrill out of each part. But, my ambition, the great moment of my dreams, is soon to be realized when I am starred in a big Broadway production especially written for me."

Miss Walker has an excellent role in "The Woman God Changed." Seena Owen and E. K. Lincoln play the leading parts in the story written by Donn Byrne and produced by Robert G. Vignola.
