BOINGS OF THE DUFFS

The Screen

GLADYS WALTON HERE THURSDAY.

Those who remember Gladys Walton as "The Man Tamer," the heroine of "Short Skirts," "Pink Tights" and many other Universal special attractions, will be glad to see her in "The Guttersnipe," a screen story by Percival Wilde and directed by Dallas Fitzgerald, which comes to the Arcade Theatre Thursday only. It is a story of a little Irish working girl in New York, who finds in her own life the counterpart of a thrilling romance she reads in "Sloppy Stories." On the same program little Baby Peggy will be featured in her latest comedy, "Get Rich Quick Peggy."

EVERY YOUNG PERSON CAN APPRECIATE THIS

It's a ever take your girl for a walk in the park—some fine summer evening? And it's a buy her an ice cream cone, a giggle over a hot dog sandwich, "everything?" Then "First Love," which is the feature at the Arcade Theatre tonight for the last time, should have a very direct and immediate appeal. For in it Constance Binney appears as a working girl, one of "the great three-fourths" who must confine themselves to such short simple pleasures of a limited pocketbook.

AT SHERRY'S LAST DAY.

Matt Moore and Ruby de Remer, two of the best known players of the screen, have the leading roles in the Cosmopolitan production for Paramount, "The Passionate Pilgrim." The support generally is one of unusual excellence and their portrayals add much to the enjoyableness of the picture. The story deals with a novelist whose career is ruined through a murder committed by his mother-in-law and who later finds happiness and love after many thrilling incidents had transpired. Ruby de Remer, an invalid heiress, plays an important part in his life work. The story is based on Samuel Merwin's famous novel.

BOOZE TAKING MADE EASIER

Washington State Supreme Court Rules That Search Warrants Are Not Necessary in Certain Cases.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Mar. 29.—The supreme court ruled yesterday that liquor can be seized without a search warrant when there is no forcible entry into the defendant's place of business on the act of unlawful possession is committed before the eyes of the officers.

S. D. Llewellyn, operating a cigar and soft drink establishment in Aberdeen, Wash., was convicted in Grays Harbor county with the crime of unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor. He appealed on the ground that the supreme court's ruling in the Gibbons case, where it was held that liquor seized from an automobile without a search warrant could not be used as evidence, should restrain the Aberdeen officers from producing the seized goods in his trial.

In the opinion of the court found that certain persons were entering Llewellyn's establishment after it had closed for the day, and the officers, seeing a light burning, had gone in with one of these persons and found the liquor on the counter, where a group of men were alleged to be gambling.

SMUGGLERS DO BIG BUSINESS

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Mar. 29.—Romance of the Coast Guard service of the early days of the new American republic has been revived by the fleets of liquor smugglers hovering along the country's shores.

Prohibition officials discussing today the problem of rum running which has become serious along both seaboard declared that the whisky ship have brought back to the Coast guard the duty for which it was originally established.

Created in 1790 "to prevent depredations along the coast," the earliest duty of the Coast Guard was to war on the pirates who preyed on the merchant shipping in and out of the ports of the new nation and who had their strongholds on the islands adjacent to the southern shores.

Nowadays, officials remarked, the liquor ships following in the wake of Captain Kidd and his swashbuckling crews are giving the men of the Coast Guard the stern chase and sometimes the bloody battles that was the daily portion of their predecessors in the stirring times of the bold black flag.

As an instance of history repeating itself, officials declared, the islands of the Bahamas, where rum smugglers now make their headquarters, were once the base for followers of "Jolly

Roger" and it has been reported through official channels that one of the families of the island of Bermuda, now a fountain head for illicit spirits, is directly descended from a famous freebooter who made the Florida waters a mariners' graveyard two hundred years ago.

Coast Guard seamen of today, officials maintain, search the waters of the South Atlantic for bootleg hulk where once their forerunners scoured the seas for a pirate sail or listen at the mouth of Florida rivers for the put-out of the gasoline craft with its contraband cargo where the ears of a newly formed service were attuned to catch the creak of block and tackle or the crape of oarlocks.

But besides the war on rum runners in the South officials pointed out the Coast Guard is kept on the alert along whole Atlantic coast, off New York and Boston, and on the Pacific, in the waters of Puget Sound, where the Canadian smugglers bring across the line imports forbidden by national prohibition.

IS IT "JUST A COLD?"

La Grande People Should Ask Themselves This Question. Don't say: "It's just a cold." It may turn into backache, rheumatic aches, achy joints. Or other serious sickness that comes from weak kidneys. Colds are due to congestion. Congestion makes the kidneys over-work to filter the blood.
