

Dorothy Clark on Honeymoon

Dorothy Clark, 17, actress, whose mother is suing Herbert Rawlinson, movie star, for $200,000 charging he attacked Dorothy, is spending her honeymoon in Boston with her husband, Karl L. Films. She denies the charges of her mother and declares that Rawlinson has always been a respectful friend.

the domestic science and commercial courses, the object of course, to reduce the expenses. By a petition to the school board, circulated by the pupils of the high school and signed by a large number of voters, asking the people to reconsider their action and continue the commercial course, it was deemed advisable to call another meeting.

Sacramento Will Be A Bewhiskered City

(By Associated Press) SACRAMENTO, Apr. 21.—A formal order requesting all male employees of the city including policemen and firemen to start shaving whiskers immediately in preparation for the shaving of their whiskers on the day of the election was issued Wednesday by City Manager Clyde L. Sawyer, following a meeting of the Whiskers club of which he was recently chosen "chief whisker-shaver." He will also request all railroads coming into the city to encourage their employees to grow whiskers.

Under the new rules of the club any member shaving his whiskers before May 28 must submit to having his head shaved also.

YOUNG OUTLAWS

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Apr. 21.—A quartet of youthful bandits, 12 and 14 years of age, was taken into custody by police today. They confessed the shooting Friday night of Judge Metz and said they had started out to obtain money for a buggy ride on Sunday.

MOONSHINE IS IN BIG DEMAND

DUBLIN, Apr. 21.—The making of moonshine liquor in Ireland has assumed alarming proportions, and threatens to impair Erin's standing in the British Isles as the most temperate of the group.

The traffic in illicit liquor or "pot-teen" is described by the Catholic Total Abstinence Society as a by-product of the conflict in Ireland, and its rapid growth during the past three years was confirmed by many of the bishops in their recent Lenten pastorals. Even on the Dail Eireann, in spite of the many weighty political questions confronting it, it has taken note of the situation and appointed a Commission of Inquiry to examine the excesses which one bishop declares "are gravely demoralizing the masses of the people."

Ireland's drink bill for 1921 amounted to 30,200,000 pounds, of which nearly half went to the British Exchequer in taxation. Formidable as this figure may appear, however, comparative statistics for the United Kingdom show that the drink record of Ireland was lower by a comfortable margin than that of England, Wales or Scotland. Per capita population, Ireland consumed 6 pounds 14 shillings in drink last year, as compared with 8 pounds 17 shillings for England and Wales and 7 pounds 10 shillings sixpence for Scotland. But these estimates are based solely on the liquor that pays tax. Therefore the patient computers of dizzy statistics are endeavoring to ascertain Erin's standing with the addition of her bootleg fraternity.

While there is no move in Ireland for prohibition there is a strong public sentiment in favor of temperance, and it is believed that the Free State government, when established will among its earliest legislation pass laws intended to check abuses. In the area of the Northern Parliament there is a strong party, mainly composed of members of the Presbyterian church, which favors total prohibition. But the pressure of current politics and the need for keeping a united front against any interference by the South with northern independence has induced a temporary shelving of the question not only at elections but in the Parliament itself.
