Churches

First Methodist Episcopal Church.—"The Serpent and the Rod, or How in the Hand of a Strong Man a Perilous Thing May Become Beneficial," will be the theme of the forenoon sermon. Nature, history and the individual life will be made to yield striking illustrations of the truth embodied in the picturesque story of ancient days. Special music by the chorus under direction of Mrs. Williams. Rev. Ira R. Aldrich, district superintendent, will be the preacher at the hour of evening service (7:30). This insures an address that will be profitable from both the intellectual and the spiritual standpoint. Aldrich and Mr. Quigley will sing.

St. Peter's Episcopal Church.—Corner Fourth street and O avenue. Calendar for the week beginning April 23rd, the First Sunday after Easter: Holy Communion, 8 a. m.; church school, 9:45; morning prayer and sermon, 11:00; evening prayer, 7:30 p. m. Bishop Paddock has issued a Pastoral Letter which will be distributed at the Sunday services. The Bishop is still in the east, but expects to return and make his usual annual visitations during the month of May. All who are anticipating confirmation will be glad to know this. All cordially invited to the services.—Jos. W. Gunn, Rector.

Christian Church.—All the regular services of Sunday. Preaching at 11 and 7:30 by the pastor. Bible school meets at 9:45. The Bible school has a larger attendance than at any time in its history. There is a class for the Christian Endeavor in a spirited contest between the boys and girls. They meet at 6:30. Easter was a great day, let us use it as a stepping stone to greater accomplishments. "Let's Go!"—O. W. Jones, Minister.

M. E. Church South.—Quarterly Conference Saturday night at 8 o'clock. Rev. C. L. Gausland of Seattle will preach both morning and evening Sunday. Let everyone come and hear the presiding elder. Sunday school at 10 a. m. Hope every member of the school will be present Sunday morning. Last Sunday we had 122 in Sunday school and hope to have 150 next Sunday. League at 6:30 p. m. All are invited to attend the League.—A. J. Starmer, Minister.

First Church of Christ, Scientist.—Corner of First and Washington. Sunday morning service at 11 o'clock. Subject, "Probation After Death." Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. Wednesday evening meeting at 8 o'clock. Reading room open to the public every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday from two to four. All are welcome to attend our services.

Presbyterian Church.—Sunday school at 9:45. Regular services at 11:00 and 7:30. Rev. W. H. Bleakney of Walla Walla will speak both morning and evening. Young people's meeting at 8:30.

Island City M. E. Church.—Sunday school at 10:00 a. m. Renwick Clark, superintendent. Preaching service at 11 a. m. Bible study class at 6 p. m. Jodie Blokland, teacher. Epworth League at 7 p. m. Topic, "The Vision from the Mountain Side." Rev. Leah Smith, leader. At eight o'clock p. m. an illustrated lecture, "The Program of a Rural Church." This is a worth while lecture and brings to us just what can be done in every rural church, no matter how small. Every picture is interesting. Let there be a large attendance. Come to the Little Big Church, the church with the illuminated Cross, you will be made welcome, and you will have a good time.—James Leitch, preacher.

Letter Day Saints.—Regular services at the Tabernacle. Sunday school communion at 10:30 a. m. Sacramental services, 2 o'clock p. m. Mutual Improvement Association, Monday at 7:00 p. m. Teachers' training class, Monday at 7:00 p. m. Priesthood and Relief Society meeting at 7:00 p. m. Primary association at the tabernacle Tuesday, for children, 4 p. m. Primary association on north side at the little chapel, for children, Thursday at 4 p. m. Religion class at tabernacle.

Thursday at 2:30 and 4 p. m. Religion class at the chapel on north side at 2:30 and 4 p. m. Tuesday. Regular choir practice at the Tabernacle Thursday at 7 p. m. Regular Fast Day services at 2 p. m. the First Sunday of each month. The public is cordially invited to attend any or all of our services.—David I. Stoddard, Bishop.

The Bookworm

"Down the Columbia" is an account of a recent boat trip on one of the world's greatest rivers from its glacial sources to tidewater. As it runs through mountains nearly its full length and there is no slack water on the entire course, adventure and scenic grandeur abound. The book is plentifully illustrated with wonderful photographs taken during the journey.

"Where the Strange Trails Go Down," by E. Alexander Powell is a happy mixture of fun and seriousness by an American journalist in search of new and strange adventures. It is a book for a dull day, in which you'll read with unabated interest stories of pioneers extending civilization in "Magic Isles, Outposts of Empire," man-eaters and head hunters in Borneo, wonderful processions and ceremonies of dazzling splendor and peacock gorgeousness in "those far-flung, gorgeous lands, stretching from the southern marches of China to the edges of Polynesia."

"Lost Ships and Lonely Seas," by Ralph Paine are tales of old sea tragedies and romances dug up from "musty old narratives of derelict ships, pirates," and the strange fates which befell seamen of the earlier days.

Frank, since revelations and criticisms of governments as they are and of the tragic effects of their workings since the war will be found in Sir Philip Gibbs' book entitled "More that Must Be Told."

Any of these books may be obtained from the County Library and may be borrowed free by any resident of the county. Talk about tangential advertising! Recently the Portland Library advertised extensively that they needed popular fiction, etc., to replenish their stock. As a consequence several donations have been made to the local Public Library much to our delight. These popular books wear out so fast and are in such great demand that extra copies bring a smile to the face of the staff. It's so discouraging to both staff and public not to find a title in when it's called for. And it does seem as though we could never have too many copies of some books.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The heralded Junior-Senior mascot fight came off as per schedule yesterday at 12:30 and despite the Seniors' grazer hairs the aggressive Juniors had the mascot in their hands at the end of the allotted time. The next fight will come off May 1 at the same hour when the Juniors, if they are still in possession of the mascot, will parade it before the defeated Seniors, who will have that last chance to regain their mascot. Frin. E. D. Towler, C. C. Snow and Carl Lodel were referees of the match and the latter also held the watch on the young war—which lasted five minutes. No casualties were reported.

MUCH LAND IS SWEEPED BY FIRE

Forest Fires Do Immense Damage Each Year, Destroying More Growth than Is Cut by Operators

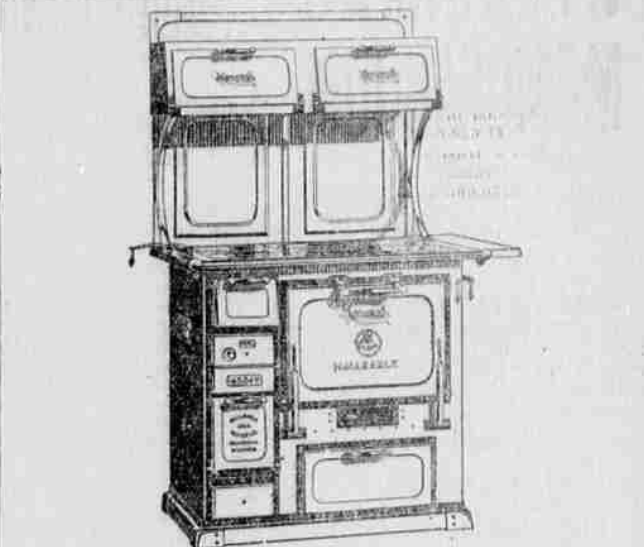

This is Forest Protection Week. The area of forest land swept by fire each year is, broadly speaking, twice the size of the area cut over annually by logging operations. Forest Service records for the past five years show an average yearly total of 32,500 forest fires, burning over 7,500,000 acres and causing an annual damage of $17,240,000. For the period of 1916-1920, inclusive, the total number of fires reported was 160,300, covering 56,488,000 acres and doing a damage of $85,715,750. Over 80 per cent of these fires were due to human agencies, and could have been prevented through the exercise of care on the part of citizens.

For the Pacific Northwest some 70 per cent of the fires are due to man-made causes, careless campers alone being responsible for about one-third of all fires. For the country as a whole, fully one-seventh of all forest fires, according to the Forest Service, are due to railroads. Nearly as many start from careless burning of brush by farmers, and incendiarism is a close third. Campers, including all pleasure seekers in the woods, hold fourth place, causing nearly one-eighth of all forest fires. One of the principal offenders is the careless smoker, particularly the user of "tailor-made" cigarettes. Lumbering stands fifth as a fire hazard, although in some states it often becomes a major cause of fire. About one-tenth of all forest fires are started by lightning.

The idea of Forest Protection Week originated here in the Pacific Northwest in 1920, and was largely observed that year throughout the West. Fifteen years ago the bulk of public sentiment against forest fires was in the East; today it is in the West, where 61 per cent of the Nation's remaining timber supply is now located. In 1921 the observance of Forest Protection Week was made nationwide by a proclamation by the President. The results were noteworthy. In 23 States similar proclamations were issued by the governors, and wide publicity was given by the press. Many mayors are this year issuing special proclamations.

April 22, the closing day of Forest Protection Week, will mark the Fiftieth Anniversary of Arbor Day. Former Secretary of Agriculture J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska originated the idea of having a day each year set apart and consecrated for tree-planting. Today in every State of the Union, and even in many foreign countries, appropriate ceremonies mark the observance of this day, which has become associated with patriotic and esthetic as well as economic ideas.
