WILLIAM WRIGLEY, JR., AND PROSPERITY

That business is improving in the east and that this condition is spreading to the middle-west by degrees, is the opinion of William Wrigley, Jr. Co., Chicago.

The good old American dollar is coming back into its own. People from one end of the nation to the other are getting around to the idea that the only basis for real prosperity is an honest day's work for a fair day's wage.

The United States as a whole has been on a "business spree" for the past five years. Prices, up to recently, were out of all proportion for the value received.

The greatest cure for hard times, Mr. Wrigley says, is to stop talking about hard times, get to work and keep money and goods circulating.

The year 1921 was regarded as a pretty bad period for lots of concerns in the east and middle west," said Mr. Wrigley. "For us it was the best year in the 30 years I have been in the chewing gum manufacturing industry."

"We are spending $11,000 a day this year to push Wrigley's Chewing Gum."

"The judicious use of printer's ink is the greatest selling force in the world. If you do business on a world-wide basis, or even in the locality encompassed within a few blocks, you have got to keep the people interested or you won't sell them your goods."

HIGH SATIRE DELIGHTS IN "HANDLE WITH CARE"

"Handle With Care," starring Grace Darmond at the Arcadia Theatre tonight only, is a satirical comedy-drama, of which there are far too few that find their way to the screen. From a story by Charles Belmont Davis, it takes the serious question of the proper way in which to manage a woman and laughs at it—and you laugh at it, and go home feeling that you've had a real treat.

Grace Darmond is a popular debutante who marries a man who knew all about law and nothing of love. After two years, during which he pays more attention to business than to his wife, she decides that any one of her ex-suitors would have made a better husband than David. He agrees to give her a divorce if she can get any of the old lovers who had sworn to willingly.

ness to die for her, to slope with her.

It would be a shame to give away the outcome of her efforts to slope, and of her husband's efforts to win back her love.

In addition to being a sparkling and frothy photo-drama, "Handle With Care" presents Grace Darmond at her very best. She is beautiful and wears some lovely gowns.

In addition to this sparkling comedy-drama, four good acts of vaudeville are also on the program.

"TOO WISE WIVES" LAST DAY AT SHERIDAN

Fiction writers apparently believe marriage ends all. The truth is precisely the reverse. It begins all. Many photoplays "iris out" with a love scene titled, "And they lived happily ever after" in which the engaged pair are alighted against the setting sun.

"Too Wise Wives," a Lois Weber production for Paramount, now showing at the Sheridan Theatre, is a picture that could easily begin "And they lived happily ever after." But it doesn't. The story centers around two married couples and depicts life as it really is, as most married couples live it.

Many of the scenes were taken at a Santa Barbara mansion, the interior of which afforded Lois Weber
