AT SHERRY'S TODAY ONLY.

Lester Cuneo, often called "the smiling daredevil" in his newest picture, "Silver Spurs," a colorful melodrama of California written by Henry McCarty and Leo Meehan.

Cuneo is cast as a writer of Western stories and general all-around adventurer. He deserts his New York club friends to seek romance in California.

In the West Cuneo meets a type of adventure he had not bargained for. He has to fight for his life numerous times to say nothing of having to battle all over again to save a beautiful Spanish girl.

There is a well defined plot with vital characters in "Silver Spurs," and the action is laid in the shadow of one of the historic missions.

Also showing "Movie Chats" and "Mutt & Jeff."

"THE WISE KID" IS COMING TO TOWN.

"I—I'm sorry, but I left my money in another suit."

That was the beginning of things for "The Wise Kid." She wasn't "The Wise Kid" then, but that's part of the story.

The man who leaned apologetically over the cash register and spoke the words to Rosie Cooper, was soulful and immaculately dressed. And what a gentleman!

The proprietor smiled in the fashion that properly precludes the exercise of a heavy boot. But Rosie pushed him aside and rang the amount on the register, paying it herself.

From that beginning, William Slavens McNutt built the story published in the Metropolitan Magazine as "Kind Deeds," and which will appear at the Arcade Theatre Sunday only as a Universal Special Attraction. The star is Gladys Walton, the fascinating flapper heroine of many comedy dramas.

(Working out a theme of a New York "wise kid," gaining real wisdom through a romantic misadventure, the story provides humanly interesting roles for the star, David Butler—a star in his own right—and Hal Cook.

Others in the cast are Fred Lancaster, Henry A. Barrows, Norman Hammond and Lorimer Johnston.

Tom Browning, who directed, "No Woman Knows" and "Outside the Law," two big Universal-Jewel productions, guided the filming of "The Wise Kid."

"The Touchdown," a two-reel comedy, will also be shown.

"ACROSS THE DEADLINE" NOW AT THE STAR THEATRE.

Frank Mayo achieves a convincing characterization in the Universal Special Attraction at the Star theatre.

Snodgrass and Zimmerman

Funeral Service Parlor, Licensed Embalmer, Ambulance Service. Day Phone Main 62, Night Phone, Main 743. 1505 Fourth St. La Grande, Oregon.

atre, "Across the Deadline." His role is that of a son who is cast off by his father through the machinations of an uncle, and who is forced to stand alone in his fight against this uncle and against persons who seek to kidnap and hold a young girl against her will.

Clarence Budington Kelland wrote a story that has real strength. It concerns a feud between two brothers, one stern and religious, the other wholly evil, a feud that travels its devastating course down the avenue of twenty odd years and through many lives. It divides a town into two parts, each presided over by one of the brothers with his own concept of what is right.

Opposite Mayo, Molly Malone gives a captivating performance in the role of the girl who is lost, found, eloped by several persons and finally saved from a third kidnapping by the young son.

Josef Swickard is seen in a delusion of the figure of an old man, insane, suspicious and given to strange wanderings on stormy nights. It's a portrayal that grips. Russell Simpson likewise gives an excellent performance in an unusual part. He is the stern brother, and he looks it in the picture. Wilfred Lucas appears as the brother with the criminal tendencies.

Lydia Knott, Frank Thornwald, William Marion and others enact principal roles with their customary skill. Jack Conway directs.

"Across the Deadline" and a two-reel comedy will be the attraction at the Star Theatre today and Sunday.

A CLEVER AGGREGATION OF VERSATILE ARTISTS

Will appear in the New Vaudeville Bill at the Arcade Theatre Monday.

Headed by the incomparable Novelty Wonders, The Sterling Rose Trio, showing feats of strength and grace on the flying rings. They are skillful acrobats, gorgeously attired and do many musical numbers, during their marvelous and daring performance.

Alan Grey & Co., the talkative prestidigitator and comedy illusionists ably assisted by Dot Haynes, is a comedian both original and very funny and does many new and novel sleight of hand tricks.

SPECIAL---

Edna Fleming, a character comedienne in character songs and changes, she also makes a complete change from white to black in full view of the audience.

Castle & Belmont, a nifty pair of vaudeville's choicest in a singing and dancing offering which will start the show in a lively manner with their intricate dancing and new song hits.

A real feature soul-stirring picture featuring Mrs. Wm. S. Hart will be added to this novel and amusing program.

DESMOND IN "DANGEROUS TOYS" SUNDAY AND MONDAY AT SHERRY'S.

Are wives just heartless handmaids for their husbands? Is vanity the price of every woman? These are the questions which arise in an interesting picture "Dangerous Toys." It is a Federated Production, with an all-star cast headed by William Desmond, Margaret Clayton and Frank Losee.

Harman the banker in the picture, who was deserted twenty years before by his wife, thinks all women have their price. When his secretary, Jack Gray, is married, Harman is perturbed. Mrs. Gray loves pretty clothes, and in order to wear them, gets a position as a model in a fashionable shop. There Harman meets her, and knowing who she is, tries to cause a break between her and her husband.

He offers to let her occupy an apartment, and have everything her heart desires for three weeks, without any strings attached. At the end of that time, she can go back to her husband, or continue indefinitely.

What the wife does, and what follows, forms a really absorbing picture, in which there is tenderness of situation, human appeal, and a high artistic standard. The picture is lavishly mounted and produced, and expertly directed.

William Desmond, as the secretary, gives a straight-forward fine performance. Margaret Clayton, as the wife, again demonstrates she is an emotional actress of the highest order. Frank Losee's Harman is a histrionic gem, in which the portrayal of cynicism, hiding the shattered soul of a man, is powerful, smashing, yet in spite of all, sympathetic.

Also showing "We'll Get You Yet," a two-reel comedy.
