"FIVE DAYS TO LIVE" AT SHERRY'S SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Besides being the wife of Sassee Hayakawa, Tsuru Aoki has the distinction of being one of the most versatile of screen actresses. And in Mr. Hayakawa's most recent R-C production, "Five Days to Live"—one of the greatest subjects in which the noted star has ever appeared—Miss Aoki has a role for which her whimsical charm admirably equips her.

The romance of Sassee Hayakawa and his beautiful young wife would in itself provide the story for one of the most delightful motion pictures ever created. Long before Tsuru Aoki became a screen actress she had dreamed of winning fame as a dancer. After graduating from a fashionable girl's school she became a pupil of Ruth St. Denis, and was well on the way toward making her debut as a professional dancer when the movies claimed her. Then she cast aside all thoughts of dancing in the more alluring game of establishing herself as a film favorite.

Shortly after this followed her romantic meeting and marriage with Sassee Hayakawa. For two or three years they played in pictures together. Then Miss Aoki deserted the screen to take up the duties of a housewife. Her pet hobby became the keeping of their home and the concocting of rare and palatable dishes for Sassee, and the happy young husband took keen delight in inviting his friends to spreads where the "piece de resistance" was a salad prepared by Miss Aoki.

In "Five Days to Live," which comes to the Sherry Theatre Sunday and Monday, Miss Aoki appears opposite her husband for the first time in many moons. In one of the scenes she does a clever little Oriental dance, which is sure to surprise her many admirers who did not know of her talent in this particular branch of arts.

Also showing "A Bedroom Scandal," a two-reel comedy.

AT SHERRY'S TODAY ONLY.

"Beyond the Rainbow" is the current attraction at the Sherry Theatre, where lovers of the movie drama may have an opportunity to appraise the work of the extraordinary cast. For example, there are Harry Moore, Edmund Bross, George Fawcett, Macey Harlan and others of importance among the male members of the cast. Among the women are such favorites as Rose Coghlan, still the same great actress as of old; Lilian (Billie) Dove, famous beauty of the Zigfield Follies, whose artistry in Cabanne R-C productions has carried her to popularity on the screen almost overnight; and Helen Ware, an artist of the first water whose great performance in Belasco's "The Wanderer Jew" was one of the really great artistic accomplishments in the theatre last year.

Then, too, there are two beauty contest winners in Virginia Lee and Clara Bow, one fair and the other dark but both young artists who promise much for the future. Diana Allen, a star in her own right, and Marguerite Courtot, long prominent on the screen, also have outstanding roles. Then there are others, such as James Harrison, well known juvenile; Walter Miller, Charles Craig and also Huntly Gordon, whose striking figure has graced more than one Cabanne success.

Also showing "Movie Chats," and "Mutt & Jeff."

SPECTACULAR FILM FROM FAMOUS STORY.

David Smith, one of Vitagraph's most prominent directors, and responsible for the filming of the now famous "Black Beauty," is responsible for filming an adaptation of James Oliver Curwood's widely read novel, "Flower of the North," which will be shown at the Star Theatre today and Sunday.

Henry B. Walthall and Pauline Starke head an all-star cast and an entire town was built upon Vitagraph's lot for some mammoth settings of the opening scenes. Everything was conducted upon a most colossal and elaborate scale. The great cannery and river effects were secured some weeks ago when Mr. Smith visited the Northwest, where much of the action of the story was scene. He inspected all the canneries of the state of Oregon and Washington in order to procure the best scenes. It would be difficult to surpass the Curwood atmosphere and scenic splendor which Mr. Smith brought from the Pacific Northwest. As the hero of "Flower of the North," Henry B. Walthall, the little Napoleon of "The Birth of a Nation," again dons his gray slouch hat. As the heroine Pauline Starke makes an appealing bit of femininity. Many of the supporting roles in "Flower of the North" needed types difficult to find and the casting for these roles required much time.

ALICE BRADY SHINES IN BIG PLAY.

As a delineator of strong emotional and dramatic roles many picture enthusiasts insist that Alice Brady has few equals on the screen, and her ability and finished technique in handling a role of this type were again displayed to advantage in "Hush Money," which will be the attraction at the Arcade Theatre Sunday only.

Alice Brady has the role of the spoiled and selfish only child of the Big Man of Wall Street. She has been brought up to believe, as all the men and women in her world do believe, that money is the only real power in the world, and that it can buy absolutely anything.

Then the girl is caught in a mesh of circumstances which both her father and the fiancee would give a great deal to have hushed up. To their great surprise, indeed, to the girl's own surprise, she suddenly discovers that she is the possessor of that most uncomfortable thing, a conscience, and she defiantly refuses to let them pay the hush money which would buy silence for the episode.

The role of the father, the financial czar of Wall Street, is capably portrayed by George Fawcett, and the conflict of wills when he and his headstrong young daughter clash makes one of the most effective episodes seen in pictures recently. The role of the girl's fiancee is taken by Larry Wheat, a Broadway favorite who makes his screen debut in this picture.

A comedy will also be shown.

A WIDE VARIETY OF STELLAR TALENT

Will Be Seen on the Vaudeville Bill at the Arcade Theatre on Monday

Dell, Beattie & Dell are the headline feature in their novelty juggling and dancing, juggling and dancing, juggling and dancing. The offering is snappy in action and one of the brightest of its kind in vaudeville.

Billy Dodge and Margaret Dolbey offer their quota of comedy in "He Did, But He Didn't." A native bull around humorous lines and situations, a comedian and a girl with original singing and dancing numbers.

Sperry & Bell in their novel and much producing oddity, "The Awakening of Big Ben," replete with singing, talking and music and laughs aplenty, special scenery and song hits.

Bressler & Wilson, the terpsichorean marvels, start the show in a lively manner. They are known as classy eccentric and jazz dancers and wearing many beautiful and costly costumes, whose dancing has no limit.

A brilliant and interesting feature picture will be added to this all-star road show.

"TOBY, THE DETECTIVE," IS TONY BROS' SHOW FOR TONIGHT.

Tonight is to be a kind of a red letter night at the big tent theatre next to the Foley Building, as Tony Bros. Comedians are presenting the four-act comedy, "Toby the Detective," which is described as the funniest comedy in ten years.

"Toby" West, the popular comedian has the title role and gets an almost unbelievable amount of comedy out of a very funny role. It is a play written for laughing purposes and if your heart is weak you had better stay home tonight.

Tomorrow night the play will be "Lena Rivers," a story well known to all book readers. It has been a stage success for years and will undoubtedly draw a capacity house tomorrow night.
