WILD ANIMALS IN "CAMERON OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED."

Henry MacRae, director of this virile Ralph Connor production, set his stage for some of the most effective scenes in the wildest locations to be secured along the famous Sundance Canyon of the Canadian Rockies. On a frosty morning in November the chase of the hero after one of the villains in the story, took them over a mountain side where film fans will be electrified by the very unusual sight of a wild deer frantically crossing the path between the pursued and the pursuer in full view of the camera. Encouraged by this accidental occurrence Mr. MacRae concluded to spend additional weeks of time so that he might inject into the picture such realism as could be secured by a continuance of these unusual and unexpected circumstances, with the result that "Cameron of the Royal Mounted," which comes to the Star Theatre Saturday and Sunday is one of the most entertaining pictures ever produced. It's a Hodgkinson release.

"FOOLISH WIVES" AT SHERRY'S SUNDAY AND MONDAY.

Cavallieri—she was not to appear Cavallieri—she was not to appear that night—and there seemed not much left to see or do.

The famous prima donna walked about her room at the hotel in Los Angeles—aimlessly looked out of the window—and wondered what she could find amusing.

Her mind drifted backward to the gay, scintillating, brilliant nights in which she sang her heart out at Monte Carlo!

Monte Carlo! The telephone on her reading table shrilled harshly.

Stiffing a yawn, the beautiful woman with the golden voice answered in a bored tone.

"How would you like to go to Monte Carlo?" inquired the voice at the other end of the wire.

"I should love it, but I must sing tomorrow night and you know my contract—who is this?" asked Cavallieri.

"This is Von Strohm," replied the voice, "and I can take you to Monte Carlo in an hour."

"Very well," amiably answered the charming prima donna, "I shall be ready."

And so it happened that Lina Cavallieri, a trifle skeptical, but ready to be convinced, arrived at Universal City and was driven to the big sets comprising Monte Carlo.

looked about her in a rather amazed manner.

Then she eagerly leaped out of the machine and with an astounded exclamation, stood silent and aloof.

After a few moments in which it was clearly observable that the famous singer was intensely stirred, she said:

"This is magic. I am in Monte Carlo!"

Then it was that the fascinating Cavallieri in all the brightness and energy characteristic of her, ran about like a child, looking at this and that, sitting at a table in the cafe, running up the steps of the theatre, and entering amazedly the huge casino.

"Monte Carlo to the life!" she repeated over and over.

On the way back to her hotel she became a living interrogation point, asking innumerable questions concerning the technique of including a Monte Carlo in America.

"I thought it was going to be a lark," she said, "but it is much too impressive for that."

REMARKABLE GIRLHOOD SHOWN IN "SALVATION NELL."

An absorbing and dramatic story of life in the tenements of New York's East Side is presented in the picturization of "Salvation Nell," the Edward Sheldon play in which Minnie Maddern Fiske starred on the speaking stage, and which will be the screen attraction at the Arcade Theatre today and Saturday.

It's a story of the ups and downs of a poor little girl in a great city. Nell loses her sweatshop job, is discharged from the eating establishment of Hash House Sal but her pluck asserts itself after she is dismissed as the scrubwoman of a saloon, and she joins the Salvation Army and triumphs, saving her beloved Jim from himself.

Pauline Starke has the leading role as Salvation Nell, with Joe King playing opposite her.

"Salvation Nell," which is an Associated First National release, was produced by Whitman Bennett, with Kenneth Webb as the director. The scenario was prepared by Dorothy Farnum.

The cast includes Evelyn C. Carrington as "Hallelujah Maggie," E. T. Langford, Charles Macdonald, Matthew Betz, Marie Haynes, A. Earl, William Nalley and Lawrence Johnson.

AT SHERRY'S LAST DAY.

The greatest flood scenes ever flashed upon the screen, the collapse of a huge sluice dam and the harrowing experience of a man who sought to close the locks, are but a few of the big thrills that go to make "Home" a motion picture of matchless interest. Produced for I.C. Pictures by the famous French director, L. J. Gasnier, "The Call of Home" unfolds a story of poignant heart interest, combining romance and adventure in sufficient portions to satisfy even the most exacting enthusiast.

The scenes of the flood were filmed in the Colorado river region when that stream was swollen from storms and overran its banks, causing widespread destruction. This enabled Mr. Gasnier to film scenes that are available for their realism. The flood scenes were filmed at great risk to the lives of several members of the cast, in particular Ramsey Wallace, who portrays the role of the husband, Gary Lansing. Wallace's life hung in the balance when he was flung on a big dam as the structure went to pieces before the onrush of thousands upon thousands of tons of water. He pitched headlong into the torrent and was borne downstream half a mile before he was pulled out more dead than alive.

Of still greater dramatic tension is the havoc wrought by the raging waters as they engulf a small village and wash cabins and other structures that lie in the path of the flood. The fleeing natives who seek shelter in the highlands also lend a note of dramatic suspense as they snatch up their belongings and scurry to safety.

A big cast, including Irene Rich, Ramsey Wallace, Leon Bary, Margaret Mason, Jolynn Ralston, Genevieve Blinn, Wadsworth Harris, James O. Barrows, Carl Stockdale, Emmett King, Norma Nichols, Sidney Franklin and Harry Loosdale.

Also showing "Miracles of the Jungle."

Is Your Car Short of Breath?

WHY MOTORS NEED NEW PISTONS
Piston wear occurs in every motor. And, with the wearing of pistons, the piston pins and rings also wear. No wear in motor, or car, makes itself so thoroughly evident as does the wear in these important parts. This is why replacement of pistons, piston pins and rings has become so universal—why so many good shops, and so many good mechanics, now make a specialty of rearing cylinders and the replacement of pistons, piston pins and rings.

Despite the best lubrication possible, each of your pistons, as it travels up and down, wears against the cylinder walls. Have you ever thought how fast, and how far, these pistons travel in going back and forth, back and forth, up and down, millions of times through the cylinders? One "mathematical sharp" figures that in 10,000 miles of automobile travel a single piston in the average six-cylinder motor makes over 50,000,000 strokes up and down the cylinder walls. Therefore it is easy to understand why pistons, piston pins and piston rings wear—even with the best of lubrication.
