CHALLENGE COMPARISON WITH "SPOILERS" BATTLE

After the terrific bare-fisted fight in "The Spoilers," Rex Beach's famous story, motion picture history seemed to stand still so far as fights ever equalled it for tenacity and real honest-to-goodness scrapping.

It has remained for Irving Cummings to put forward a fight which challenges comparison with William Farnum's epoch-making battle.

Cummings plays the part of Corporal Campbell of the Northwest Mounted Police. He is sent out to get a woman who is charged with the murder of her husband.

The woman's husband has a treacherous brother, one Jacques. When Jacques comes upon Corporal Campbell in the cabin of the wife, Marie, he sets out to kill the officer.

Corporal Campbell realizes that it is not only his life he must battle for, but if he is defeated he knows Jacques will harm the woman.

The Cummings picture, "Jules of the River," a two-reel feature, will be seen at the Arcade theatre today and Wednesday.

May McAvoy is an actress whose simple charm, infinite appeal and engaging naturalness seem to increase with every new impersonation.

Perhaps this is because the new star's rapid rise in just two years has left for her many new acting worlds to conquer. At any rate it is interesting to note a ripening of the art of this clever girl in each succeeding photoplay.

She will be seen at the Arcade today and Wednesday in "A Homespun Vamp," by Hector Turbull, her fourth production as a Realart star.

As Meg MacKenzie, a drudge in the home of two skin-flint Scotch uncles, the greatest excitement of her life has been the efforts of her two relatives to make a match between her and Joe Dobbs, a fat and lubberly neighbor boy.

A young novelist appears in town and Meg immediately falls in love. Her affection seems hopeless, however, until a combination of innocent circumstances throw the two together in such a way that the incensed uncles insist that the girl has been compromised and that her disgrace can only be remedied by marriage.

The novelist reluctantly agrees, but with the understanding that the marriage is later to be annulled. Meg has something to say about that, however, and a series of cleverly dramatic situations carries the play to a delightful conclusion.

The story is well-told, not its least glory being the excellent character work of Charles Ogie and Guy Oliver as the uncles and Lincoln Steadman as the fat lever.

A two-reel Mounted Police story will also be shown.

AT SHERRY'S TODAY AND TOMORROW

Known in the world of amusements as one of the leading playwrights, actor-managers and composers in the country, George M. Is Your Car Short of Breath?

WHY MOTORS NEED NEW PISTONS

Piston wear occurs in every motor. And, with the wearing of pistons, the piston pins and rings also wear. No wear in motor, or car, makes itself so thoroughly evident as does the wear in these important parts. This is why replacement of pistons, piston pins and rings has become so universal—why so many good shops, and so many good mechanics, now make a specialty of regrinding cylinders and the replacement of pistons, piston pins and rings.

Despite the best lubrication possible, each of your pistons, as it travels up and down, wears against the cylinder walls. Have you ever thought how fast, and how far, these pistons travel in going back and forth, back and forth, up and down, millions of times through the cylinders? One "mathematical sharp" figures that in 10,000 miles of automobile travel a single piston in the average six-cylinder motor makes over 50,000,000 strokes up and down the cylinder walls. Therefore it is easy to understand why pistons, piston pins and piston rings wear—even with the best of lubrication.
