FIGHT STARTED BY OTHER MAN

George Faucett, who engaged in a fist fight with S. W. Weber of Portland in front of Scranton's store Wednesday morning as Weber was on his way to the depot in company with his four-year-old daughter Irene May, who had been staying with her mother, Mrs. Weber, divorced from her husband and living with Mr. and Mrs. Faucett in this city, states that Weber's story, which was published in Wednesday's edition of the Observer, is a prevarication.

His story, which is corroborated by Mrs. Weber, is that the reason for the fight was that Weber came to the Faucett home about 7:30 o'clock Wednesday morning under the supposition that Faucett was at work and used vile language beore Mrs. Faucett and Mrs. Weber. Upon arising Faucett followed Weber downtown and called him down for ungentlemanly conduct in the presence of ladies. Faucett asserts that it was not he, but Weber, who started the fight, and he also declares that Weber was not the winner of the fight, as Weber asserted, but that he struck Weber upon the chin whereupon the latter ceased fighting and went on to the depot.

Mrs. Weber's story is that over a year ago, when she and her husband separated, that William Nelson, of Ashland, Oregon, adopted the older child, named Marian Luella, and that later on authorities demanded that Weber find a home for the other child. The child was taken from Portland to La Grande by the mother who, when Weber came for the child, gave her to him willingly. She also asserts hat Weber's story digressed from the truth in many ways.

As the situation now stands the younger child is with the husband and the older child is with Mr. Nelson, at Ashland. Mrs. Weber is making her home with Mr. and Mrs. George Faucett, of La Grande.

BUCKET LINE SAVES BUILDING

TACOMA, Wash., June 30.—Fifty men formed a bucket brigade at Burton, on Vashon Island, this morning and extinguished a fire that menaced numerous summer homes. Their work in passing salt water onto the flames prevented serious loss. The fire fighters were aided by a high tide.

The fire started in the caretaker's lodge at the summer home of H. A. Jacobi. John Michaelson, caretaker, who was asleep in the building, barely escaped. The fire spread to dry grass and brush and enveloped trees in the vicinity.

BAKER MAN DROPS DEAD.

BAKER, June 30.—Fred R. M[illegible], 70 years old, unmarried, of the Oregon-Idaho investment company, was found dead on the floor of his office here. It is thought that apoplexy was the cause of death. Mr. Mollis had been active in business and mining circles coming to Baker in 1892 from Pendleton where he was in business. He was the owner of a valuable collection of Oregon ores and minerals which have been parts of Oregon exhibits at numerous expositions. He was a member of the Elks lodge.

GENERAL SAWYER RECEIVES BLAME

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 30.—Much of the blame for government shortcomings in hospitalization work for World War veterans should be placed on Brigadier General Charles E. Sawyer, President Harding's personal physician, Humphrey Sullivan of St. Louis, representing National Commander MacNider of the American Legion, declared today in an address on behalf of the American Legion before the convention of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

Sullivan charged General Sawyer who is head of the federal board of hospitalization and given authority by Director Dawes of the budget to determine its policy, with attempting to economize at the expense of the health of wounded service men.

Sullivan said General Sawyer had helped spread propaganda that there were already thousands of vacant beds in government hospitals and that efficiency and economy must be practiced.

RED CROSS TO GIVE MORE AID

WASHINGTON, June 29.—A tentative budget appropriating $2,778,404 for relief work among disabled former service men and their families was approved by the executive committee of the American Red Cross central committee today for the fiscal year beginning July 1. The budget represented an increase of $166,104 over the amount spent for the same purpose this year and does not take into account the expenditures which will be made by each of the 3300 individual chapters.
