TROOP TRAIN GOES THROUGH

A troop train, going to Camp Lewis, passed through La Grande last evening, arriving in about 6:30 o'clock and continuing on its way 45 minutes later. The train was in charge of Captain Virgil W. Sams, 109 men and seven officers making up the train, as well as complete equipment and two cars of horses. The train carried Companies C and D, of the 148th Field Artillery, coming from Idaho, Company C from Payette and Company D from Boise.

At Camp Lewis the artillery companies of Idaho and Washington are meeting to spend about two weeks in artillery practice. While in La Grande members of the troop train stopped off and ate supper before continuing their trip.

DIRECTORS ARE HIGHLY PLEASED

Liberal representation of those who underwrote the 1922 Chautauqua program was held at the Ad club headquarters last evening. The program for disposal of tickets, general discussion of the program and general transaction of routine business occupied the time of those present. The ticket sale will begin next Wednesday. President Murphy sounded the keynote of chautauqua spirit when he impressed on the underwriters that chautauqua is the primary community function of La Grande and that the task of arrangement and support is not for the directors nor is it for the underwriters but is for the whole community. The program itself is of such a high quality this year that everyone who has studied it is elated. With a program of this character and determination of chautauqua boosters to clean up the old indebtedness officers and close friends believe that splendid success will attend the sale of season tickets.

WEEDS MUST BE CUT IN JULY

The street department and its department of La Grande are calling attention to the fact that ordinances 738 and 727, series 1913, make it a misdemeanor to permit grass or weeds to be let grow on any property within the city limits. This applies to grass that is not properly cared for (not lawns) and to weeds of a similar nature, that will tend to make the property unsightly and also prove a fire menace. Either the owner, agent or occupant, whoever is responsible, will be expected to attend to this matter promptly.

In case any person violates this provision he may be liable to arrest and if convicted may be punished by a fine of not less than $5 or more than $20 or 20 days imprisonment in the city jail. In case any person fails to comply with this ordinance the city will handle the matter and the entire costs and charges incurred shall be declared to be a lien upon the lot or property owned by any such person where such a nuisance exists.

Water Restrictions to Be Continued; Supply System Is Discussed

4,000,000 gallons of water a day from Lower Beaver without having to use storage water.

"Many people have an erroneous impression that storage water would be used if we put in the Lower Beaver proposition. But 4,000,000 gallons a day could easily be secured without any storage. If this point is driven home to the people I believe that more would favor this system."

The O.-W. R. & N. came in for some of the blame for the necessity of restricting the use of water by residents of the city for sprinkling and irrigating. Although recent announcement was made by a railway official that the company is pumping water it was reported last night that such is not the case, although the railroad pumps were expected to be put to work this morning.

Commissioner David I. Stoddard called attention to the fact that when the present system was built it was not intended to furnish the railroad with water. During the season when the city had an excess supply, water was sold to the railroad after a time and the price charged was very low. As time went on, he said, the railroad used more water until it now uses a great deal during certain portions of the year, its well not being able to supply the system adequately now.

When the railroad's consumption reaches 100,000 gallons a month its rate drops to 7c, compared with 22 cents paid by the small consumers. This figure, it was pointed out, was so low that the city lost money on it if pumping had to be resorted to.

Commissioner Stoddard suggested that the city call another bond election and if the voters refuse to give their endorsement, the entire commission resign. No action was taken on this suggestion.

Loi Snodgrass, assistant fire chief, who was present but did not take part in the discussion, following the meeting stated that he believed if every resident would turn off his hose while a fire is in progress, the fire department can be protected against a possible handicap at a fire in case the pressure should not be normal.

"While it is sometimes impossible to hear the bell all over the city if the wind is blowing, I have heard the bell as far out as the cemetery and believe that such a large portion of the residents can hear it that this would insure us sufficient pressure," he said. "Recently we had rather low pressure at a fire on the hill and when this is the case, if sprinkling is stopped it has considerable effect on the pressure."

Reading of the monthly report of the chief of police for last month and his weekly report showing four arrests in June and none last week, called forth expressions that the police should be putting a stop to motorcycles and automobiles running with cut-outs open. It was reported to the commission by a member of the audience that two motorcycles had staged a race down Adams avenue earlier in the evening, both having their cut-outs open, while several racing cars were speeding through the down-town section, too.

"There has not been an arrest for a week. I think it would be a good thing if the police got busy and stopped this driving around town with cut-outs open," Mr. Grandy said.
