AIR TRAFFIC STUMPS POLICE

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 21—How're you going to catch a low-breaking airplane, a thousand feet up in the air when you haven't a plane, balloon, or even a stepladder to get him with? That's the question agitating the District of Columbia police today on the eve of the going into effect of Washington's newest and most stringent traffic regulation.

Hereafter police will be expected to get that no flight human that skirts lower than the fixed safety limit; that some of them attempt any fancy flying; and—worst of all—that every flier over Washington roofs has a license.

It's the last section of the new rule that bothers the cops most, for there's not a single plane owned by the entire police force with which to stop the reckless in mid-air to graffly demand a sight of their permits, and what's more, say police officers, no one on the force sees any possibility of there ever being one.

Nevertheless, there's the law, and the cops are scratching their heads to find a way out.

The air traffic rule is the direct outcome of the act of a commercial flier who flew so low over the assemblage at the dedication of the Lincoln Memorial, last Decoration Day, that he drowned out President Harding's voice during his address. Public and official denunciation quickly aroused Congress to the promulgation of the regulation and it has now await the unthinking flier.

While the order was issued a month ago, the penalties do not go into effect until midnight tonight. It is provided that no flier shall descend lower than three thousand feet within the D. C. boundaries, unless making taking off or landing in another point; that all persons except United States Agents, such as army, navy, marine corps and mail fliers, must be duly licensed pilots; that no truck flying shall be attempted under any circumstances; and, that aviator shall land only at designated fields.

Qualified pilots will be granted free licenses by the District Commissioners and licenses issued by any lawfully created board of any state or by any branch of the federal government will be accepted in qualification. However, pilots passing over the District without descending into the safety zone will not be expected to have a license.

Police officials do not expect air traffic to become a very great problem for some time yet, so they will rely upon the integrity of pilots to keep within the law. If any of them try to pull the wool over police eyes by flying after they break the law, they will mark their descent and they'll be nabbed anyway.

At least one such reckless flier, who made of nuisance of himself, as well as a possible danger, by flying low over a crowded ball park, and throwing out advertising "flares," has already fallen into police clutches, as fliers said. When he landed a cop was awaiting him with a warrant for breaking the law in regard to disturbing public places with noise.
