THEATRES

AT SHERRY'S TODAY AND TOMORROW.

"The Hunch," starring Gareth Hughes, which is announced by the Sherry Theatre, is a screen adaptation of a story by Percival Wilde that appeared in the Popular Magazine. The story deals with the adventure of a young Wall Street broker who wakes one morning after a convivial party to find "Buy JH" inscribed on his shirt front. "JH" means Jerusalem Steel and the broker has a hunch that it will make his fortune. He borrows money to buy. Then the stock slumps. His loan is called in. Unable to meet it and unwilling to give up his hunch he arranges to disappear for a time, leaving a hat and knife to indicate that he has been murdered. Starting for the country, he is arrested as a suspicious character and held for his own murder.

The series of hilarious incidents that follow in the story seem made for screen use and the role of the young broker should show Mr. Hughes at his best. His appearances in "Garments of Truth," "Sentimental Tommy" "The Chorus Girl's Romance," and "The Love of Youth" place him among the most finished actors on the screen. Reports from other cities say that the charm and sparkle of his youthful personality were never more keenly felt than in "The Hunch."

Also showing "Starland Revue."

"SOUTH OF SUVA" UNUSUAL DRAMA OF THE SOUTH SEAS

"South of Suva," a Mary Miles Minter picture which opened at the Arcade Theatre last night for two days, departs decidedly from the usual run both of Mary Miles Minter photoplays in particular and South Sea dramas in general.

For one thing there isn't a girl in shredded wheat dress as heroine, nor is there a beachcomber in the whole film, and yet the production seems to strike far nearer the real life of the tropics than the average run of such pictures.

Ewart Adamson has evolved a most entertainingly melodramatic plot which offers Miss Minter splendid acting opportunities. The star is well supported by John Bowers and Walter Long.

This feature picture and Round Five of The Leather Pushers will be shown tonight for the last time.

MINNEAPOLIS OFFICE PLANNED

SPOKANE, Wash., July 25.—"The Northwest Wheat Growers' association is to establish an extensive office in Minneapolis through which we expect to handle 20,000,000 bushels of wheat this fall," said George C. Jewett, manager of the organization, with headquarters in Portland, who attended the meeting of its trustees July 19, at Spokane.

"The addition of North Dakota to the states included in the Northwest Wheat Growers' association, makes the eastern office necessary. This will handle somewhat more wheat than we handled out here last year and probably more than we will handle here this year. However, despite a poor crop in many sections, increased membership and greater deliveries by some will give us an increased amount of wheat."

MORE WHEAT IS TO BE POOLED

SPOKANE, Wash., July 25.—Despite the decreased wheat output in the northwest over last year, more wheat will be pooled by the Northwest Wheat Growers' association this fall than in 1921, declares George C. Jewett, president of the northwest association.

"Crop prospects are unfavorable in many northwest sections," said Jewett, "but the increased acreage included in this year's pool will more than offset the smaller crop. We expect to handle more wheat this year than last."

Walter J. Robinson, manager of the Northwest Wheat Growers' association, was reelected at a meeting of the association as director in Spokane, July 19. H. J. Herman of Genesee, Idaho, was reelected secretary.

Directors are R. V. Perringer, Belmont; A. R. Shumway, Milton, and Ben Hoffenbeck, Buffalo, Mont. North Dakota is not represented.

W. J. Robinson, H. J. Herman and C. A. Marth compose the executive committee for the district west of the mountains and four other members will be named later to represent North Dakota and Montana on the executive board.

CROOK'S ALFALFA CROP IS LARGE

PRINEVILLE, July 25.—Alfalfa harvest in Crook county is now in full swing according to W. B. Tucker, county agent. Over the entire county acres and acres of alfalfa may be seen curing in the shock. Warm, dry weather throughout the harvest season has proved a boon in caring for the crop. The quality of the first crop of alfalfa is better than last year. The hay is comparatively free from cheat and foul weeds.

From 8925 acres in Crook county in 1920 according to figures of a survey made by Tucker, the acreage has jumped approximately 11,000 acres. On the Ochoco Project alone it is estimated that 6500 acres are devoted to alfalfa.

The average yield will be about three tons to the acre depending upon the moisture supply. Many farmers will have three cuttings this year.

EDITORS CLOSE CONVENTION

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, July 25.—That the editors of Oregon refuse to be dragged into religious entanglements and that they denounce and condemn any effort of any party, sect, organization or individual to inject religious issues into Oregon politics, as un-American and inimical to the welfare of the people of the state of Oregon, was the substance of a resolution adopted at the 15th annual convention of the Oregon State Editorial Association, which ended its meetings in Corvallis Saturday noon with a luncheon at the Waldo cafeteria given in their honor by the Corvallis chamber of commerce.

Elbert Bede, editor of the Cottage Grove Sentinel, was re-elected president of the association, and E. H. Potwin of the Albany Herald was selected as vice-president. Hal E. Hoss of the Oregon City Enterprise was re-elected secretary. The board of directors include Clve McKay of the Bend Press, Joe Tomlinson of the Hood River Glacier, and Bert Bates of the Roseburg News-Review.

SUPREMACY TO BE CHALLENGED

(By Associated Press.)

SANTA ROSA, Cal., July 24.—Supremacy of Jimmy Murphy, California automobile race driver, as leading speedway racer of the nation will be challenged on the Cotati fair course near here Sunday, August 8, in two races, one for 100 miles and the other for 50 miles.

Murphy has won so many races this year that already he has obtained an unbreakable hold on the 1922 racing championship. However, Tommy Milton, who won the title in 1921, is going to try to beat the Californian at Cotati and also set up new records for the distances.

Other drivers to enter will be Bonnie Hill, Harry Hartz, another California driver, Roscoe Sarles, Frank Elliott, Eddie Hearne, Joe Thomas, Ralph de Palma and Jerry Wonderlich, are well-known.

Partial destruction of the San Francisco Speedway at San Carlos by fire recently leaves the Cotati track the only automobile race course in northern California and it is believed that large crowds will come here from all parts of this section for the contests.

BANDITS HOLD UP RAIL CAMP

PENDLETON, July 25.—Three men held up an O.-W. R. & N. railroad camp at Huron, east of this city, at midnight Friday night, and got $600 mostly in pay checks. One man, who refused to give his name, is under arrest in this city following an attempt to pass one of the checks here this morning. He has been identified as one of the three hold-up men.

The railroad workers, who have been on construction work in the Blue Mountains, had just been paid and very few of the checks had been cashed. The hold-up men walked into camp and at the point of revolvers held the entire camp up until they finished their search for the money.

Members of the sheriff's office, cooperating with railroad officers, notified all business houses of the stolen checks and the arrest of one of the robbers follows.

FIND BUCKETFUL OF GOLD

LIBBY, Mont., July 25.—Reports from Troy are to the effect that after the discovery of a large gold nugget weighing 11 ounces in the ore in the Snowstorm mill last week, the mill was shut down and a thorough search made for other nuggets. The result was the finding of what is described as a "bucketful of gold," valued at about $3000. No other nuggets found [illegible] was as large as the first, which is reported to have been almost as large [illegible] unusual yield of gold came from ordinary gulch gravel.
