NORTHCFILLE DIES AFTER HARD FIGHT

first public office, contrary to his resolution, and Northcliffe came to the United States as head of the British Mission in which he directed the work of some 500 officials and 10,000 assistants.

Made a Viscount.

For his services to the government in this and other respects he was made Viscount. Returning to England he was offered the post of Air Minister. This evoked a letter in which Viscount Northcliffe sharply criticized the British conduct in the war. In declining to accept the position, he declared that while the United States was preparing with fervor and enthusiasm for the war, England warbled for two years over conscription, was dallying with the question of unity of war control, eradicaiton of sedition, mobilization of the whole man and woman power of the country and introduction of compulsory food rations.

"I feel that I can do better work if I maintain my independence and am not gagged by a loyalty that I do not feel toward the whole of your demonstration," he wrote to Mr. Lloyd George. He denounced the "absurd secrecy about the war," which he said, was still prevalent and gave warning that "unless there is swift improvement in our methods here, the United States will rightly take into its own hands the entire management of a great part of the war. It will not sacrifice its blood and treasure to the incompetent handlin- of the affairs of Europe."

Accepted the Post.

Viscount Northcliffe, however, accepted the post of Director of Propaganda in Enemy Countries and for the remainder of the war directed an organization in the nations which had agents in Germany and Austria and an extensive organization in the nations bordering on them.

With the armistice and the subsequent appointment of Winston Churchill as Minister of Munitions, Viscount Northcliffe who long had been hostile to Churchill, turned against Lloyd Gerge and attacked him. This evoked from the Premier a scathing speech of criticism against the newspaper proprietor in the House House of Commons. This incident was pointed to as in keeping with the previous attitude of Northcliffe, who, it was said, never failed to criticize friend of foe alike, if he deemed their actions in public life justified it.

Lord Northcliffe was ill at the time the Armistice was signed. His illness was diagnosed as adenoma of the thyroid gland, for which he underwent an operation in June, 1919. Although he was incapacitated, he exerted considerable influence on the British government during the Peace Conference at Versailles.

Plans were made early in 1921 for a world tour. The start was delayed until July because of labor trouble, involving the publishing industry, and a renewal of hostilities between Lloyd George and himself. Lord Northcliffe attacked the motives of the Premier and Marquis Curzon in desiring to represent Great Britain at the Washington Arms Conference. As a result of this attack, government news was barred from the Northcliffe press. Lord Northcliffe sailed for America defying the boycott.

Attracted Wide Attention.

During his world tour, Lord Northcliffe occupied the public attention of each country he visited, displaying great knowledge of the problems facing each nation. Arriving in New York, July 23, 1921, he warmly endorsed President Harding's plans for the armament conference. In Australia he saw a grave danger in that country being overrun by Asiatics, and in several addresses revealed an intimate knowledge of Australia's national problems. During his tour of the Pacific he made a close study of the situation in the Far East, and in Hongkong expressed the opinion that the Anglo-Japanese Alliance was a bar to its solution. He returned to London form hi stour in May, 1922. In June he was reported to have made a tour of Germany incognito.

Shortly after the completion of his world tour, differences grew in the Newspaper Proprietors' Association over wage scales, Lord Northcliffe criticizing certain methods of the newer members of the Association. He later resigned.

In May, 1922, dissension broke out between Northcliffe and other members of the Associated Newspapers, Ltd., owners of the Northcliffe press. In June, 1922, libel suits were brought by Sir Andrew Caird, vice-chairman, and Walter G. Fish, a director of Associate Newspapers.

Suffered Nervous Breakdown.

The day on which the announcement of the filing of these suits was made, Northcliffe was reported to be suffering from a nervous breakdown in Switzerland. He was brought back to England several days later, and was reported then to be ill from ptomaine poisoning.

Early in July his differences with Lloyd George were said to have been ended and the libel actions brought by Fish and Caird were said to have been dropped. His health, however, continued to grow worse, his ailment being diagnozed as due to "unknown poisoning."

CAMPFIRE GIRLS NOW IN HILLS

Ten members of the Campfire Girls La Grande left this morning for Hilgard, where they will locate a camping site and camp for a week or possibly longer before returning to La Grande. Bad weather means nothing to the Camfire Girls, for, despite the slight rain and general cloudiness they got their equipment together and left for their camp.

Those who make up the party are Mrs. Julia Hiatt, Mrs. Ray Baum, Misats Dorothy Caldwell, Lucille Black, Lucille Craig Erma Lyman, Isabelle Miller, Ruth Bramwell, Leta Parsons and Girnette Bowery. A few other members are expecting to join the camp later in the week.

CAMP CARSON IS LOOKING GOOD

NORTH POWDER, Aug. 14.—L. M. Duncan, one of the executive members of the World Gold Co., who are operating the Camp Carson properties, was a visitor at the mining camp the past week, and reports that everything is looking splendid.

The company is also operating in Canada where they have some very promising prospects, and it looks like prosperity for this company. Work has been rather slow at Camp Carson up to this time due to the fact that it was necessary to do a lot of building and changing of mining machinery, as well as road building. However, this is all pretty well cleaned up at this time, and the company is going after real work and results from now on.

M. W. Rose, who is superintending the work at Camp Carson is a hard worker, and all his men who are at work there now are stockholders in the company, all of which will go a long way toward making Camp Carson a famous place for some years to come.

JUNTURA IS TO HAVE CHALK MILL

VALE, Aug. 14.—Efforts are being made by people at Juntura and vicinity to contract a mill at that city for marketing chalk from an almost unlimited deposit on Albert Ault's ranch. P. A. Mahon is assisting the local people in promoting the proposition.

Mr. Mahon has had considerable experience in handling this commercial product and he says the deposit of chalk is the purest and finest he has ever seen. It is situated 25 miles from Juntura and an easy down grade will make it profitable to transport the mined material to that city for milling into commercial shape.

AIRMEN HELP COMBAT FIRES

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 14. — The efficiency of the army airplane forest patrol in Oregon this year is high, according to state forest officials who have accompanied the aviators over different sections of the wooded areas of the western part of Oregon.

The planes are making their headquarters at the Eugene municipal aviation field and have no regular routes to cover as they did last year and the year before but go on flights whenever any particular fire is to be observed. The observers make notes on the exact location of the blaze, its extent, and whether or not it is burning green timber and a report is made to the land forces, thus enabling them to better combat the fires.

Eight planes are stationed in Eugene and each day three or four of them leave the local base for different portions of the western part of the state, returning each evening. No sub-bases are being maintained this year.

PEARE CALLS ON PRES. HARDING

J. H. Peare of La Grande, who is in the east attending the Knights of Columbus gathering at Atlantic City, called on President Harding a few days ago. He was accompanied to the White House by Congressman Sinnott. While in Washington he was also a guest of Senator McNary and Senator Stanfield

Walter Pierce to Furnish Pair of Jack to Pull Float in Dokie Show

Pendleton Dokies are much interested in the coming convention at La Grande. The patrol team at Pendleton is drilling thrice weekly in anticipation of the event. The famous Fatima dancing girl of Pendleton will be brought over to participate in stunt night. A float which requires a span of Jacks is being arranged for, Walter M. Pierce having agreed to supply the mules. These are few of the items of local interest brought back to La Grande by Dekile Green, secretary of Khaled Temple, and A. W. Nelson, manager of the Ad Club, after a short visit to Pendleton last week-end.

Tourists in Camp at City Park Were Snug During the Rainstorm

A Tourist parties to the number of eleven spent last night at the city park and are reported to have been comfortable in spite of the rain and the cold. The seclusion of the trees tends to reduce the chill of the night blasts. All moved out this morning except two parties.

SECOND GROWTH MAY BE RESULT

Another rain hit the Grande Ronde valley today. Haymakers, potato farmers and the people at large wore a big smile and were trying to cheer up the grain growers who were forced to discontinue their harvesting until the weather clears up.

Th rain will help the spring wheat to some extent but will do the most good to the spud farmers. It is expected that a second growth of potatoes will result. The hay farmers are rejoicing as it means a larger second growth of alfalfa and will help the late hay of all kinds. Pasturage will be benefitted, wonderfully.

Incidentaly, the rain will lower the fire hazard in the forests to a marked degress.

"A MARRIED BACHELOR" AT THE GARDENS

(By The Gardens Publicity Agent)

"A Married Bachelor" was presented at The Gardens last night and will be repeated this evening. A fair crowd was in attendance last night and were pleased with the program. The married bachelor, played by Eddie Mar, was a musical comedy with a clearly defined plot that came to a side-splitting climax. Good musical numbers interspersed the two acts.

The manager of the open air theater announced that "Peck's Bad Boy" would be shown on Tuesday and Wednesday. This play is being shown by a number of troupes all over the country and, although somewhat different from the cinema version, it is said to be a scream from start to finish.

SUMMONS.

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for Union County.

Ella Cook, plaintiff, versus Lee Cook, Defendant.

To Lee Cook, the above named defendant:

IN THE NAME OF THE STATE OF OREGON you are hereby required to appear and answer the complaint filed against you in the above entitled court and cause, on or before six weeks from date of the first publication of this summons.

You will take notice that if you fail to appear and answer for want thereof, the plaintiff will apply to the Court for the relief prayed for in the complaint herein, to-wit; for judgment that the bonds of matrimony heretofore and now existing by and between plaintiff and defendant be forever dissolved and held of naught and that she be granted an absolute divorce from defendant, and that she have her maiden name, Ella Morgan, restored to her.

You will further take notice that this summons is published once a week for six consecutive weeks, or seven publications, in the La Grande Evening Observer, a newspaper published in the City of La Grande, Union County, Oregon, by order of the Honorable U. G. Couch, County Judge of Union County, Oregon, which order is dated Aug. 12th 1922, and the first publication of which is made on the 14th day of August, 1922.
