THEATRES

AT SHERRYS—TODAY

Albert Payson Terhune, the author of "Grand Larceny," the next Goldwyn photoplay to be shown at the Sherry Theatre for two days, beginning today, has written a powerful melodrama that will make men think less of themselves and more of the women they profess to love. The story, as unfolded by the reliable Goldwyn process, presents the heroine as a rose between two thorns. She happens to be married to one, but that doesn't stop the other from breaking the matrimonial bond against coveting one's neighbor's wife.

As may be surmised, the family is broken up. Then follows a series of events that leads to the surprising denouement. This much may be said without disclosing so much of the story as to spoil the observer's enjoyment of it. The girl finally learns that most men consider women as a form of property that may be decorated and shown off to the world. Her reaction to this brings about the defeat of both men's desires.

Claire Windsor, a slender blond beauty, plays the leading feminine role, while the nation's present "movie" husband, Elliott Dexter, gives an excellent interpretation of his part. Other well known actors in the cast, which was directed by Wallace Worley, are Richard Tucker, Tom Gallery, Roy Atwell and John Cosser. Some extraordinary beautiful interiors have been designed by Cedric Gibbons, the Goldwyn art director. They are examples of beautiful modern interior decorations that will suggest ideas to many a discerning woman who sees "Grand Larceny."

Also showing Irving Cummings' in "Cameron of the Mounted."

SUPERBLY GOWNED IS AGNES AYRES IN HER NEW PHOTOPLAY

Rich toilettes of them, of the latest style, are a feature of "The Ordeal," Agnes Ayres latest Paramount starring vehicle which opens at the Arcade Theatre for two days beginning Friday.

Miss Ayres interprets the part of a young widow who inherits a fortune which she will lose if she marries again. Widows with money are expected to be well-dressed, hence Miss Ayres' wardrobe in this picture is said to be a real delight to the feminine eye.

For instance, there's a pleasant blue evening gown with opalescent sequins and crystal beads, finished with velvet to match. Specially striking are slippers and fan of blue pleasant leathers.

For motoring and street wear Miss Ayres has a moleskin suit and a gorgeous ermine wrap with white toque feathers.

Simple but striking in its line is a dinner gown of taupe chiffon embellished in velvet flowers of the same tone. A striking walking dress is of navy blue faille brocaded in black satin.

"The Ordeal," written by W. Somerset Maugham, is said to be a most unusual picture. Beniah Marie Dix made the adaptation while Paul Powell directed, included in the cast are Conrad Nagel, Clarence Burton, Edna Murphy, Edward Sutherland, Adole Farrington, Claire Dubrey, Edward Martindale and Shannon Day.

REMARKABLE DOGS IN "THE GREAT ALONE"

Two of the greatest "huskies" in the whole wide world, are shown in "The Great Alone," Monroe Salisbury's latest starring vehicle. They are Mike and Duke, the guide of Sam Mulatto's strike. For the benefit of those who may not be connoisseurs of dogs, "huskies" are the wonderfully intelligent Alaskan eagles. Not only do the north men depend upon their strength and endurance for transportation, but the safety of life and limb of man and beast lies entirely with the leaders. When the ground is covered by several feet of snow, it is impossible for man to know what lies under the drifts. The dogs do. And that's where the leaders exercise a sagacity which is almost unbelievable. And while every "husky" has this instinct, there are those in which it is very highly developed and which will unerringly pick their way and avoid danger spots while on the run. The striking guide of Sam Mulatto is considered one of the best in the Canadian Northwest and Alaska; and Mike and Duke, the leaders, are worth a small fortune.

These dogs will be seen with Monroe Salisbury at the Star Theatre and Sunday.
