SEAL'S PITCHER DISPROVES DOPE

"Death Valley" Jim Scott, Leading Pitcher in Pacific Coast League, Comes Back Despite Aged Theory.

(City Associated Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 13.—"Death Valley" Jim Scott, leading pitcher this season of the Pacific Coast (Baseball) League, is disproving the theory that a baseball player never can come back. Once a world series star, but later released as a has been, Scott forged his way to the head of the Coast League in a manner that has attracted widespread attention.

Bothered for several years by rheumatism that made it increasingly difficult to get into condition, and by some extra pounds of weight that did not disappear until the season was well under way, Scott spent all of last winter hunting in the forests of Oregon and appeared in fine trim this spring. The results of his extra months of training were apparent in his pitching, which has been as baffling to Coast League batters this season as it once was to major leaguers.

Scott was among the leading pitchers of the Chicago White Sox in the days when they were known as the "hitless wonders," and was one of the first baseball players to don a uniform when the United States entered the war in 1917.

Scott left firing a locomotive on desert trains for baseball. He began by devoting his spare hours to play in the Imperial Valley Winter League, where a White Sox scout found him in the winter of 1904-5, when the Chicago team came out to California for winter training.

The young pitcher was signed up and gone to fame almost immediately as a companion to "Doc" Edward White, "Piano Leg" Sault and other harriers of the hitless wonders, his fast ball and the number of his strike-outs being notable.

In 1917, a month before the opening of the world series, but after the Chicago team had clinched the American League pennant, he asked Comiskey for permission to drop out so he could enter an officers' training camp at the Presidio of San Francisco. He was given a leave of absence and received his share of the world series money despite the fact that he did not play in the contests.

Scott secured a captain's commission and at Camp Lewis, after winning fame as a grenade thrower, was made athletic officer of the camp. After the war he was given a release and joined the San Francisco club of the Coast League, but made no great showing until this year, when he gained and maintained first place among the league's moundsmen.

KANSAS HAS NO 'WET' ISSUE

(City Associated Press)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 13.—Complete absence of the wet and dry issue marks the coming election in Kansas, not one candidate having injected the question into the contests in the dry's stronghold.
Statements from a number of congressional and state candidates indicated they were ignoring the due in their campaigns because they did not consider it existed in any of the state or district contests.

THE KEY THAT UNLOCKS THE DOOR TO LONG LIVING.

The man of eighty-five and ninety years of age are not the rotund, well-fed, but thin, spare men, who live on a slender diet. He as careful as he will, however, a man past middle age will occasionally eat too much or of some article of food not suited to his constitution, causing indigestion or constipation and will need a dose of Chamberlain's Tablets to move his bowels and invigorate his stomach. When this is done, there is no reason why the average man should not live to a ripe old age.—Adv.

STRIKE SETTLED

Yes, the coal miners' strike is being settled on old scale of wages, approximately 30 per cent higher than has been paid since April 1st, 1922. This means higher mine prices and, of course, higher retail cost of coal. All fuel is bound to be scarce and higher.
