which combines thrills, romance and pathos in equal parts. The supporting company is excellent.

AT SHERRY'S LAST DAY.

"The Prodigal Judge" was adapted from Vaughan Keeler's famous novel of the same name. Jean Paige whose success in "Black Beauty" brought her into the limelight is featured in the production and heads an all-star cast under direction of Edward Jones. In this production Vitaphone has produced one of the greatest pictures in its long and notable career. Scenically it is a feast for the eye. With the action laid in Tennessee in 1875, there were splendid opportunities for costuming. The Southern scenery, with its moss-covered trees, its broad stretches of the slow moving Mississippi river and great vistas of plantations afford colorful and picturesque backgrounds for the wonderful story of the love of Betty Malloy for Bruce Carrington, the riverman, and the Damon and Pythias friendship between Slocum Price Tuberville, the prodigal but lovable judge, and Solomon Mahaffy, his dour but equally lovable companion. These two types, new either to the screen or the stage, undoubtedly rank with the best known characters of stage tradition. There is a tear and a laugh, exciting spectacular scenes interspersed with quiet humor—everything that goes to make the perfect picture. "The Prodigal Judge" is more than a mere picture story—it is the Rembrandt of the screen.

POULTRY SHOW IS EXTRA FINE

SALEM, Sept. 22.—Poultry raisers and fanciers are to be given the privilege of attending one of the largest and most comprehensive poultry shows ever held in the Pacific Northwest when the week of the annual Oregon state fair rolls around, beginning September 26. The poultry exhibit this year will far surpass any ever held at the state fair.

Friends an Expensive Luxury. Friends are an expensive luxury; and when a man's whole capital is invested in a calling and a mission in life, he cannot afford to keep them. The costliness of keeping friends does not lie in what one does for them, but in what one, out of consideration for them, refrains from doing. This means the crushing of many an intellectual germ.—Letter, Ibsen to Brandes, 1870.

SENSATION DRAMA, "SHAME," IS

"Shame," the William Fox special which created a sensation in New York, has been booked for the Star Theatre and will be shown there today, Saturday and Sunday.

This is an announcement of importance, for the picture is conceded to be one of the greatest of the year. Its power of appeal was tested at a prominent Broadway theatre, where it drew large crowds at every performance and made a tremendous impression.

"Shame" is the story of a young man, David Fielding, born in an alien land, who is brought back to the family home in San Francisco as a child after his father's tragic death. He inherits his grandfather's enormous wealth and becomes head of the big Fielding shipping interests. He marries a beautiful and talented woman, and as expected paternity. Life, so far, has been kind to young Fielding.

From the country where the young shipping magnate was born comes a trader of evil reputation, who had been bailed in some of his nefarious schemes by David's father. He finds the son and in revenge tells him he is a half-caste, son of William Fielding, and a native woman in the far-away country. The trader threatens to tell the story unless David agrees to enter with him and his shipping facilities into a huge smuggling enterprise. David refuses indignantly, and laughs at the story of mixed blood. The thought preys upon him, however, and finally drives him to take his infant child and flee from civilization to the snow-fields of Alaska. There he battles with a wolf and experiences other wild adventures. The mystery of his life is cleared in startling fashion.

"Shame" was directed by Emmett J. Flynn.

"KINDRED OF THE DUST" HAS POPULAR APPEAL.

You will enjoy "Kindred of the Dust," a First National attraction which started a three-day run at the Arcade Theatre yesterday.

You'll enjoy it for a number of reasons: It was produced by Raoul A. Walsh, who directed those successes, "The Oath," "Serenade," and many others; it was written by Peter H. Kyne, the famous author; the leading roles are taken by Miriam Cooper and Ralph Graves, and last but not least, it is an Associated First National.

This combination is always a guarantee of real entertainment, and it is doubly so in this instance, for never has a picture reached the screen which contained so many dramatic and romantic elements as "Kindred of the Dust." Thrills galore, a touch of humor and a dash of adventure, with pure romance winding its way through the mazes of the plot, makes this picture one of the events of the season.

The director has not rested there; he has assembled one of the most capable casts ever found in one picture, and the result is perfect entertainment.

Patrons of the Arcade Theatre are to be congratulated on their opportunity to see such films as "Kindred of the Dust."

25 REAL COWPUNCHERS IN FILM AT SHERRY'S SUNDAY AND MONDAY.

A western picture and not a "movie" cowboy in it!

This is the distinction given "North of the Rio Grande," a Jack Holt-Bebe Daniels Paramount picture which opens at the Sherry Theatre for two days beginning Sunday next.

For instead of recruiting his cowboys in Hollywood, Director Rollin Sturgeon waited until he arrived at his Arizona "location"—and then employed twenty-five from bona-fide cow ranches.

Remarkably rugged scenery, "shot" in places where it is said no cameras have ever before found lodgment. Form a background for a story which carries its action swiftly back and forth across the great border and involves the two popular co-stars in a story.
