

DEBATE NEW YORK'S AGE

Hollanders Debate on Question of Age of New York City; Difference of Two Years Questionable.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Oct. 2.—Out of the archives of 200 years ago, Hollanders have brought to light a letter which the Netherlands Chamber of Commerce deprecates a claim that the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the founding of New Amsterdam, now New York, should be in 1924, rather than 1624, as tentative plans suggested.

Here is the letter, with its Dutch and English versions of the not wholly new 200-year-old letter, which the chamber deprecates as "unhistorical and unscientific." The letter is dated August 1, 1624, and is addressed to the Dutch West India Company, which at that time was the sole proprietor of the colony of New Amsterdam.

The Dutch West India Company, which at that time was the sole proprietor of the colony of New Amsterdam, was founded in 1621. It was a joint stock company, and its capital was divided into shares. The company was founded by the Dutch government, and it was the first Dutch colony in North America.

MORE, KEEP RIGHT ON SINGING. That's what Miss Victoria Means of Seattle, Wash., did. As a result, she is headed for an operatic prima donna career. She sang as she sailed in a box factory.

A singing instructor, heard her, and offered her vocal training. Then Ed Andrews, veteran light opera comedian, "found" her, and has arranged for her to study abroad.

A GOOD PRIZE. A prize of $100,000 was offered by the Dutch government to the first person to reach the North Pole. The prize was won by Robert Peary in 1909.

KETCHIKAN, Alaska, Oct. 2.—Once the sailing master of this coast, the famous ship in which Robert Louis Stevenson crossed through the South Sea Islands, Captain John N. Carleton is now in the U. S. lighthouse service near Ketchikan.

Captain Carleton recalls Stevenson as a quiet man, much beloved by all his crew, who even overlooked his one great failing—playing the piano.

STEEL PLANES ARE NOT HEAVY

LONDON, Sept. 4.—(By Mail).—Great Britain possesses an all-steel biplane, a distinct departure in aerial construction. Except for its canvas wings the entire machine is built of steel. Nevertheless, it is four per cent lighter than a wooden airplane of the same dimensions.

The plane is made that this machine shows a great advance over German airplanes constructed of aluminum alloy, which is said to lack the strength of British steel. It is equipped with two Napier 1,000 horsepower engines. Although designed as a long distance bomber, it is said to be so easy to maneuver as a little fighting scout. This is because of its steel construction, which permits the grouping of all weights.

Advantages claimed for all steel airplanes are greater strength, increased load carrying capacity, ease of manufacturing in large numbers, and the fact that they are less vulnerable to bullets and shrapnel while flying, and also that they are virtually fireproof.

Loss Weight When Submerged. Water has a buoyant effect. Any object weighs less in water than in air. The decreased weight is equal to the weight of the water displaced. When you get a chance, hold a rock under water and notice its heaviness; then lift it above the water and feel its increased weight.
