DENMARK HELPS AUSTRIAN BABES

Copenhagen is Charitable to Austrian Children; Six Months is Time Limit for Visits.

By the Associated Press
COPENHAGEN, Sept. 5.—(By Mail)—Large numbers of Austrian children, particularly little boys and girls from Vienna, have been spending their summers in Denmark as guests of every-thing from the Danish community. But they have been distinctly understood by the Danish authorities that no child should be allowed to stay in Denmark more than six months unless special permission for a prolonged stay were given.

Many of these Austrian children have grown very fond of their Danish hosts, and vice versa, and the leave-taking at the railway stations, when these children are sent back to Austria, takes in many instances a most poignant and painful form.

Little Mita Wolf-Schellinger is nine, and the daughter of an Austrian soldier who was killed on the Italian frontier during the war. Her mother was left to shift for Mita and herself on a pension that barely covered the cost of rent, and she was happy when she got an opportunity of sending Mita on a long holiday to Denmark, and hospitable people in Denmark, Mita and her foster-parents became very fond of each other. The latter was so well-pleased that they managed to obtain permission for Mita to stay for a whole year. But when the local authorities could do no more, the foster-parents were told that Mita had to return to Vienna.

The next day Mita and her foster-mother left the provincial town in which they were living, and travelled all day and night in Copenhagen. His Majesty, the king, was going to give public audiences, and Mita and her foster-mother had made a plan.

The king received Mita. She told him of her troubles, and that she wanted to stay forever in Denmark. Her foster-parents were willing to adopt her, and her mother in Vienna had consented to renounce all claims of motherhood. Could she possibly say her King Christian smiled and knew her and promised to look into the matter. A few days later she received a personal letter from the king telling her that he had used his royal prerogative in her behalf, and that whenever she wanted to she could become a Danish girl.

Charm in Difficult Undertakings.
Providence has hidden a charm in difficult undertakings which is appreciated only by those who dare to grapple with them.—Miss Swetelme.

With 10 gallons of moonshine in his possession, which was confiscated, Deputy Sheriff Patterson arrested a man named Thompson living four miles from Baker on the Scumpler Valley railroad.

The one way to keep sound, perfect teeth
THE only way to keep the priceless blessing of sound, perfect teeth is to eat the kind of food that supplies them not only with proper nourishment but gives them work to do. Grape-Nuts not only induces thorough mastication, but also supplies the lime and other elements required for building firm tooth structure.
This wholesome, healthful cereal food is made from whole wheat flour and malted barley. All the nutriment of these splendid grains, including the vital mineral elements so often lacking in so-called "refined" foods, is retained.
A delicious, appetizing dish, Grape-Nuts, with cream or good milk, provides complete nourishment for body, bone and nerves, in readily digestible form.
