ELGIN, Oct. 14.—Several Elgin members attended the County Farmers' Union meeting held last Saturday at the hall in Boulder. The most splendid dinner was served at noon. The afternoon was devoted to a discussion of county expenses and plans for attempting a reduction. The next county meeting will be held at Elgin on the second Saturday in January. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hugg, Mrs. H. H. Hugg and children, Mrs. John Klinghammer and Mrs. Lynn Hill.

Miss Lee Hader has been spending a few days of the past vacation with her cousin, Mrs. Ruth Hader of Boulder.

Catch Where Indians Had Gathered
Munitions Found in Cave in Wayne County, Kentucky.

Rumor of what once was a flourishing "munitions factory" are sheltered in a cave 14 miles east of Mill Springs in Wayne county, Kentucky, in the opinion of Prof. A. M. Miller, head of the department of geology at the University of Kentucky.

This "factory," according to Professor Miller, produced arrow heads to tip the shafts of Indian braves whose no man's land, in the days before the squirrel rifle supplanted the bow, was Kentucky.

Professor Miller returned recently from a trip to Wayne county, where he prospected for caves, rockhouses and old Indian village sites, favorable ground for the finding of extinct mammoth remains.

"Two rockhouses and one cave were examined," he said. "In one of these, about fourteen miles east of Mill Springs, numerous arrow heads in various stages of completion were scattered at a shallow depth over the floor, furnishing evidence that this shelter formerly was an arrow head workshop of aborigines."

The other rockhouse also gave evidence of having been a popular resort of the aborigines. Human bones found in the cave lead to the belief that it had been used as a burial place.

SCARED BY UNUSUAL SOUND

Music (?) of Motor Horn Drive Lions
From Oxen Which Had Seemed to Them Easy, Prey.

The foot of a single motor horn has been found sufficient, in Africa, to quiet stampeded oxen and cause a pair of flesh-eating lions to slink away into the bushes.

Two native drivers were recently conducting a wagon drawn by sixteen oxen to the railroad camp, in the wilds near Nakuru, the site of the new East African railway, when the oxen were attacked by three lions. The drivers fled to nearby trees. The oxen became panic-stricken and dashed down the rough road, dragging along the body of one ox, killed by the lions, with the swirling wagon behind them. The lions followed their prey.

This was the motor procession that created a lone motorist at a curve of the road. He had no rifle, and it was almost an unconscious movement that took his hand to the horn button. At the first sound the lions seemed puzzled. The motorist then blew loud and long. As the uncanny and sustained shriek rose above the clamor of the frightened animals the lions slunk away among the rocks, headed for the shelter of the bush, and the oxen, aware clear of the dust-covered automobile and came to a stop at the side of the road.

Heard Here and There.
"Opportunity" divulged the henpeck, "knocks but once, proving it is not of the feminine sex."
"Might," explained the big man gently to the little man whom he was counseling rather urgently, "isn't right, but it helps a whole lot."
"Religion," cried the atheist, "is a lax explanation of mystery."
"Things left unsaid," wept the unsuccessful flatterer whose object of flirtation refused to respond with even a single syllable, "often hurt more than things spoken."
"Bah, bah!" answered the baby when asked his opinion of a piece of free verse just read him.

He Auto Look Bad.

"Good afternoon, Mrs. Jones," exclaimed Mr. Brown. "What a coincidence, meeting you. I ran into your husband an hour ago."

"How funny!" replied Mrs. Jones. "And how did you think he was looking?"

"Pretty poorly."

"Well, I'm surprised to hear you say that. Everyone says he is looking much better lately."

"Well, he looked bad enough an hour ago," said Mr. Brown.

"I wonder why that was," said Mrs. Jones.

"Oh, I can tell you that," said Mr. Brown. "You see, I was in my car when I ran into him—Farm Life."

TEACHERS STAND BY CHURCHILL

Strong Resolution Adopted
By Convention in Baker
Favoring the State Superintendent.

It is quite apparent that the teachers of Eastern Oregon want no change in the office of state superintendent, for the meeting at Baker firmly favored Mr. Churchill's work in every way. In that meeting were many La Grande teachers all of whom joined in the full spirit of the resolution.

Following is the report of the resolutions committee of that body which report was adopted. We thank the Housing Committee and the citizens of Baker who opened their homes for the accommodation of the teachers. We appreciate the splendid work of County Superintendent Parker and Ivanhoe for the splendid program and for their earnest efforts in making the la-
