Number of Stars Estimated.
Astronomers have counted the stars in typical districts and from these partial counts here and there we get some idea of the total number of stars and there are estimated to be between two and three thousand million stars.—J. A. Thomson in "The Outline of Science."

"In Arcadia."
"I, too, was born in Arcadia," credited to Aristophanes. Schiller born in 1795 died in 1805. Good adopted this motto for his "Travels in Italy." Little or nothing appears to be known concerning Schiller, and the Arcadia line is the only quotation attributed to him.

TO GAIN A GOOD REPUTATION.
The way to gain a good reputation is to endeavor to be what you appear. That is probably the manner in which manufacturers' rough remedies have gained its reputation as a cure for various skin eruptions and whooping cough. Many people that have even been told not to be the manufacturer's have been led up to the high standard of excellence claimed for it. People have noted that it can be depended upon on the other and care of their ailments and that it is pleasant and safe to take.

FIVE NOMINATED

Some local candidates by petition. The question developed no factions and no complaints. Several speakers voiced the common sentiment that city business must be managed as economically as possible, but in no pointed or past extravagant or suggested where expenses should be cut down. The nominees for all offices, many of whom declined on the spot were:
