BOOTLEGGING METHODS TOLD

Methods of Running Whiskey in Bermudas is Explained.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Oct. 14. (By Mail).—This is how some marine bootleggers are believed to operate in Bermudan waters. Such a man comes to Hamilton and engages a steamer of small dimensions, or a motor boat. Then he buys whiskey ashore, and loads his ship to the rails with the product of the Scotch distillers. He clears for a Canadian port and puts to sea.

Within a day or so, sometimes within 24 hours, the vessel is back in Hamilton, but without her cargo. Were he pressed for an explanation the bootlegger doubtless would say, with a smile, that he was caught in a storm which washed away his deck load, and that he had even to throw overboard the cases below decks to lighten the ship.

Ships entering American ports may not be permitted to carry liquor, but with this law the man with a local charter does not necessarily concern himself. His interest is limited to these waters. He has been known to talk of latter day pirates, but he does not seem particularly to fear them. A "pirate" with a desire to sell for $12.00 a bottle, what he can lift at sea for nothing, perhaps, sails from an American port and heads for Bermuda. He lays off and on until he meets a victim in the shape of a small motor boat. He overhauls her, and with a display of force sufficient to warrant a recital on the docks when the motor boat gets back to Hamilton, he transfers the cargo he desires.

RUSSIA GRAIN EXPORT SMALL

LONDON, Oct. 13. (By Mail).—"Exportation of grain from Russia this year is in the highest degree unlikely," says Dr. Lincoln Hutchinson of Berkeley, Calif., special agricultural investigator for the American Relief Administration who has just returned to London from Moscow.

It was on Dr. Hutchinson's investigations of last winter that the A. R. A. based its relief measures for the Ukraine and Trans-Caucasia, and he has recently been making trips through the Volga Valley and the Ukraine with the object of assessing the present harvest.

In spite of an adequate crop for the whole country there will be localized shortage areas in both the Volga Valley and the Ukraine, Dr. Hutchinson declares. Whether these areas will be supplied by those with surplus crops, depends on the system of distribution.

Dr. Hutchinson says there is no danger of a repetition in Russia of the famine of last year.

Who Offers Best Chance For Tax Relief?

There are two candidates for Governor, both claiming that the vital problem before the people of the State of Oregon is the problem of tax reduction and equalization.

The Republican candidate, Mr. Olcott, made this discovery two years ago and, at that time, in a special message to the legislature, asked permission to appoint a committee for the purpose of making a complete investigation of the situation and devising ways and means for remedying whatever unnecessary tax burdens or tax inequalities that might exist.

The Democratic candidate, Mr. Pierce, was appointed on this committee by Governor Olcott, and it was not until that committee had been at work for over a year, and he had become a candidate for governor, that Mr. Pierce made the discovery that the tax question was a good campaign issue. Mr. Olcott discovered it two years before without any intention of making it a campaign issue.

Which man then is apt to be most sincere in his conviction, especially in view of the fact that Mr. Pierce as a legislator is responsible, by his own bills, and votes of approval, for 35 per cent of the state tax burden?

Republicans On Record

Moreover, the entire Republican party in Oregon is on record through its delegates to a state convention as being with Governor Olcott in his plan to effect reductions and equalizations in the tax burden. The State platform, adopted at that convention, says:

"We believe that the vital issue in this campaign is the question of decreasing and equalizing the tax burden. The Republican party in this state recognized this necessity at the last regular session of the legislature two years ago and, at the request of the governor, Ben W. Olcott, authorized the appointment of a committee to investigate the matter and make recommendations, in order that the next legislature might have something definite and concrete to enable it intelligently to pass genuinely constructive laws upon this subject.

(1) "We pledge ourselves to legislation which will bring to the assessment rolls vast amounts of property, real and personal, now omitted therefrom, thereby relieving the burden of those who are now paying all the taxes.

(2) "We pledge ourselves to legislation vesting in the state tax commission plenary power to effect equal primary assessment, thus equalizing property assessments between individual taxpayers and thus further decreasing the burden of the man who now pays all the taxes.

(3) "We favor the abolition of useless boards and commissions and the consolidation of departments to prevent duplication and we pledge ourselves to a definite and equitable plan for the retirement of the State's outstanding bonded indebtedness where no definite provision for its retirement has already been made and we refuse to submit proposals for further bond issues at special elections."

Candidates Also Pledged

Governor Olcott and all the Republican legislative candidates are pledged definitely to the tax reduction program. Who, then, is likely to give to the people of Oregon needed relief in this matter—Ben W. Olcott, who originated the tax reduction idea, two years ago, and a solid republican legislature backing a republican governor in his plans, or Walter Pierce, with an official record as a salary booster and a tax booster, that has no equal in the legislative annals of Oregon? During his campaign, Mr. Pirce has advanced first one plea and then another, all of which have been proven absolutely fallacious, impractical and apparently propounded without any consideration except that as a bait for catching votes.

Mr. Olcott, on the other hand, is standing four-square on the Republican State Platform and will be backed by a Republican State Legislature, working in harmony with him on the state of facts that will be set forth in the report of the tax investigation commission which Governor Olcott appointed and which commission, at the time of its appointment, was referred to by the Oregon Journal as "appointments that are most excellent."

We believe the sane, conservative, thoughtful voters of the State of Oregon will take no chance on any wild ideas advocated during the heat of an election campaign but will trust their problem to the man who first discovered it and who started the machinery in motion to remedy it, two years before there was any campaign in operation and at a time when he was not thinking of being a candidate for re-election.

The hope of the tax payer in getting some relief not only from state taxes but from local taxes, through changes in assessment laws, lies in the election of Ben W. Olcott, backed as he will be by a Republican legislature and a Republican State organization, pledged by a platform to accomplish this end.
