BRUTE ATTACKS A LITTLE GIRL

PORTLAND, Nov. 8.—A 19-year-old girl, whose name was not revealed by the police, was attacked and brutally assaulted at about 11:20 last night in the wooded district at the foot of Massachusetts avenue, Overlook addition, near where she resides with her parents. Following the attack the man dragged a bicycle from the brush nearby and fled.

According to the story of the girl she was returning home from downtown when the man approached her with a newspaper in his hand. As he drew near he asked where he could find a street number, and before she could reply he dragged her over the steep bank at the foot of Massachusetts avenue, clamping his hand over her mouth so that she could not scream for help.

After a tussle, in which the girl was scratched and badly bruised all of the clothes were torn from the girl.

After the girl had been thoroughly subdued, the man robbed and subjected the girl to every sort of indignity. She was kept a prisoner for 30 to 45 minutes.

According to the girl's story, her assailant wore a dark old hat which he kept pulled down over his eyes, a dark coat and blue overalls. Deftly the overalls he wore woman's stockings, woman's bloomers, a corset and aingham skirt.

After the attack, the man rolled the woman's clothing, which he had torn, into a bundle, dumped the overalls and other man's clothes, obtained a bicycle from the brush where he evidently had concealed it and made his escape.

The beast also took $20 from the girl's purse after the attack.

The girl proceeded to her home, where her parents called the police. She received medical treatment at once, and it was said by the doctors that she would not be likely to suffer any permanent injuries, but she was in a serious condition from nervous shock.

The girl described her assailant as from 25 to 30 years old, about 5 feet 7 inches and weighing about 150 pounds.

RISE IS BARRED IN JAPANESE NEWSPAPER

TOKIO, Nov. 8.—Japanese police, in investigating crime, believe that the publication of facts may assist the criminal to escape. Several cases have occurred recently where the newspapers have published the fact about murders only to be told after it had all been in print that no further reference should be made to the crime. Newspapers which in such circumstances are closely watched have come out with blank columns the police having at the last moment ordered news of the event to be suppressed.

Did you ever see a man who got to the top of the ladder by being a grocer? Neither did we.

PIERCE GETS OUT OF BED FOR FRIENDS

Walter lay under his eider-down comforts out on the ranch in slumber.

"Send for him. He can't dodge his crowd of old La Granderers for you know him, and he has to come," was the orders given. Walter was sent for. Loud hurrahs awakened him and he crawled from his comfortable couch doffing his pajamas as he turned on the light and donning his citizen's garb ready if necessary to take the stump and make a few more speeches if need be to win the election.

But the election was won and when he was informed that he was the next governor of Oregon, the horny-handed son of toil, "That's fine, but I am missing some awful good sleep and I need it."

There was no sleep for that boy or his friends pushed him into their car and at the Rex hall he was introduced amid loud applause as Oregon's next governor.

Responding to the introduction Walter M. Pierce assured the crowd that he was very appreciative of the reception. "It is not a tribute to me personally," he remarked. "It is a product of the conditions that exist. People of Oregon are grasping for something or somebody to save them from property confiscation by taxes. They have chosen me now to lead the fight against state extravagance throughout the commonwealth. They have done it regardless of party, for we all know that unless Oregon property is saved to its owners we will have a terrible condition to face. I am going to do my very best to make you all a good governor. I am going to be a governor for all of Oregon. As for the school bill which seems to have passed, that will not, under the measure, become operative for many months and during that time we must get together and do what seems to be best for the entire state. I have no sore spots. I have forgotten already the thrills and jabs that were made at me in a personal way, and I want everyone to forget any feeling they may possess over this campaign. Again, my dear friends who have given me this reception, I thank you. I want you to know that I deeply appreciate this, and I want you to know further that I am a La Grande man and always will be. I love this town and this valley and it is a privilege for me to always call it home."
