Mayo Has Great Role in New Film

What is a bluff? According to Webster, it is the act of deceiving by manner, speech or expression; hoodwinking or blindfolding. And the "pamphlet" hero in "Caught Bluffing," the Universal attraction starring Frank Mayo, does his bluffing in a different sort of way.

To save "the only girl" he resorts to card sharp cunning in bluffing a two-gun man out of a hand in poker in which a human life is staked against a fortune in cash.

Frank Mayo as the gambler, has a role as extraordinary in "Caught Bluffing" as he has in "The Last of the Mohicans," a Klondike gambler, and a science hall proprietor, at the same time enacting the part of the tenderest of lovers. Mayo, in the last-mentioned role, is the "caught bluffing" role, is never "caught bluffing."

In the leading feminine role is Edna Murphy, who is making a strong bid for stardom. Others in the supporting cast are Wallace MacDonald, Jack Curtis, Ruth Boyce, Andrew Arbuckle, "Bill" Durham, Martin Best, Jack Walters, Scott Turner and Tote Dugrow.

Also showing Franklyn Farnum in "Shackles of Fate," a two reel western feature.
