THEATRES

A BREWING MEASURE OF ENTERTAINMENT

Will Be on the Vaudeville at the Arcade Theater Sunday.

The featured attraction on this bill is "Upside Down Stanley," a class looking, fine appearing young chap known the world over as "The Topsy Turvy Man," who presents one of the most original, exclusive, and withal the best novelty act of its kind in vaudeville, that of performing all kinds of juggling feats while standing on his head. He is assisted by a pretty little miss, besides acting as assistant, manages to inject some clever acrobatic interpolations during the act. This is an offering that will surprise, thrill and entertain most delightfully. Harry Davis, a talented and clever blackface comedian entertains easily in a variety of selection of songs, parodies and witty sayings. It is seldom that one sees an English comedian doing blackface comedy and getting away with it, but Mr. Davis is well supplied with new material and knows when and where to place a laugh. This is a snappy and thoroughly entertaining offering and will prove a popular number. Bernard & Macdonald's singing, talking and dancing number which is comprised of popular songs, dances and comedy patter, presented in a most entertaining manner. The Stafford Comedy Trio, three clever young harmony singers singing popular and old songs in a most pleasing manner open the show. They are also great laugh producers, all of their comedy being of the "bad-lip" variety presented with booming smile and happy understanding.

In addition to the vaudeville number a two-reel comedy and a late News reel will be shown.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY AT SHERRAN'S.

Faith is a tremendous factor in promoting the success of men in all walks of life, according to Thomas Meighan, star in "If You Believe It, It's So," his new picture. His theory is that if you believe a thing, it will come true.

"So I feel that I am willing to back up my statement that this picture will be one of the best in which I have ever appeared," Meighan believes in it, and to prove it, he gave me a supporting cast that couldn't be beaten. Just consider the list: Pauline Stark in leading woman; Joseph Dowling in "The Miracle Man" in the picture which proved enormously popular; Theodore Roberts, one of the "best" actors in the profession; Charles O. Ray, another fine character actor; Charles Powell, Tom Kennedy, E. J. Brady and Sara Alton who could you find a finer lineup? Tom Forman directed the picture, discussed it with me over and over again. We developed every point to its last possible degree. All we can see where there's a hole, hole for do it."

In the year of 1914, Tidell, Calif. was one of the wildest towns in the West. A young minister was trying to pump religion into its citizens, but he was a hopeless job. Mrs. Hammond and her daughter Ruth, owned a large ranch near Tidell, as well as the local hotel. Ned Singleton and his pal Harvey Gates, two counterfeiters, had, five years previous to our story, settled in Tidell, and now practically owned and controlled the town. The Sunday morning when the lawless element was particularly daring and a big free for all fight was raging in the streets, into this turmoil rode Jack Livingston, a daredevil of the range, known the length of the coast as "Fresh Water Jack," called fresh water because he drank nothing else, and daredevil because he loved excitement and was always ready to take any chance.

The lawless element knew this and feared him, so this Sunday morning he was not only able to stop the fight, but compelled them all to attend the services in the little church, and for the first time in their rough lives, to get down on their knees and pray. This action incurred the hatred of Singleton and the lawless element, while it earned favor in the eyes of the clean citizens, who elected him mayor and he proceeded to clean up the town.

Driven out of the saloon business, Singleton and Gates have now come back to counterfeiting; they now buy the Hammond ranch and Hotel with their counterfeit money. "Freshwater Jack" discovers the fraud and captures the counterfeiters, delivers them to justice, winning the love and esteem of pretty Ruth Hammond. Also showing "Tattle-Tail" a comedy.

Easy-going men generally find going hard.
