DOINGS OF THE DUFFS

Little Catherine, aged between five and six years, got on a street car with her mother and, being anxious to pay her fare, handed the conductor a dime, receiving two cents in change. Discovering the mistake, she said to the conductor: "You charged me too much. I ain't worth eight cents."

THEATRES

ROMANCE AND THRILLS IN NEW FILM FEATURE

"The Kentucky Derby" Coming to the Arcade Theatre "Bred in Old Kentucky."

Here's a new Kentucky recipe with a kick to it.

Take a hot-tempered old Kentucky Colonel, named Moncrief Gordon, for instance.

Take his son, Donald, a hot-headed independent chip off the old block. Add Alice Rans, beautiful and sweet, but the orphaned daughter of a stableman.

Throw in a female vamp who wants to "catch" Donald, and her accomplice, a "false" Gordon.

Agitate with another hot-tempered Colonel, with money to back his race-horses against the Gordon thoroughbreds.

Sugar to taste, but do not crush the mint, sub, and you fill have a delightful a confection as ever was brewed in old Kentucky.

That's just what King Baggot has turned out for us in "The Kentucky Derby," a Universal-Jewel picture adapted from Charles T. Dazey's famous stage melodrama.

With Reginald Denny as Donald Gordon, Emmett King as Col. Gordon, Lillian Rich as Alice, Gertrude Astor and Walter McGrath as the "vamp" and her accomplice, and with Lionel Belmore as the other Colonel, Universal has produced a thrilling story of the Blue Grass region. Besides its Kentucky and race-track scenes it is set to contain thrilling scenes on the high seas and in foreign ports.

"The Kentucky Derby" is to be shown at the Arcade Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Much of it actually was filmed on the thoroughbred stock farms near Lexington and Louisville, Kentucky.

AT SHERRY—LAST DAY

Betty Compton's Picture — "The Bonded Woman."

Beautiful Betty Compton in a beautiful story of regeneration, beautifully produced.

That was the attraction which proved a lodestone at the Sherry Theatre last night when "The Bonded Woman" opened to a capacity audience of delighted patrons. This strong dramatic presentation has its basis in a story by the late John Fleming Wilson.

Miss Compton appears as Angela Gaskel, daughter of a sea captain. Attracted by Lee Marconi, a partner in the shipping firm. Her father's life is saved by John Somers, his first mate. Angela learns that Somers has a craving for liquor. Her gratitude impels her to take an interest in him. Angela discovers that she does not love Marv and that her sole desire is to save Somers from his weakness. She follows him to the South Seas, where they are wrecked on a desert island, and he finds strength to save himself while both find love for each other.

Popular elements are a thrilling storm at sea, and several realistic shipwrecks. The interior of a Honolulu sailors' resort, with its dancing girls and other diversions, furnishes a colorful background. John Bowers and Richard Dix contend for the star's favor—each is a well-known leading man. Ethel Wales contributes one of her amusing character roles. J. Farrell MacDonald is the sea captain, and William Moran is a believable villain. Philip E. Ross directed and J. C. van Trees photographed.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed with Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmothers' recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mustard mix at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustrous appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

A La Grande man tells of an old darkey who was out for cat fish in the Mississippi yawl. He landed a big one that pulled him overboard. As he crawled out spitting mud, he yelled: "What I wants I know is, is dis nigger fishin' or is his catfish niggerin'?"
