JUNIOR GIRLS WIN TOURNEY

In the last hectic struggle of the interclass feminine hoop contests, the Juniors waded through the muck and mire of the fight, winning by one point, the final count being 15 to 16 with the Seniors' hopes dashed to the ground. The game, which took place last evening in the high school gym after school, was thrilling and hair-raising—ask any of the players. The Seniors' hopes were pinned on their star performer, who somehow or other failed to beat the Juniors. Much grief permeates the atmosphere but it oozes not from the Juniors, winners of the purple honors.

Preparations ar[e] new being made for the coming of the first team schedule and Miss Jocelyn, coach, will soon begin to line up the material and complete the schedule.

The final standings of the class series were: Juniors, three won; Seniors two won and one lost; Sophomores, one won and two lost; Freshmen, goose-egg honors.

TWO DAIRY MEETS IN UNION AND COVE

A meeting of dairymen was held at Cove on Wednesday at which about 35 farmers and dairymen were present. They expected W. C. Jamison, dairy specialist, to give an address but on account of inclement weather and flooded conditions in the western part of the state, he was unable to attend. The time was spent in general discussion of dairy affairs and conditions in the business.

Another similar meeting was held Thursday at Union with about forty present.

Robert Withycombe, manager of the Union Experimental Station, addressed the meeting giving a very clear talk on the dairy problems in general.

H. G. Avery, county agent, was present and assisted in the holding of both meetings.

PENDLETON TO TRY FOR STATE HONORS

PENDLETON, Jan. 13.—From a squad of 50 basketball players who competed in the Pendleton high school intramul play Coach Tayler has selected ten men for the high school squad. Practice games will be played with the Tutuilla Indians, various town teams and the American Legion team. Another attempt will be made to take the state championship. Last year Pendleton worked into the finals in the state tournament.

FOURTEEN ARRESTED

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Jan. 13—Fourteen arrests in the 12 hours elapsing between midnight last and noon today marked the most sweeping liquor and narcotics raid ever conducted in Walla Walla county. Warrants are out for four more, one of whom is said to have fled the country, while the other three are being sought.

Preparations for the raid have been going on for several days. Outside officers assisting Sheriff Springer stated that today's raid is the first of a series to clean up the county. So quickly and quietly did the officers work that none had warning until practically all the arrests had been made.

TRIPTYCH TO BE RETURNED

Rome.—The triptych by Pucelnelli, which was stolen from the church of San Francesco more than a year ago and recovered by the police recently, will be returned to the church of San Francesco as soon as it has been carefully pieced and reframed. It represents Santa Anna, with the Virgin and Christ child in the center panel, and S. Lorenzo, San Domenico, St. Simon and Thaddeus on side panels.

Although the police had been searching for twelve months for some trace of the missing triptych no light was thrown either on the way the theft was accomplished or where the painting had been taken. Probably it might still have remained a mystery had not a certain Signor Contini, an amateur art collector, read by chance a description of the triptych which, at least in regard to the central panel, coincided in every detail with a painting of Santa Anna, the Virgin and Christ child, which he had recently bought from an antiquarian in Bergamo and for which he had paid 26,000 lire.

Find Stolen Panels.

He notified the Director of Fine Arts, who sent up to Contini's private gallery an inspector, who carried the painting to the Department of Fine Arts. It proved to be the center panel with a new frame. Once the police were on the track of part of the triptych it was only a short time before they found two of the figures of the side panels.

The dealer at Bergamo gave the authorities the name of the private individual who had sold him the painting. Other antiquarians supplied the name of the artist who had sold them the side panels and a search was started. This artist was Arturo Carobbi and was in prison awaiting trial for the theft of certain antique relics in the church of St. Agostino at Arezzo. After a severe inquiry he confessed that he had stolen the triptych one night in May, 1921. He had hidden at dusk, behind a confessional, and awaited for night to come before admitting his accomplices. They helped him to remove the large frame which was carried to a waiting motor car and taken to Genoa. The town of Fescia is very quiet, where every one goes to bed early, so their movements were in no way watched.

Specialized in Paintings.

At Genoa they removed the frame, carried the side panels with the four figures to a carpenter and asked him to cut each panel into two, so that each saint formed a separate painting. Carobbi was an artist, with a studio at Bermago, and was considered a dilettante who imitated ancient paintings and decorations. He apparently made his living selling these pseudo antiques, for which he received a good price from visiting American and English tourists.

The frame also was divided into separate sections, which formed two frames. All these pieces were sold to antique dealers in various cities in the north.

Carobbi admitted that, though he was supposed to be a dilettante, he was really a professional thief who specialized only in church paintings and sacred objects, for which he received high prices. He had made about 16,000 lire from the triptych, as he was forced to sell the various parts in a hurry, as he feared that the police were on his track. The dealers each made five and six times that amount on each purchase, which they bought without asking any questions, as they thought he had imitated an original.

The thief refused to give the names of his accomplices, as he says that he alone was responsible for the planning and execution.—Agnes R. Mackenzie in the New York Tribune.

WORKER TELLS OF HUNGRY BOYS

"Everywhere our train stopped on my recent visit to the Near East," stated J. J. there was nothing to be bought in the country, and the best we could do was to give them the scrapings from our plates. This boy with his fellows eagerly took these scrapings. Like other children in the Near East, they had been eating garbage, clay, grass, chaff or anything that would quiet the pangs of hunger."

Mr. Handsaker is in La Grande in the interests of the Near East Relief work.

A. E. Pryke, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. of La Grande, has consented to act as chairman of the Near East Relief work in this county.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94 % AIR

BEATS ELECTRIC OR GAS

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94 per cent air and 6 per cent common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, V. M. Johnson, 31 N. Fifth St., Portland, Ore., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

HUNGRY WOLVES THREATEN U. S.

(By The Associated Press.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 13.—Northern sections of the United States are threatened with invasion by packs of hunger-mad wolves from Canada, and untold damage is likely as a result of attacks on sheep and cattle, Director W. T. Hornaday of the Bronx zoo, said Friday after an intensive study of the alarming increase of gray timber wolves within the last few years.

The rapid increase in the number of gray wolves, according to Director Hornaday, is due to present low raw fur prices. Two years ago, he said, wolf skins brought from $20 to $60 in New York, while today prices range from $5 to $15.

PAYMENTS OF TAX EXPLAINED

PORTLAND, Jan. 13.—Blanks for the use of individual taxpayers in making out their income tax reports for the year 1922 were today mailed by Clyde G. Huntley, collector of internal revenue, to every taxpayer who filed a return for the year 1921. These returns must be made out and be accompanied by a payment of at least one-fourth of the amount of the tax, or, in the option of the taxpayer, the entire amount may be pair at the time of the filing, although the government urges payment of the tax in full on or before March 15. Where the taxpayer pays only one-fourth of his tax when he files his return, he has the privilege of paying the balance in three equal installments on June 15, September 15 and December 15, respectively.

"The law requiring the filing of federal income tax returns for the year 1922 is substantially the same as that governing similar filings for the preceding year," said Collector Huntley today. "Returns must be filed by the following persons:

"Every individual who had a net income of $1000 or more, if single, or if married and not living with husband or wife;

"Every individual who had a net income of $2000 or more, if married and living with husband or wife;

"Every individual who had a gross income of $5000 or more, regardless of whether or not that sum netted him a cent of profit.

"The exemptions are the same as those allowed last year: Single person, $1000; head of a family, or married person living with husband or wife, $2500, unless the net income is in excess of $5000, in which case the exemption is only $2000; for each dependent under 18 years of age or incapable of self support, $400.

"Do not confuse these exemptions with the necessity of filing returns if the net income of a married person is $2000 or the head of a family (not married) is $1000.

"In other words, a single person claiming exemption as the head of a family must file a return if his net income is $1000 or more, notwithstanding the fact that as head of a family he is entitled to an exemption of $2500 as well as $400 for each dependent.

"Likewise every married person, living with husband or wife, in order to claim the exemption of $2500 and $400 for each dependent must make a return although his actual net income for 1922 may have been only $2000.

"In both cases cited, the taxpayer must make a return in order to claim the exemption to which he is entitled under the law, although the application of those deductions may exempt him from the payment of an income tax."

It is not necessary for any taxpayer who filed a return last year to apply to the collector's office for the necessary blank upon which to make his 1922 return. He will receive the required blank through the mail within the next few days.

Collector Huntley announces that blanks for the use of corporations and partnerships will be mailed to interested taxpayers as soon as received from Washington.
