COVE FARMERS PLAN PROGRAM

COVE, Jan. 15.—The farmers of this vicinity are getting busy planning for the summer's output. Tuesday there was a public meeting to discuss the marketing of cherries. Monahan, a man from the Nilbon, Freewater country who handled 35 per cent of the crop there last year, gave a talk at the meeting to show how it is possible for the grower to get more for fruit managed under their co-operative plan.

On Wednesday another group of cherry growers were discussing the marketing of the cherry crop. There was also a dairy meeting in town on Wednesday. Harry C. Avery, county agent, attended this meeting and gave some valuable help on feeds and feeding. He also took up and discussed the subject of alfalfa weevil.

On Thursday a group of berry growers were eagerly discussing marketing conditions. The grower has arrived at a place where he finds it behooves him to try to get a little remuneration for all his toil. There seems to be too many people getting rich handling the farmers' crops while the farmer toils seven long hours and barely receives enough to pay his taxes.

The evangelist, Ford M. Burch, is still holding services at the Baptist church. The house is well filled every evening. There is a morning prayer meeting at 10:30 every day, a Frank Kelly, L. G. Lantz and Dar-hour. On Saturday afternoon there will be a special service for the high school girls.

A farm bureau meeting will be held on January 26 at the city hall. Mrs. A. O. Huntley of Coprum, Idaho, is spending the week with her sister, Mrs. T. W. Conklin.

Mrs. Mary Wagner is seriously ill at her home here.

Mrs. A. Lorenz has just returned from a business trip to Vale, Ore. We are very well pleased that a physician, Dr. Geor of Salem, is located in our midst. He is a regular practitioner and also an eye and ear specialist. At present he is to be found at the Anderson apartments.

Miss Leone Baxter is at home again after spending some time in Union.

Mrs. J. J. Conley, who has been ill with a mild attack of lagrippe, is out again.

The librarian, Mrs. Nellie R. Grace, is very busy these days getting the county library books off.

C. A. Smith has purchased the meat market from E. C. Fulp; consideration $600.00.

The new city marshal Earl Baker, is busy looking after the law breakers.

The bridal couple, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Barker, gave a small dinner on Tuesday evening. The guests honored at this dinner were Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Hefty, Mr. and Mrs. T. Conklin, C. M. and G. G. Stakland. The evening was spent in playing "500".

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Orton gave a small party on Friday evening. "500" was played. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Conklin, the church. Misses Bess Kelly, Esther Saunders, Mildred Payton and the Mesars. prayer meeting at 10:30 every day, a Frank Kelly, L. G. Lantz and Dar-

HOG CHOLERA IN OREGON

W. H. Lytle, State Veterinarian, Discusses the Ways and Means of Combatting Dread Disease.

The hog cholera infection which has been present in Oregon this year started in a very chronic form. This has misled hog growers who have seen cholera in Iowa and the corn states, because there it generally follows a more acute type and really appears quite different from the form of infection that is frequently seen here. However when cold weather and winter conditions are met with, the smoldering chronic infection frequently present here will break out into the acute type and produce equally as extensive losses as are seen in the corn states. The infection present in Oregon was probably introduced through the feeding of pork products carrying the virus of cholera which are frequently fed in garbage gathered from hotels and restaurants. Some of the infection has come through hogs that have been on the fair circuit. Infection apparently broke in some hogs that were shown on the fair circuit last fall. The owners of these hogs did not report the presence of infection and before it was generally known several show herds developed cholera. Some of these herds in turn have been exhibited at local hog shows and fairs and the infection was further disseminated in this manner. Ordinarily hogs that are fed on the grains that are produced in the Pacific Northwest, that is barley and wheat, are some resistant to cholera infection than hogs fed on corn. I do not mean to infer that corn fed hogs will develop cholera unless the are subjected to exposure, but frequently barley and wheat fed hogs will resist infection to a greater extent than corn fed animals. Nearly all of the cholera infected droves of hogs this year have been found to be on corn rations.

A great deal of cholera infection has probably been introduced into the Pacific Northwest through the importation of live hogs for killing purposes by Pacific Northwest slaughter houses. These hogs are on route over a period of ten or twelve days coming largely from Nebraska and the Dakotas. They are, of course, frequently exposed to cholera at some point en route and by the time they are delivered at coast slaughtering points they are occasionally in the first or incubation stage of cholera. At this point of the infection they will not show body or carcass symptoms of the disease, hence carcasses will pass for food purposes. These carcasses are in no way dangerous for purposes of human consumption because humans do not contract hog cholera, however, the virus is frequently present if hogs are permitted to eat any of the uncooked portion of the animal which may be carrying this virus will likely later develop hog cholera. The hog products that come from eastern packing plants carry the same risk because cholera infection is quite prevalent in the middle states this year. Government statistics show that where there are thirty-seven hogs which died from cholera last year for each thousand head of hogs there are forty-eight dying this year for each thousand head of hogs.

The infection subsides generally after the peak has been reached. From peak to peak, the time reaches from seven to ten years. Oregon is probably at the peak of cholera infection at the present time. Owners of hogs should probably vaccinate their animals when they are in infected centers, however, if they do not wish to vaccinate they can afford perhaps ninety per cent protection by carefully observing their herd as soon as the first hog gets sick have the veterinarian examine them and if cholera is present vaccinate the entire herd. The majority of them may be saved. The vaccination costs from thirty-five cents for pigs to $1.25 for mature animals. This is somewhat expensive, but is really cheap insurance and must be regarded as such if vaccination is resorted to before the infection has out in the herd.

1. Laws should be passed requiring all who gather and feed garbage to hogs to go on a strictly vaccination basis. This will control some, but not all, for nearly every farmer feeds some pork products to hogs, much of it which comes from unknown sources. These farm lots are small, generally better housed and kept in more sanitary surroundings and ordinarily will resist the infection. When they once get an infection it is more easy to control.

2. Regulations should be passed requiring all hogs that go on the fair circuit or show at stock exhibitions to be immunized. This is cheap insurance and so long as our shows continue as large as they are it may be said to be practically imperative.

3. Hog diseases where losses are sustained should be immediately reported to the state livestock sanitary board. Dead hogs should be burned to ashes and exposed hogs should be held on the premises. Neighbors should be discouraged from visiting the premises and dogs should be tied up.

4. Lastly, we should not get needlessly alarmed, for in vaccination we have one of the surest protection against hog losses known to science. All we will have to do is to make use of it. Raise the hogs, raise the feed and jump on the Bacon Special and ride to Prosperity.

Constipation.

Constipation of the bowels is a stoppage of the sewerage system that removes waste matter from the body. It is as necessary that your bowels move regularly once each day, to carry off this waste, as it is that the waste pipes of your home be kept open and carry off the waste from the house. If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular by taking Chamberlain's Tablets when needed.—Ad.

DEATH CLAIMS LOCAL INFANT

La Vaughn William Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Baker, passed away at their home at 502 Lake street, Saturday evening, a 8 o'clock. Lavinah was born in Elkhart, Mont., August 26, 1918, age 4 years, 4 months and 13 days. He leaves to mourn his loss father and mother and one brother, Glen. Funeral services will be held at the Baptist church Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, Rev. A. R. Sitton officiating. The remains are at the Snowgrass & Zimmerman parlors. Many of our people will remember this sweet little child as the one held up in the union meeting at the Methodist church last fall when the scripture was read: "Jesus called a little child unto him, and set him in the midst of them, and said: 'Verily I say unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. Whosoever therefore shall be humbled himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven.'"

Little Lavinah manifested such great interest in God's people and all of the Master's work that it distinguished him from others. He had many friends who will regret to learn of his death. His wish that he knew and loved will be full bearers.

ELECTRICAL SAVING IS URGED

"In this issue of the Observer is an appeal to you, in the form of a page advertisement, to save in your use of electricity. A great deal depends upon your cooperation," states J. P. Lottridge, vice-president and manager of the E. O. L. and P. company.

"We are not asking you to help us make money. We are asking you to help us maintain a record for service, which we are justly proud of. For the management of the company, I pledge you a continuation of the policies we have always followed which are briefly, to give good service at a fair cost and to keep pace with the needs of our territory for electrical service.

"Will you read our message in this issue and do what you can to reduce your consumption of electricity for the next two months?"

TWO GAMES ON WEEK'S SKED

The second week of the City League football season will find three teams in action for the first time in the city. The City League will play the Oregon Athletic club and the Oregon Athletic club will play the Oregon Athletic club.

The games will begin at 8 o'clock and a small admission fee will be charged. The site of the double-header will be at the stadium.

FARM BUREAUS TO MEET AT ELGIN

Several important questions relative to the Oregon Grain Growers' Association and their activities will be discussed at Elgin Saturday, January 20th, at an afternoon meeting in the city hall. "What is the Oregon Grain Growers' Association Doing?" and "How Can I Produce Cheaper Farm Crops?" are two of the leading questions to be discussed. The program is as follows: 1:00 p. m. Good Investments for 1923; 1:30 o'clock, "Oregon Grain Growers Association Progress," by a representative from Portland; 2:30 o'clock, "Farm Crop Production," by E. R. Jackson, extension crops specialist of the O. A. C. The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the Union County Farm Bureau.

One good thing about the recent World War was that the bird and his sons who started it did not benefit very much by their action.

STALEY BUYS HOTEL DORION

The Hotel Dorion which has been conducted during the past seven months by Dr. L. U. Temple will be under new management February 1, when J. M. Staley of La Grande will take charge. Mr. Staley has purchased only the hotel equipment, the possession of the building remaining with Dr. Temple.

In addition to the hotel proper Mr. Staley also takes over the upper story of the Temple building which is known as the Hotel Dorion annex. The annex consists of 13 rooms, a part of which is now occupied as offices.

Dr. Temple has operated the hotel for the past seven months and many improvements and general renovations have been made under his direction. The hotel has had generous patronage under his management.

Mr. Staley is a man of 27 years' experience in the hotel business and for the last seven years has been manager of the Hotel Savoy of La Grande. He was the representative of being an efficient hotel manager. Mr. and Mrs. Staley and daughter, Miss Loraine Staley, will arrive in Pendleton soon to assume active charge.

HERRIN TRIAL NEARING END

MARION, Ill., Jan. 15.—A jury of Williamson county farmers will deliver its judgment this week on the Herrin riots. Counsel for the defense Sunday expressed confidence in the speedy acquittal of the five defendants charged with the murder of Howard Hoffman, one of the 28 men slain during the outbreak. Attorneys in charge of the prosecution refused to be quoted.

The story of the tragedy, as unfolded by more than a hundred witnesses for the defense, was one of commercial trickery, and greed culminating in a sudden outbreak of mob violence for which it is claimed none of the defendants can be held accountable.

MARKET HOLDS STEADY TONE

NEW YORK CITY, Jan. 15.—In a week during which the European situation has held an unusual degree of attention, our domestic markets have remained remarkably firm. France's decision to take independent action against Germany and the actual movement of French troops into the Ruhr valley, are events whose effect upon the various markets has long been debated in financial circles and many observers profess to find grounds for reassurance in the calm spirit in which the actual event has been received. Securities have maintained a steady tone, both at New York and London, and the foreign exchanges have shown a quick recovery from apprehensions which developed at the close of the previous week.

UNIQUE CHURCH BUILT IN SOUTH

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15.—Bricks and stones from Westminster Abbey, Charlemagne's tower and old Manila, Crucifixes from Metz and Cavite, old ship lanterns, nails, a pipe organ from Freiburg and Baden and handiwork from the old Spaniards and Italians comprise a portion of the materials said to have been used in the construction and equipment of an unique religious structure located in a secluded arroyo near here.

Abbey San Encino as it is known, is the work of one man entirely, and has been in course of construction for more than eight years. With high buttressed walls of blue granite, tall stained glass windows and high bell tower, it follows the general lines of the old mission style. The red tiles which form the roof were molded and baked by the hands of its lone builder.

Almost every material in the construction of the abbey carries its story. A key, said to have once been Napoleon's, unlocks a large plank door, hung on wrought iron hinges and opening into a great hall. Stones now part of the brick pillars around the patio, are said to have come from the battlefields along the Italian and German fronts.
